

Case.

Shelf.

Book.

W. Goldsworthy.

LIBRARY

OF THE

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY,

AT

PRINCETON, N. J.

DONATION OF

SAMUEL AGNEW,

OF PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Letter.....

No.....

March 15th 1855

#

G.G.G.

by Bishop Hoully then Bishop of Winchester in y^e year 1735.

Given me by the Lady Wager y^e 29th of July, 1735th By Goldsmithy. Green^{with}

A P L A I N
A C C O U N T
O F T H E
N A T U R E and E N D
O F T H E
S A C R A M E N T
O F T H E
Lord's-Supper.

I N W H I C H

All the Texts in the New Testament, relating to it, are produced and explained : and the Whole Doctrine about it, drawn from Them alone.

By Benj. Meadley

To which are added,

F O R M S of P R A Y E R.

The S E C O N D E D I T I O N.

L O N D O N :

Printed for JAMES, JOHN, and PAUL KNAPTON, at the Crown in Ludgate-Street. MDCCXXXV.

THE P R E F A C E.

IN the following Treatise, I have endeavoured to establish and explain the true Nature, End, and Effect, of the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper. The Substance of it is What I preached, many Years ago, in several Sermons, when I had the Care of a Parish in London.

In that Relation, I thought it my Duty always to have a View to the particular Demands of Those I was to instruct. Especially, I esteemed my self obliged to have a very peculiar Regard to the Wants of Some of the Best and most sincere Christians; whom I found often in danger of great Errors, or great Superstition; and too commonly disturbed and perplexed by such Fears and Terrors, as indeed made their Desire of being truly Religious, the Burthen and Misery, instead of the Delight, of their Lives.

As therefore, for the sake of One Sort of Christians, I never ceased to inculcate the Necessity of Universal Obedience to the Will of God; that there might be no hope left to Them of Acceptance, without This: So, for the Defense and Support of Others, in their sincere Endeavors to please God, against all those uneasy impressions of Superstition, which They had a right to be freed from, I made it my care to state and explain the Commands peculiar to Christianity, from the first Declarations of Christ himself, and his Apostles, in such a Manner, as that They might appear to Honest Minds to have as little Tendency to create Distress and Uneasiness, as They were designed, in their first Simplicity, to have. Amongst these, I found that, in no one instance of Christian Duty, there was more need of Assistance, than in this of their Attendance upon the Lord's-Supper; which had been rendered very Uneasy to Them by the Notions They had, by some means or other, embraced about it.

What I then preached, not without some Success, I now publish with the same honest Design of instructing Those who want Instruction; and have no better at hand. I have thrown the Whole into a new Form; and made several Additions to what I first preached, in order to a more clear understanding of this Subject: and this, in such a manner,

a manner, that All who are concerned may, I hope, be led into the right way of judging about it. To this I have endeavored to guide Them by directing and confining their Attention to all that is said about this Duty by Those, who alone had any Authority to declare the Nature of it: neither on one hand diminishing, nor on the other augmenting, what is declared by Them to belong to it.

It ought certainly to be far from the Thoughts of Every Christian, to lessen any Privileges, or undervalue any Promises, annexed by Christ to any Duty or Institution of his Religion. It is an inexcusable Fault wilfully to attempt it: and an inexcusable Carelessness to do it for want of Due Consideration. It is indeed, a Fault, to which No Christian can have the least Temptation: All such Privileges and Promises being of equal Comfort, and of Equal Importance, to All; and the Nature of them such, as that no One can be so much his own Enemy, as not to be willing to find the Truth and Certainty of Them, if He can.

But this, I think, may with truth be said, that an Error of this sort, (should it be supposed) does not really hurt any Christian; nor alter the Effect of the Duty at all. GOD will certainly perform what He has promised to Every One who partakes of the Lord's-Supper worthily, notwithstanding that One Man

Man may think He has promised less, than Another thinks He has. But on the other hand, to magnify the Meaning of figurative Expressions into Certain Benefits never spoken of plainly in other places; so as to annex to this One Duty such Blessings and Privileges as belong only to the whole System of Christian Practice, is an Error (supposing it one) of quite another Nature. It seems to me to pervert the Design of the Gospel; as it leads Men to make Themselves easy in the Performance of This, as distinct from Those Duties, upon which our Acquittance at the Day of Judgment is constantly and uniformly put. It is apt to make Them expect what GOD has never promised: and, not resting here, it tends to make Them negligent of those Great Matters of the Gospel, without which He has declared None to be entitled to the Promises and Privileges of it.

If therefore, the Manner, in which I have chosen to treat this subject, should appear to some to stand in need of any Apology; This is the only One I can persuade My self to make, That I have no Authority to add to the Words of Christ, and his Apostles, upon this Subject; nor to put any Meaning or Interpretation upon Those Words, but what is agreeable to the Common Rules of speaking in like Cases, and to the declared

declared Design of the Institution itself: Nay, That it would be, in Me, a sinful Presumption to amuse Christians with greater and higher Expectations, than They, who alone can be depended on, as far as I can judge, have given them any reason to entertain. If I have arrived at the full Meaning of what Our Lord, and his Apostles, have taught about it; I have what alone I ought to aim at: and it will be of little importance, from how many and how great Men I differ. This I can say with Truth, that, whenever I differ from Them, I do it with a great Concern on my own part, and a great Respect towards Them: so far from being inclined to it, or pleased with it, that it would have been a Pleasure to Me not to have found a necessity for doing it; and will now be a Satisfaction to Me to be set right in any Point, small or great, in which I may have judged amiss.

But, how different soever from Mine, the Opinions of Any may be; through the strength of a long Prepossession, or of a Superior Judgment: yet certainly, All who (in the Apostle's phrase) love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity; (or, as the word is, in Incorruption;) and who desire to be no wiser about his appointments, than He himself was; and are content to expect no more from his Institution, than He himself put into it; will join with Me at least in the one only Method
of

viii The P R E F A C E.

of Examining into the Nature and Extent of it. And all such persons will be candid in judging Another, even supposing Him in an Error: when it is so plain in this Case, that Nothing could lead him into it but a sincere Desire that the Doctrine of Christ alone should prevail, in a Matter, which must depend upon His Will, as far as He has declared it; and can depend upon Nothing else.

In a word, I have here endeavored to represent One of our Lord's Institutions, in its original Simplicity. And if what I have done shall prove at all successfull in removing any Error, or Superstition, from this part of Christianity; I shall esteem my Pains well bestowed. The best Preservative against the chief attempts of Unbelievers, I am persuaded, is to shew the Religion of Christ to the World, as He left it; and the greatest service to Christianity, is to remove from it whatever hinders it from being seen as it really is in itself. Nor can I think any Time more truly seasonable to guard against Superstition of any sort, than when Infidelity is making it's Efforts: Which is ever seen to draw its main Strength from the Extravagancies and Weaknesses of Christians; and not from the Declarations of Christ, or his Apostles.

A P L A I N.

A

PLAIN ACCOUNT

OF THE

NATURE and END of the SACRAMENT of the LORD'S SUPPER, &c.

Y present Design is to give as good Instructions as I can, to honest and well-disposed Christians, for the right Performance of that Duty, which is now generally called, Receiving the Sacrament: but, in the most antient phrase, was called partaking of the Lord's Supper. And, as what I am now writing is intended for Those who have a sincere Desire of knowing what is their Duty, in this Case, in order to practise it in a Manner suitable to the original Design of it; and a Will to exercise, with all due Seriousness, their Right of judging for Themselves in This and all other Duties of Religion in which They are concerned: I shall endeavor to lay down what I have to say, in so plain and intelligible a Manner, that Every Christian, capable of thinking at all upon this Subject, may be able immediately to see whether It conveys to Him the true Notions of this Duty, left us by Christ and his Apostles, or not; and so either receive it, or reject it, as He shall find Cause.

B in

2 The Nature and End of the

PROPOSITIONS.

I. The Partaking of the Lord's Supper is not a Duty of itself; or a Duty apparent to Us from the Nature of things: but a Duty made such to Christians, by the positive Institution of Jesus Christ.

My Meaning is not, That this particular Duty was instituted by Christ, without any previous Reason inducing Him to do it; but that

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 3

that without, or before, his positive Institution, No Reason could appear, to oblige Christians to this particular Rite; and that there cannot Now be Any obligation upon Us, to the conscientious Observation of it, but from His Will, and His Institution.

II. All Positive Duties, or Duties made such by Institution alone, depend entirely upon the Will and Declaration of the Person who institutes or ordains them, with respect to the Real Design and End of them; and consequently, to the due Manner of performing them.

For, there being no other Foundation for them, with regard to Us, but the Will of the Institutors; this Will must of necessity be our Sole Direction, both as to our understanding their true Intent, and practising them accordingly: because We can have no other Direction in this sort of Duties, unless We will have recourse to Mere Invention; which makes Them Our Own Institutions, and not the Institutions of Those who first appointed them.

4 The Nature and End of the

III. It is plain, therefore, that the Nature, the Design, and the Due Manner of partaking, of the Lord's Supper, must of necessity depend upon what Jesus Christ, who instituted it, hath declared about it.

This follows from the two foregoing Propositions. This Duty is made such by Christ's Institution only: that is, It is a Positive Duty, to which we are obliged by his Will alone. All Duties of this sort cannot be known but from the Will of Those who appoint them. And therefore, as He appointed this Duty; His Will alone is to Direct Us in the Knowledge and Practice of it.

IV. It cannot be doubted that He himself sufficiently declared, to his first and immediate Followers, the whole of what He designed should be understood by it, or implied in it.

For, this being a positive Institution, depending entirely upon his Will; and not designed to contain any thing in it, but what He himself should please to affix to it; it must

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 5

must follow that He declared his mind about it, fully and plainly: because otherwise, He must be supposed to institute a Duty, of which no one could have any notion without his Institution; and at the same time not to instruct his Followers sufficiently what that Duty was to be.

V. It is of small Importance, therefore, to Christians, to know what the many Writers upon this Subject, since the time of the Evangelists and Apostles, have affirmed. Much less can it be the Duty of Christians to be guided by what Any Persons, by their own Authority, or from their own Imaginations, may teach concerning this Duty.

The reason is plain: Because, in the matter of an Instituted Duty, (or, a Duty made so by the positive Will of any person,) no one can be a Judge, but the Institutor himself, of what He designed should be contained in it; and because, supposing Him not to have spoken his mind plainly about it, it is impossible that any other person, (to whom the Institutor himself never reveled his design) should make up that defect. All that is added therefore, to Christ's Institution, as a necessary part of it, ought to be esteemed only as the Invention of Those who add it: and the more there is added; (let it be done with never so much Solemnity, and never so great pretences to Authority;) the less there is remaining of the Simplicity of the Institution, as Christ himself left it.

6 The Nature and End of the

I am the more solicitous to observe this, and to impress it upon the minds of Christians, because it is the only thing that can either prevent, or cure, the mistakes and uneasinesses of Many sincere Christians, upon this Subject: it being very certain, that they are owing to the Accounts given of this Religious Duty, in many Books of Devotion; and not to the Original Account of it, laid down in the New Testament; and therefore, that nothing can remedy this Evil for the future, but persuading Christians to have recourse to Jesus Christ, and to Those to whom He himself declared what his Design was in this Institution.

VI. The Passages in the New Testament, which relate to this Duty, and They

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 7

They alone, are the Original Accounts of the Nature and End of this Institution; and the only Authentic Declarations, upon which We of later ages can safely depend: being written by the Immediate Followers of our Lord; Those who were Witnesses Themselves to the Institution; or were instructed in it, either by Those who were so, or by Christ himself; and consent in delivering down one and the same Account of this Religious Duty.

Whatever was truly necessary at first, towards a right Understanding of this Institution, was without doubt contained in the first and earliest Accounts of it. Otherwise, It must be said that the very first Christians, who were called upon to perform this Duty, and who actually did perform it very frequently, were not fully instructed by the Apostles in it. Whatever is necessary for Us of later ages to know of this Duty, must be contained in the Earliest Accounts of It, transmitted to Us; Otherwise, it must be supposed that Those who could best inform Us of the full Intent and End of It, were not permitted or enabled by Almighty God to do it; and that their Account of the Institution, delivered down to Us, is Imperfect, who alone had it in their power to convey it to Us in the fullest and most perfect Manner. But these things cannot be conceived. The Writers of the New Testament being the Earliest of All upon this Subject, and the most certainly acquainted with it; (whether They be considered as Witnesses to the Institution itself, or instructed by Those who were so; or, as afterwards receiving what They taught from Christ himself;) must be the Best, or rather the Only Writers for us to depend upon. Others who followed, whether sooner or later, have no pretenses to the same regard from Us. A very few Years make a great alteration in Mens Notions, and Language, about such Points of Religion. And the distance of Many Years makes a still greater Alteration; whilst Men of Various Opinions, and Strong Imaginations, are continually going on to comment and enlarge upon such Subjects. The New Testament therefore, in this Case, is alone to be depended on: from which We ought, with the greatest care and honesty,

8 The Nature and End of the

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 9
neſty, to take all our Notions of this Duty.

VII. The Writers of the New Teſta-ment give an Account of the Inſtitution of the Lord's Supper, in the following Paſſages; which, therefore, are principally to be regarded: Viz.
St. Matthew, chap. xxvi. v. 26, &c.
St. Mark, chap. xiv. v. 22, &c. St.
Luke, chap. xxii. v. 19, &c. And St. Paul, 1 Cor. chap. xi. v. 23, &c.

St. Matth. xxvi. 26. And as they were eating, Jeſus took bread, and bleſſed it, and brake it, and gave it to the Diſciples, and ſaid, Take, Eat; This is my body.

27. And he took the Cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to Them, ſaying, Drink ye all of it:

28. For this is my Bloud of the New Teſta-ment, which is ſhed for many, for the remiſſi-on of ſins.

St. Mark xiv. 22. And as They did eat, Jeſus took Bread, and bleſſed, and brake it, and gave to Them, and ſaid, Take, Eat; This is my Body.

23. And

10 The Nature and End of the

23. And He took the Cup, and when He had given thanks, He gave it to them: and they all drank of it.

24. And He said unto them, This is my Bloud of the New Testament, which is shed for many.

St. Luke xxii. 19. And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my Body, which is given for you: This do in remembrance of me.

20. Likewise also the Cup after Supper, saying, This Cup is the New Testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

St. Paul, upon occasion of the Indecent and Unchristian Behavior of Some amongst the Corinthians, at the time of their meeting together to partake of the Lord's Supper, lays before them, as the most effectual Cure of their Disorders, the following Account of the Original Institution of this Holy Rite.

1 Cor. xi. 23. For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you; That the Lord Jesus, the same night, in which He was betrayed, took bread:

24. And when He had given thanks, He brake it, and said, Take, Eat; This is my Body, which is broken for you: This do in remembrance of me.

25. After

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 11

25. After the same manner also, He took the Cup, when He had supped, saying, This Cup is the New Testament in my blood: This do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

After this the Apostle adds, as his own Observation drawn from the Institution it self,

Ver. 26. For as often as Ye eat this Bread, and drink this Cup, Ye do shew the Lord's death till He come.

A few Remarks upon the Expressions made use of in these Passages, will be useful; in order to lead Us to their true Meaning, and to a Right Understanding of the Duty appointed in them.

1. In the Words of St. Matthew, here cited, in which it is said of our Lord -- He took Bread, and blessed it, the word it, (which perhaps may have been the occasion of some groundless notions,) is added by our Translators, without any thing in the Original to answer to it, or to require it: for which They themselves thought They had so little reason, that They did not add it to St. Mark, xiv. 22. though the very same Greek word is used by Him. If, instead of this, They had added the Word G O D; the Meaning

12 The Nature and End of the Meaning of the Evangelist would have been truly expressed thus, Jesus having taken Bread, and having blessed GOD, brake it, &c. That this is the one natural Sense of the Word [εὐλογῆσας] in this place, is plain from the Word used by St. Luke and St. Paul, in their accounts of this Institution. They both, after speaking of our Saviour's having taken Bread into his Hands, add, εὐχαριστήσας, having given thanks [viz. to GOD] He brake it, &c. And all the Four now cited speak of the same Action of Our Lord, after the taking of the Bread. Since therefore, the Word which St. Paul and St. Luke use can signify nothing but having given thanks to GOD: and the Word used by St. Matthew and St. Mark naturally and easily signifies the same: and since both the words [εὐλογῆσας and εὐχαριστήσας] are applied and designed to signify one and the same particular Action of Our Saviour; it follows, that the word used by St. Matthew and St. Mark, must signify having blessed GOD, in the Sense of giving thanks and praise to Him; and not having blessed the Bread, in any other Sense, but that of speaking over it words of Praise and Thanksgiving to GOD.

Nay,

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 13

Nay, St Matthew and St. Mark themselves direct Us thus to interpret their own word, relating to the Bread, by their using the word [εὐχαριστήσας, i. e. having given thanks] when They speak of the Cup; the very same word which St. Luke and St. Paul use of the Bread. For no one, I suppose, will say that Blessing the Bread, in any Sense different from what I have now laid down, was any more needful, or agreeable to our Saviour's Design; than doing the same to the Cup, which contained what He calls his Bloud: or that any thing was to be conveyed to the one, which was not to the other. If therefore, this same Action of bleſsing, in speaking of the Cup, is expressed, in St. Matthew and St. Mark, by a word which can signify nothing but giving praise and thanks; this is an Argument that nothing more than this was implied in the word Blessing, used of the Bread, by the same Writers. And indeed, so many Manuscripts of good Note, read this very word [εὐχαριστήσας] in this passage of St. Matthew, concerning the Bread, instead of [εὐλογήσας,] that this latter word may well be thought to have been transplanted hither from St Mark, by some of the Transcribers.

14 The Nature and End of the

2. We cannot but observe the Different Expressions, made use of by these Different Writers, in this short Account of the Words spoken by our Lord Himself, in the very Institution of this Rite.

Take, Eat, This is my Body, is all that St. Matthew and St. Mark relate, as said by our Lord, concerning the Bread. St. Paul and St. Luke are larger, This is My Body which is given, (broken) for you : and both add, This do in remembrance of Me. In the Account of the Cup, Christ is represented by St. Mark as saying, This is my Bloud, of the New Testament, which is shed for Many : St. Matthew adds, for the remission of Sins. St. Luke expresses it, This Cup is the New Testament in my Bloud, which is shed for You. St. Paul says the same ; and adds, as our Saviour's own words, This do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of Me. From this Different Manner of Expression it is evident that the Apostles and Evangelists, even in giving an Account of an Institution, which depended entirely upon our Lord's own Declarations, and was to be a standing Rite in the Christian Church, were not superstitiously scrupulous in numbering his Words ; nay, nor solicitous to relate the very

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 15

very Words, and those only, which He made use of. Some record fewer Words, and some more: and all plainly think it sufficient to represent exactly the Intent of the Whole.

It was enough to record these Words concerning the Bread, Take, Eat, This is my Body; at a time, when all Christians could not but know, from the Mouths of the Apostles themselves, that this Rite was to be continued in the Church, as a Memorial of Christ. But St. Luke's and St. Paul's addition of these Other Words, as spoken by our Saviour upon the same occasion, This do in remembrance of me; which Words St. Paul adds also to the Institution of the Cup: This I say, is of great use, to put that matter out of all doubt, in later ages. For, if This was appointed to be done in remembrance of Christ, after his Death, or, after his Body should be broken, and his Bloud shed; it follows that the Institution was designed and ordained equally for all Ages of the Church, and for all Christians in every Age. If to this We add the Practice of the Corinthian Christians, who plainly thought Themselves obliged to meet for this purpose; and St. Paul's Instructions already ready

16 The Nature and End of the

ready cited, with relation to the Original Institution and Design of such Meetings, the Truth of this will be still more confirmed. For, in these, He is so far from permitting Them to lay aside their Attendance upon the Lord's Supper; that He urges the Authority and End of the Institution itself, as an argument for their attending upon it in such manner as to answer that End; and indeed strongly in words asserts our obligation to shew the Death of Christ, in this particular way, till his coming again to Judgment.

Again, with regard to the Cup; Two of These Writers report the Words to have been, This is my Bloud of the New Testament, or rather, Covenant. The other Two say, This Cup is the New Covenant in my Bloud. Which of the two was the very Expression, is of little importance: since They both (as will appear by and by) tend to the same End; and design the same thing. And in the meanwhile, these inconsiderable Differences in Expression will furnish Us with an argument that the Apostles and First Writers did not understand the Words of the Institution to relate to Christ's Body and Bloud in a literal Sense. For,

3. This

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 17

3. This is particularly to be observed: That the whole Tenor and Form of this Institution, is in the Figurative Way of Speaking: and that All Expressions in it of the same sort, ought to be understood in the same manner. For instance, The Cup, in the Words recorded by St. Luke and St. Paul, is allowed not to signify the Cup, but the Wine in the Cup. This Wine is allowed by All, not to be itself the New Covenant; nor to be changed (or transubstantiated) into the New Covenant; but only to be the Memorial of the New Covenant. If therefore, the Cup, in the words of the Institution, be not the Cup; but the Wine in it: If the Wine in it be not itself the New Covenant; tho' declared to be so as expressly as the Bread is declared to be Christ's Body, or the Wine his Bloud: it follows, by all the rules of Interpretation, agreeably to the Way of speaking throughout the Whole, that the Bread and Wine are not the Natural Body and Bloud of Christ, but the Memorials of his Body and Bloud. To say the contrary, is to affirm that the same manner of Expression, in the same short Institution of a Religious Rite, in one part of it must be interpreted figuratively, merely to avoid Absurdities; and in another part of it,

C

it,

18 The Nature and End of the

it, must be interpreted literally, notwithstanding the greatest heap of the same sort of Absurdities.

The truth is, These figurative Expressions are not only what were then agreeable to the Expressions used amongst the Jews; but what have been, and are still, common to all Countries, and all Languages: and used without scruple by all Speakers, in Every Case, in which the plain Absurdity of a literal sense is supposed to make it impossible for the Hearers to understand them literally. No Christian in the world, Learned or Unlearned, ever thought that Our Saviour was a Vine, or a Door; tho' he expressly affirms Himself to be Both. [Jo. xv. 1. X. 7.] Nor could the Expressions now before Us ever have come to stand in need of This, or any other, Explication amongst Common Readers; had not the Teachers in the Church of Rome endeavoured to throw a Cloud of Darkness over them. This made me think it not amiss to put a plain and easy Argument into the Mouth of every Christian of common sense, taken from the Institution itself; viz. That as what is said about the Cup is acknowledged to be figurative; so what is said of the Bread and Wine,

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 19

Wine, in the same Institution, must also be allowed to be so, by the same Rule of Interpretation: and that therefore, as the Cup containing the Wine, is a Memorial only of the New Covenant in Christ's Bloud, and not the New Covenant itself; so the Bread is the Memorial only of his Body, and the Wine the Memorial only of his Bloud, and not his Natural Body and Bloud. To remove all absurd and Superstitious Notions from this plain Institution, is the first Step towards a Due Attendance upon it, in its original Simplicity.

4. From hence We may be led to the true Interpretation of all the Expressions made use of, in the several Apostolical Accounts of this Institution. If We put them all together; and consider them all as spoken by Our Saviour Himself; the sense of them may be thus expressed. “ Take, and Eat, “ this Bread now broken: which I call my “ Body, at this time considered by Me “ as actually given, broken, and deprived of “ life, for your good; tho’ not yet done, “ as You certainly know, who now see Me. “ But I now give you this Bread, and call “ it my Body, in order to shew You that “ You are to take and eat Bread, in this

20 The Nature and End of the “ manner, after my Death; and to intro“ duce my Command to you, to do this;

 “ to break and eat Bread, in remembrance “ of Me, and of my Body broken, after it “ shall be broken, and after I shall be re“ moved from You. In like manner, Drink “ ye All of this Cup, i. e. of the Wine in “ it, which I now call my Bloud, tho’ I “ have not yet shed it; in order to shew “ you that you are to drink of Wine, in “ this manner, in remembrance of my Bloud, “ after it shall be shed for your good, and “ the good of Many others, whose Sins shall “ be forgiven according to the Terms of “ my Gospel. Upon this account I now call “ this Cup, i. e. this Wine, My Bloud of the “ New Covenant, as it is to be drunk by you “ hereafter in Remembrance of my Bloud, “ shed by Me, in testimony to the Truth “ of All that I have declared as the Will or “ Covenant of God; containing what He “ promises on His part, and what He “ requires all Believers to undertake, “ on their part. And for the same reason, “ I style this Cup, or this Wine, the New “ Covenant in my Bloud; because you are “ hereafter thus to drink Wine in a Reli“ gious Remembrance of my Bloud, in, or “ thro’

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 21

“ thro’ which, after it shall be shed, this “ New Covenant will be confirmed, as by “ a Seal or Testimony to the truth of It; “ in order to assure You the more un“ doubtedly of the Remission of your Sins, “ stipulated in that Covenant, upon true “ Repentance and Amendment. When there“ fore, You shall meet together, as my Dis“ ciples, after I shall be taken from you, “ Drink ye All of Wine, for this purpose, “ Perform this Action of drinking Wine, in “ Memory of my Bloud thus shed for you:
“ And, * As often as ye shall meet to drink “ Wine, professedly for This purpose; take “ care that ye always do it, not as drink“ ing at a common Meal, but in a Religi“ ous remembrance of Me.” To return,

These Passages from Four of the first Writers, which I have now set before the Reader, in their natural Meaning, are All the Passages in the New Testament, which give us an Account of the Institution of the

* This seems to be the plain Meaning of those words recorded by St. Paul, This do ye, as oft as Ye drink it, in remembrance of Me: which, thus understood, are far from being Tautology, or signifying, Do this as oft as Ye do it; as some have thought, and therefore have introduced another Interpretation, of which They are hardly capable.

22 The Nature and End of the Lord's Supper. And certainly, one cannot imagine any Positive Institution, of greater plainness and simplicity. The Original Account of it, We see, (and We may be sure, That is the best,) takes up but two or three small verses, in any One of the Evangelists; or in St. Paul, who had more occasion, from the Abuses of some Christians, to enlarge upon it. Put the four several Accounts together; (tho', in truth, they are only the same History repeated four times;) They will, all united, hardly make up a few pages of the Least of those Many Treatises, which have been written upon this Subject, since the first ages; and Some of which have indeed, but too much help'd to render That a matter of Intricacy and Terror, (and this chiefly to honest Christians;) which their Master left in the greatest plainness and Simplicity. Let any sincere Christian, of the lowest Understanding, judge, whether more regard ought not to be paid to our Blessed Lord himself, in a point which depended entirely upon his will, than to Any of those, who cannot pretend to have had their instructions immediately from Him; or, Whether it be not more pious (as well as more reasonable;) to believe that our Lord himself declared His mind

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 23

mind sufficiently, about his own Institution, to his own immediate Followers; than to imagine that He left it to be declared for Him, by Men who should live, one hundred, or five hundred, or a thousand, or near two thousand Years, after the first Institution of this Duty. I say not this to reflect upon any Well-meaning Writers, or any Men of sincere piety: but merely because so much of Superstition and Terror has been infused into the Minds of Many Honest Christians; that it is become highly proper, and indeed necessary, to put them in mind that the Lord's Supper is the Institution of Christ himself, and not of Any of their Fellow-Christians; and that They must seek, in His words, and the Declarations of his Apostles, for all that is contained in it, or can be necessary towards the due partaking of it. This being now laid down; and the Passages of the New Testament, relating to the Institution of this Duty, having been before produced and explained; I proceed to Another Proposition.

VIII. It appears from these Passages that the End for which our Lord instituted this Duty, was the Remembrance of Himself; that the Bread, to be taken and eaten, was appointed to be the Memorial of his Body broken; and the Wine to be drunk, was ordained to be the Memorial of his Bloud shed: Or, (according to the exprefs Words of St. Paul) That the One was to be eaten, and the Other to be drunk, in REMEMBRANCE of Christ; and this to be continued, until He, who was once present with his Disciples, and is now absent, shall come again.

This alone may furnish even the unlearned Christian with a short but plain Argument to prove the absurdity and Falshood of the Doctrine of Transubstantiation, or Change of the Bread and Wine into the Natural Body and Bloud of Christ; or of any Bodily presence of Christ in this Rite.

The doing any Act, in remembrance of a Person, implies his Bodily Absence; and if He is corporally present, We are never said, nor

nor can We be said, to perform that Action in order to remember Him. And therefore, It being declared, in the places before-mentioned, that the End of this Institution was the Remembrance of Christ; it must follow from hence that to eat and drink, in the Lord's Supper, must be, To eat and drink in a sense consistent with the Notion of this Remembrance: and therefore, that to suppose, or teach, that Christians eat his Real Natural Body, in remembrance of his Real Natural Body; and drink his Real Bloud in remembrance of his Real Bloud; is to teach that They are to do Something, in order to remember Him, which at the same time supposes Him corporally present; and destroys the very notion of that Remembrance; and so, directly contradicts the most important Words of the Institution itself.

Add to this that St. Paul, from his own Account of the Institution, delivered to the Corinthians, concludes expressly that, as oft as Christians eat this Bread and drink this Cup, They (He does not say, feed upon Christ now corporally present; but the contrary, They) shew, or tell forth, by these Actions, his Death, till He come: that is, until the time when He shall again be corporally rally present with Them. This strongly implies the Belief of his Bodily Absence to be even necessary to this Duty: and that his Bodily Presence is utterly inconsistent with it; and whenever it shall be, will put an End to a Rite, instituted only for the Remembrance of him, during his Absence. They therefore, who require Christians to believe, that They feed, in the Lord's Supper, upon Christ's natural Body present, do in effect forbid them to eat this Bread in remembrance of his Body. Neither will They suffer them to shew forth Christ's death, till He shall come again and be present, whilst They teach them that He is now corporally present with them.

26 The Nature and End of the

The same may be said of the Doctrine, taught by the same Persons, of a Real Sacrifice of Christ's Body, offered by the Priest, in this Holy Ceremony: viz. That it contradicts the very Words of the Institution; in which the Remembrance of an Absent Body broken, not the offering of a Present Body, is declared to be the End of this Religious Action. I say, the very Words: for this is not left to be deduced by Consequences drawn from Scripture-Words; but declared in the Words themselves.

These

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 27

These Arguments, drawn from the great End of the Institution itself, are more plain and Easy to Common Understandings, than Those which are taken from the Absolute Impossibility of the Thing itself: which, tho' They are strong, and never to be truly answered; yet, give the Adversaries a much greater opportunity of perplexing and confounding the Ignorant with Disputes about the Power of an Almighty GOD, and the Nature of Body. For, in the present Case, I hope, Every Common Understanding will see the Force of what I have been arguing from the Words of the Institution itself: viz. " The Lord's Supper was expressly designed for the Remembrance of Christ, after He should be taken away: Therefore, Christ, who is to be remember'd, cannot at the time of such Remembrance be corporally present." Again, " The Bread and Wine were ordained for Memorials of his Body broken, and Blood shed, for Us. Therefore, His Natural Body and Blood must be absent, in order to be remember'd by means of such Memorials." And again, " They themselves cannot be the Memorials of themselves, in this Rite. For nothing can be eaten, or drunk, in remembrance of itself. The contrary Notion is a plain " Absurdity.

28 The Nature and End of the “ Absurdity. Therefore, It cannot be the “ Natural Body and Bloud of Christ which “ is eaten and drunk in the Lord's Supper : “ but Something else, [viz. Bread and “ Wine] in remembrance of Them.” All this is founded upon the plain Notion of the word Remembrance, as used in this Rite :

 and this Remembrance is expressly mentioned, in the original Institution, by St Luke; and more remarkably by St Paul, as a part of the Institution, received by Him from our Lord himself: and consequently, it is this Remembrance which constitutes the very Nature of this Holy Rite. It cannot therefore, be an Offering, or Sacrificing, a pre- sent Body ; because This is not doing (as we are commanded) One thing, in order to remember and celebrate Another ; but is in truth pretending to do a Thing, in remem- brance of itself: which is an Absurdity.

It ought to be remarked also that the phrase of Feeding upon Christ's Body and Bloud, and all like to it, when used by Those who disclaim the notion of eating his Natural Body, are very figurative Expressions ; and not so peculiarly proper to this Rite , as Those Expressions which strictly preserve that essential Notion of Remembrance, without which This part of Christian service ceases to be what it was designed

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 29

signed to be by its Great Institutor: And indeed, We so long only strictly keep up to the Original Institution, whilst We consider it as a Rite to be seriously performed in remembrance of an Absent Saviour; and take the Bread and Wine, as Memorials of his Body broken, and his Bloud shed; and not as the Things themselves, in Remembrance of which They were ordained to be received.

IX. Whoever therefore, in a serious and Religious Sense of his Relation to Christ, as his Disciple, performs these Actions of eating Bread and drinking Wine, in remembrance of Christ, as of a Person corporally absent from his Disciples, most certainly performs them agreeably to the End of the Institution declared by Christ Himself, and his immediate Disciples.

The Behaviour of our blest Lord, before his Crucifixion, whilst He was alive and present with his Disciples; I mean, his taking Bread and Wine, and distributing Them to be eaten and drunk; and his adding

30 The Nature and End of the

ing this Direction, Do this in remembrance of Me; His declaring One to be designed by Him as a Memorial of his Body actually given and broken, and the Other to be a Memorial of his Bloud actually shed; as the Words used exactly signify: This part, I say, of our Lord's Behavior must relate to what His Disciples were to do, after He should be taken from them. They could not do the Actions here named, in remembrance of Him, whilst He himself was corporally present with Them: nor in remembrance of any thing done, which was not then done and past. But after his Death, They could. For then, tho' not before, They could eat Bread, and drink Wine, in remembrance of his Body actually given and broken; and of his Bloud, actually shed and poured forth, for the good of his Followers. This Remembrance of Christ, during the time of his Bodily Absence, was by Himself and his Apostles, declared to be the End of this Positive Institution. Those sincere Believers therefore, who eat and drink for this purpose, or, in Remembrance of Him, certainly do these actions agreeably to the End proposed in it. On the contrary, I fear it must follow that They who have attempted
to

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 31

to introduce into this Rite, the natural Body and Bloud of Christ; and a Real Sacrifice of a present Body; have not only endeavoured to introduce Endless Absurdities into a plain Duty: but have presumed to destroy, as far as they can, the Whole Nature and End of our Lord's own Institution; and cannot be said to celebrate the Lord's Supper, agreeably to the Institution, in remembrance of Christ; but only to act over a Ceremony of their own Invention, and of quite another sort.

X. There being Other Passages of the New Testament, besides those already cited, which occasionally relate to this subject: It is of importance to all Christians to consider them; and to examine what farther Instructions They contain about this Holy Rite.

I. The first of those I mean, is in I. Cor. chap. x.

Ver. 16. The Cup of Blessing, which We bless, is it not the Communion of the Bloud of Christ? The Bread which We break,

32 The Nature and End of the break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Christ?

17. For We being Many, are one Bread and one Body: for We are all partakers of that One Bread.

18. Behold Israel after the Flesh: Are not They which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the Altar?

19. What say I then? That the Idol is Any thing, or that which is offered to Idols, is Any Thing?

20. But I say that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, They sacrifice to Devils, and not to God: and I would not that Ye should have fellowship (or Communion) with Devils.

21. Ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord, and the Cup of Devils. Ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's Table, and of the Table of Devils.

This whole Passage was occasioned by the State of the Corinthian Christians, with regard to the Heathens then all around them. And the Intent of it, I think, may be truly expressed in the following Paraphrase. Ver. 16. "When We Christians, in "our Religious Assemblies, partake in com"mon of the Cup of Blessing; or, the "Thanks-

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 33

“ Thanksgiving-Cup, the Cup * over which “ We speak good Words of Praise and “ Thanksgiving to G O D ; do We partake “ of this, as drinking Wine provided for “ an ordinary Entertainment ? No certainly ; “ but as Wine appointed to be a Memorial “ of the Bloud of Christ shed for Us. Is “ it not therefore, in its plain Design, the “ Joint-partaking (or Communion) of That “ which brings to Remembrance, and in his “ Institution is called, His Bloud ? When “ in the same Solemnity We break and eat “ Bread, Is not this the Joint-partaking “ (or Communion) of That which is ap“ pointed for the remembrance of his Body,
“ and is therefore by Him call'd, His Body ;

* Thus the words, the Cup of Blessing [εὐλογίαι] which we bless, [ὁ εὐλογῶμεν] appear to signify, beyond all reasonable doubt. Our Blessed Lord's giving thanks over the Bread, at the Institution of this Rite, is expressed by St. Matthew and St. Mark by the same word [εὐλογῶντες.] This Cup in the Lord's Supper answered to the Cup solemnly drunk at the Paschal Supper, and called by the Jesus the Cup of Thanksgiving, or the Thanksgiving-Cup. And thus St. Crisostom and Theophylact, (who both lived after much Ceremony and high language were brought into this Institution) interpret these words of St. Paul to signify “ The Cup over which We “ give Praise and Thanksgiving to Him who poured out his “ Bloud for Us ;” &c.

34 The Nature and End of the

“ and not the Eating Bread as at an ordi“ nary Meal * ? Ver. 17. I say, The JOINT- “ partaking : For such is the Nature of “ this Rite, that it is a Common parta- “ king of Bread in an Assembly, and not the “ particular Action of every Man in private.
 “ And for this very reason, because it is One “ Bread, or Loaf, of which We thus joint“ ly partake in common, We, tho’ many “ particular Persons, do in effect by this

* Dr. Clarke, in his Expos. of the Ch. Cat. p. 314. speaking of the Lord’s Supper, “ We enlarge, says He, by this Communion of Christians that Sacred Bond of Universal Love,--- “ Charity. For, the Bread which We break, is it not the “ Communion of the Body of Christ ? the Communion of all “ the Members of Christ’s Body, one with another ?” Yes, certainly it is so. But when that Great Man gave this as the sense of this particular Expression in this place, He did not call to mind these Words immediately going before, in the same verse, “ The Cup---Is it not the Communion of the Bloud “ of Christ ?” From whence it is plain that St. Paul was here speaking of the Two things, (the Wine and the Bread,) of which Christians partake in this Rite. And therefore, tho’, in other passages, the whole Body of Christians is called the Body of Christ; and tho’ St. Paul here goes on to prove Christians to be One Body from this Social, partaking of One and the same Bread; yet, in this particular verse the Body of Christ no more signifies that Society, than the Bloud of Christ does: no more indeed, than the words, My Body, in the Institution itself, can be supposed to signify, My Society of Disciples. For St. Paul is not in this verse speaking of the Body of Christ (i. e. Christians) partaking of the Lord’s Supper; but of that Body of Christ, of which Christians partake, in it.

“ declare

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 35

“ declare ourselves to be One Body, or So“ ciety. Or, As the Eating Bread together “ is the usual Symbol of Union in Society a“ mongst Men; so We, gathered together “ in One company, and partaking of the “ same Bread, acknowledge Ourselves by “ this Act, to be One Body; and as Chris“ tians, by this We declare Ourselves and “ our Fellow-Christians One society, (distinct “ from the Body of the Heathen World,) “ devoted and subject to Christ, as our com“ mon Head. Ver. 18. In the same manner, “ amongst the Jews, the Persons, who eat “ Any part of what has been sacrificed up“ on the Altar of the true God, by this “ Act, are supposed, and profess Themselves, “ in effect, to partake of this Flesh, not as at “ an Ordinary Meal, but as of Flesh that has “ been offered upon the Altar of the True “ God; and consequently, own Themselves “ by This, to be His People, and Worship“ pers of Him, in a peculiar Sense, as truly “ as if They themselves had offered this “ very Flesh, as a Sacrifice, upon his Al- “ tar. Ver. 19. “ When I apply this to the “ Heathens around You, and the Sacrifices “ to their Idols, I do not mean to affirm “ that the Idols in their Temples, to D 2 “ which

36 The Nature and End of the

“ which they offer sacrifice, are any Real “ Beings; or that what They sacrifice to “ Them is in truth, even after such sacri- “ fice, at all different in itself from any “ other Common Flesh; or that You may “ not, with regard to the True Nature of “ things, and to Your own Consciences only, “ as lawfully and as innocently eat of this “ Flesh thus sacrificed, as of any other.
 “ V. 20. But this I say, That the Heathens “ themselves certainly think of these Of“ ferings, and intend them, as Sacrifices, “ (not to Nothing, but) to some Real Be“ ings, to whom they imagine them to be “ acceptable. And since it is not to the “ One only supreme God, that these Sa- “ crifices are made in their Temples; but “ professedly to some Inferior Beings, or Dæ- “ mons, whom They thus honour as Gods: “ upon this account it is, that I would not “ that Ye should be Joint-Partakers, or “ appear to be Communicants, with the Hea- “ thens around you; by eating of those “ things, in common with Them, which “ have been sacrificed in Religious ho“ nour to Those supposed Dæmons. For, “ tho’ by this Action, (as You think right“ ly about their Idols, and their Sacrifices,) “ You

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 37

“ You would mean Nothing but what is in “ itself innocent ; Yet, You would appear “ to join publickly with Those who really “ intend it as an Honour to some Dæmon, “ in derogation to the Worship of the su- “ preme God ; and by eating with Them, “ will be supposed, in common constructi“ on, to perform the same Religious ho“ nour to the same supposed Being ; and “ will thus give Encouragement by your “ Example to their Idolatry.

“ This behavior cannot be justified in “ You. V. 21. For You, who are Christians, “ and therefore, are obliged to discourage “ Every Appearance of that Worship of “ Dæmons which Christ came to abolish, “ cannot, without a great crime, drink at the “ Lord's Supper, in remembrance of Christ's “ Bloud ; and drink also with the Heathens, “ of the Cup which They drink at their “ Feasts in honour to their False Gods.
“ You cannot without guilt partake of the “ Lord's Table, by eating Bread in remem“ brance of Him ; and by this action pro“ fessing Yourselfes His Disciples and in Fel“ lowship with Him : and also partake of “ the Tables of these False Gods, by eating “ of the Sacrifices offered to Them. You

38 The Nature and End of the

“ cannot be really the Disciples of Christ, “ and of any of these False Gods, at the “ same time. Nor can You perform One “ Religious Action in honour to Him; and “ another of the same kind, which, (what“ ever your own Thoughts be) will appear “ to all around you to be performed in “ honour to the Idols of the Heathen; “ without great Inconsistency, and very bad “ Consequences from such a Behavior.

The Apostle's argument in short, is this.
 “ By eating and drinking together, at the “ Lord's Table, You pay a Religious Ho“ nour to Christ, by jointly partaking of Bread “ and Wine, in a Religious Remembrance of “ Him, as Your Master; and by this Parti“ cipation, in common with one another, “ profess yourselves to be One Body, under “ Him the One Head. These very Actions “ of your Religion, therefore, having plain“ ly this Intent and Signification in them, “ make it utterly absurd and inexcusable for “ You to perform the like Actions, under“ stood to be done in honour of those False “ Gods whose Worship He came to destroy;
 “ and to join with the Heathens, in feast“ ing in their Temples, upon what has been “ Sacri-

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 39

“ Sacrificed by Them in honour to these False “ Gods.”

I thought, it might be of use to be very careful in explaining the Apostle's Argument in this passage, because it does not appear to have been rightly understood. Particularly, I find these Words---The Cup---which we bless, is it not the Communion of the Bloud of Christ? The Bread which we break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Christ? interpreted by many Learned Men to signify a Communion, or partaking, of all the Benefits of Christ's Body broken, and Bloud shed; A Point which, it seems to Me, St. Paul could not have in his Thoughts, as at all proper for his present Argument. On the contrary, I think, that the Words here made use of, cannot have this Signification; and that in this place particularly, St. Paul's Argument neither requires it, nor admits of it.

The Greek Word [Κοινωνία] used by the Apostle, and the Word Communion, which is Latin, both signify a Joint-partaking, or a partaking of something in common with Others of the same Society. And this Joint-partaking of Christ's Body and of Christ's Bloud, can signify no more than Eating his Body and drinking his Bloud, as a Society of his Disciples. So that if St. Paul had here made use of the very Expressions which our Lord used in the Institution of this Rite, They would have appeared thus: When We Christians, assembled in a Body, drink Wine at the Lord's Supper, Do we not drink the Bloud of Christ? and when we eat Bread, Do we not eat the Body of Christ? And the meaning of this would plainly have been, that, in the Lord's Supper, we do not eat and drink Bread and Wine, as at an ordinary Meal; but as Memorials of the Body and Bloud of Christ; in Honour to Him, as the Head of that Body of which We are all Members. And the very same Sense seems the only Sense in which the Communion or Joint-partaking of his Body and Bloud can reasonably be here understood.

40 The Nature and End of the

If we observe the Apostle's Design in this Argument; it will appear that He had not the least occasion to speak here of the Benefits of Christ's Death. His Design was to incite the Corinthians to flee from Idolatry, ch. x. 14. by shewing Them what a Crime it must be in a Christian, to do (what was accounted) Honour to the Gods of the Heathens, by feasting upon, and partaking of, their Sacrifices. In order to do this,
it

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 41

it was not to his purpose to say, “ By eating Bread and drinking Wine in the Lord's Supper, You partake of all the Benefits of Christ's Death; and therefore, You cannot eat of the Heathen Sacrifices.” Neither do I see that this is any Argument at all to the Point in his View. But to say, “ By eating Bread and drinking Wine in the Lord's Supper, You eat and drink, or partake of, Bread and Wine, not as at a Common Meal; but of Bread and Wine, called The Body and Bloud of Christ, in remembrance of which They are appointed to be eaten and drunk: You perform this Religious Rite in honour to Him, and acknowledgment of Him for your Master: Therefore, You cannot without great absurdity and guilt, appear to pay the same sort of Honour to any False Gods, by feasting, with their Votaries, upon their Sacrifices:” This, I say, is an Argument to his purpose; and proves all that He aimed at.

The same thing appears from the Argument the Apostle draws from the Jews: In which He cannot be supposed to have in his thoughts the Benefits to which They were entitled who offered the Sacrifices spoken of; because this has nothing to do with his present tent

42 The Nature and End of the

sent Design; which was plainly to shew Christians that it was a Crime, not only to offer Sacrifices, but to join with the Heathens in feasting in their Temples, upon those Sacrifices so offered, and so eaten, in Honour to some false God. For this He appeals to the Jews: amongst whom, Those who partake of what had been Sacrificed, though not at the very Altar, nor offered by Themselves; yet are accounted Partakers of the Altar itself; or accounted to do an Act of Honour to their God, just as if Themselves had offered these Sacrifices, and eaten at the Altar itself. The Conclusion is, “ So it must be with you Christians, if you “ feast with the Heathens upon their Sacri- “ fices in their Temples, though not offered “ by yourselves.” But it quite alters the whole Intent of this, to represent the Apostle as arguing thus; “ The Jews partaking of “ the Sacrifices, partake of all the Benefits “ accruing to the Offerers themselves; “ Therefore, it will be the same with you “ in the Heathen Feasts.” Nor can I see what Argument can be formed from this. For, in the last place,

Here is nothing to answer to these Benefits, in the opposition made, in the Conclu- sion,

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 43

sion, between the Table and Cup of the Lord; and the Table and Cup of the Dæmons worshipped by the Heathens. Ye cannot drink the Cup of the Lord, and the Cup of Devils: Ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's Table, and of the Table of Devils. This is the Conclusion of the Apostle's reasoning. And this cannot possibly signify, “ Ye cannot be “ partakers of the Benefits of the Lord's “ Table, and of the Benefits of the Table “ of the Heathen Deities :” for no Benefit could possibly be supposed by Him to accrue from These, even to the Heathen-worshippers themselves. But the Inference is, “ Ye cannot, without absurdity and a Crime, “ feast in the Lord's Supper to the honour “ of Christ; and feast also with the Hea- “ thens, in their Temples, upon their Sa- “ crifices.” Consequently, when at the beginning of the argument, and to introduce only this Conclusion, He asks, The Cup --- Is it not the Communion, (or Joint-partaking) of the Bloud of Christ? The Bread, --- Is it not the Communion (or Joint-partaking) of the Body of Christ? He must be supposed to mean, what alone was to his purpose, “ Is “ not our Joint-partaking of Bread and “ Wine, in the Lord's Supper, a Religi-

44 The Nature and End of the “ous partaking of what are Memorials of “Christ’s Body and Bloud; and a Rite, by “which we profess to pay Honour to Christ “as our Lord and Master?” For this was only in order to infer, “If so, we ought “not to feast with the Heathens upon their “Sacrifices, or appear to pay the like ho“nour to any Falsè God.

That this therefore, is the full meaning of the former part of this passage, appears from hence, That it cannot be supposed to contain in it, what has no relation to the Conclusion drawn from it. In this Conclusion, viz. Ye cannot be partakers of the Lord’s Table, and of the Table of Devils, it must be allowed that nothing is said about these Benefits; because otherwise, in the latter part of the Sentence, the partaking of the Table of Dæmons, must signify and imply that Benefits were conveyed, by such participation, to their Worshippers; which cannot be supposed. In the Premisses therefore, which lead to this, it was not the Apostle’s design to speak of the Benefits accruing to Communicants by partaking of the Lord’s Supper; but only of the Significancy of that Rite, as an Act of Religious Honour paid by Christians to their Master.

Add

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 45

Add to this, that, in the former part of this Passage, the very word [Koinwv8s] Joint-Partakers (or Communicants) is made use of, with respect to Devils or Dæmons; and answers to the word [Koinwvia] Communion, or Joint-Partaking, used before concerning the Body and Bloud of Christ: I would not that you should have Fellowship (or Communion) with Dæmons. The sense of the whole verse is plainly this: “ The Heathens “ intend their Sacrifices to supposed Dæmons, “ and not to the True God: And I would not “ have You, who are Christians, partake with “ Them of Any thing, which is intended to “ have Relation to the honour of any False “ God.” How little ground therefore, is there for the Remark of some learned Men, That the word Koinwvia, (Communion) is used where the Inward or Spiritual part of the Lord's Supper is spoken of; and the word metéchein, (Partaking) afterwards used, where the External only is meant: When we see the word Koinwvoi, (Communicants) here used with regard to Idols; where no Spiritual part could be thought of? For the whole argument supposes an Idol to be a Nothing; and the Christians concerned to have no Thought of receiving Good or Hurt from these Idols, or

46 The Nature and End of the

or of paying real Honour to them; and yet, forbids Them to communicate with the Worshippers of them, by joining in that External Act of Feasting, which appeared to tend to the honour of an Idol or False God; and would be turned to an ill use by their Heathen Neighbours. And the same Words being used with regard to Christ, and these Dæmons, [κοινωνία and κοινωνοί, in one verse; and μετέχειν in another;] it follows that Communion, and Partaking, which both signifie, in this Passage, a Partaking of something in common with others, are words of the same Signification in both Cases: and that when the Apostle asks of the Cup which Christians drink, “ Is it not “ the Communion of the Bloud of Christ?” in the first part of the Argument; He means no more than if He had said, “ Is “ it not the partaking of the Cup of the “ Lord?” as He expresses his Conclusion: and that when He asks of the Bread which Christians eat in their Assemblies, “ Is it not “ the Communion of the Body of Christ?” He means no more than if He had ask’d, “ Is not the Table at which We eat this “ Bread, The Table of the Lord?” as He calls it afterwards. In both places, the

Stress

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 47

Stress is laid upon the Design of the Rite, as performed in honour to Christ; and not upon the Effect of it upon the Partakers, or the Benefits accruing to Them. “ You “ in your Assemblies eat Bread and drink “ Wine, in a Religious Remembrance of “ Christ your Master. And therefore, ought “ not to do the like Acts in a supposed “ Honour to the Idols of the Heathen, “ whose Worship He came to destroy,” is the Argument: And the Guilt of such a Behavior is the whole Ground of it.

Before I proceed, it seems worthy our Observation, that, tho' St. Paul found occasion to speak here expressly of Offerings and Sacrifices made to Idols; and of the Altar in the Jewish Temple; yet, when He comes to speak of the Lord's Supper, He does not once represent the Bread and Wine as Things offered, or sacrificed to God upon an Altar; (which He could not have avoided, had He had that Notion of them:) but, in the plainest words, speaks of the Cup of the Lord, and of the Table of the Lord; and not of any Altar, or of any Offering of the Bread and Wine, or any Sacrifice made to God, as upon an Altar. And this, I think, will will be found, a good Argument against the Things themselves.

48 The Nature and End of the

I know, it has been objected to this by Learned Men, of a contrary opinion, that in some places of the old Testament, the Altar in the Temple, acknowledged to be so, and almost always called so, is yet itself call'd a Table; and that therefore, what St. Paul calls here a Table, may be an Altar, notwithstanding this lower Name bestowed upon it. But, supposing this to be true of the few Passages mentioned; the Argument drawn from it is of no force.

For an Altar, acknowledged and declared to be so, in its principal Uses, but serving also in some other respects the uses of a Table, may be justly sometimes called a Table. But it cannot follow from hence that a Table, never plainly declared to serve any one purpose of an Altar, nor once called by that Name, may properly be thought or called so. And, as in the Case of what is called the Jewish Altar; had That itself always been called and declared to be a Table, for the purposes of eating and drinking; and no Uses of it appointed which are the peculiar Uses of an Altar;

no

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 49

no Man would ever have thought of it, under the Notion of an Altar: So let it be in the Case of the Christian Table; which never was at first spoken of, but as a Table, and appointed for the Uses of a Table only. The Jewish Altar therefore, having been always declared an Altar; and yet serving some purposes of a Table; might be sometimes call'd by this name, without any derogation from its higher Title. But the Table used in the Lord's Supper having never been declared or called an Altar; nor appointed to serve any One peculiar purpose of an Altar, ought to retain it's One only Original Name; and cannot properly be called by Any Other, which carries along with it an Idea of Uses for which a Table was never designed.

If we go farther into the Argument, it will be of use to consider, 1. What it was, under the Jewish Dispensation, that this Table answers to. And here, it is plain, that, as the Lord's Supper itself answers to, and takes its name from, the Paschal Supper; so, the Lord's Table answers to the Table that was spread for the partaking of that Supper. That which answers, in the Christian Dispensation, to the Paschal Lamb, (which was an Eucharistical, or Thanksgiving, Sacrifice offered to God,) is Christ Himself, offered by Himself upon the Cross. Thus the Apostle says, Christ our Passover (i. e. Christ, who, in a figurative manner of speaking, may be styled Our Paschal Lamb) was (or has been) sacrificed for Us, 1 Cor. v. 7. But the Paschal Supper was distinct from the Sacrifice of the Lamb; and after it. To this alone it is that the Lord's Supper answers; which was made to consist in eating and drinking Bread and Wine, in remembrance of that Offering once made by Christ: of which Offering itself it was impossible for Christians to eat. And consequently, as the Lord's Supper answers, not to the Sacrifice of the Lamb, but to the Commemorative Supper celebrated by the Jews after that Sacrifice; so, the Lord's Table does not come in the place of the Altar, on which the Lamb was sacrificed; but of that Table upon which the Paschal Supper was put, in order to be eaten, (with the Cup of Blessing or Thanksgiving which was no part of the foregoing Sacrifice,) in Memory of their Great Deliverance out of Egypt; and in their own Houses, where there could be no thought of any Altar. Accordingly St. Paul, in his Account of the Institution, (already produced duced and explained,) introduces our Lord, after the Paschal Supper, requiring his Disciples, in times to come, and as soon as his Suffering should be over, (which then immediately followed,) to celebrate Another sort of a Feast in honour to a greater Deliverance; by eating and drinking in a serious and thankful remembrance of Him: plainly substituting this Supper, and this Table, in the place of the Jewish Supper, and the Jewish Table.

E crifice

50 The Nature and End of the

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 51

2. What I am arguing will be plainer still, if We consider what it was amongst the Heathens, that the Table of the Lord answers to, throughout St. Paul's argument. There is mention indeed made, in the former part of it, of their Sacrifices in the Temples of their Idols; as well as of the Jewish Sacrifices to God, upon the Altar in their Temple. But the Table of the Lord is not once put in opposition to the Altars, upon which the Heathen Sacrifices were offered; but to those Tables upon which, at a distance from the Altars, in other parts of their Temples, (nay perhaps at their own Houses) their Entertainment was put; and at which their Feast, in honour to their Idols, was celebrated. One part of these feasts consisted of something which had been sacrificed to their Idols; and that part which had not, was with the other intended to the same End: and the whole placed upon Tables. St. Paul's sole End being therefore, to dissuade the Christians from partaking of these Feasts with the Heathens; for which He urges the Inconsistency of their being partakers of the Table of the Lord and of the Tables of Dæmons; in this Argument the Table of the Lord cannot be opposed to the Altars of those Dæmons, but to those Tables to which Christians were invited by their Heathen Neighbours: and therefore, must come under the same Notion of a Table properly so called, with those Tables at which the Heathens feasted.

52 The Nature and End of the

3. The Nature and End of that Institution in which the Lord's Table is used, ought to direct our Thoughts upon This, as well as all other Points relating to it. The Institution is an Appointment of a Rite which is to consist in Eating and Drinking, in remembrance of something past; viz. of the Body of Christ broken, and his Bloud shed, for the good of Mankind. There is no need of an Altar, for this sort of Commemorative Eating and Drinking: neither is there there any thing in the peculiar Notion of an Altar, that can be thought necessary to the doing these Actions, in remembrance of such past Facts. The Actions themselves, it is plain, are Actions belonging properly to a Table. And it is upon this Account only that a Table is at all used, because it was, and is, the Custom of most Countries to use a Table at their Meals, and Feasts. If this had not been the Custom at Jerusalem, and at Corinth; we should not have heard a Word even of a Table in this Rite: nor could the celebrated Dispute have ever arisen between Table, and Altar. And I presume, No one of Common Understanding will say that, in those Countries where all are known to eat their Meals, upon the Floor, or a Carpet spread upon it, the Lord's Supper would not be duly celebrated, without either Table, or Altar; or the least resemblance of either of them.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 53

The only thing in the Christian Dispensation which answers to any of the Legal Sacrifices, but indeed, is far more Excellent, in its nature and design, than them All, is the Death of Christ; that Sacrifice which He voluntarily made of His own Life, to his own, and His Father's, Love of Mankind. The only Person who answers to any Jewish Priest, consider'd as a Sacrificer, is Jesus Christ himself, who offer'd himself up. The only thing which answers to the Altar upon which the Sacrifices were offered, is that very Cross upon which Christ died. Now, the Lord's Supper was instituted, not to offer up to God, in future times, what then was offered up; and what could not at that time, or at any other, be offered up, but by Christ Himself, who alone had power to do it: but to call to Remembrance a Sacrifice already offered; and the Sacrificer, who offered it Himself; and, by consequence, the Altar (if We will call the Cross so) upon which it was offered. This being so; and the very Essence of this Institution being Remembrance of a past Transaction; and this Remembrance necessarily excluding the Corporal presence of what is remember'd: it follows that, as the only Sacrifice, and the only Sacrificer in the Christian Dispensation, are remember'd, and therefore not present in the Lord's Supper; so the only Christian Altar, (the Cross upon which Christ suffer'd) being also by consequence to be remember'd, it cannot be present in this Rite, because that presence

54 The Nature and End of the

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 55

presence would destroy the very Notion of this Remembrance.

Nor is the figure of an Altar more proper; not only because the figure of an Altar, is no more a real Altar, than a Table is; but because the Lord's Supper was not instituted, as a Stage-Play, to act over our Saviour's Death; (which is an unworthy thought;) but as a Rite, for the Remembrance of his Death once past, and not to be repeated: And also, because, if it had been instituted for so low a purpose; the exact figure and posture of his very Cross, and not of an Altar, (with many Circumstances not fit to be named,) would have had a just Claim to make a part in the Representation.

Agreeably to all this, many of the Greek Fathers and Commentators, who lived some hundreds of years after the Institution of the Lord's Supper, when by degrees the language had been altered; tho' Themselves, amongst Other high Words, often called this Rite a Sacrifice; yet They could not forbear sometimes to correct this Expression; and to declare, They did not mean a Sacrifice, properly speaking, but only the Remembrance of a Sacrifice. Particularly St. Chrysostom

56 The Nature and End of the

Hom. xvii. in Ep. ad Hebr. after He had said, θυσίαν ποιῶμεν, He adds, μᾶλλον δὲ ἀνάμνησιν ἐργαζόμεθα θυσίας: which is in effect to say, “ I call it a Sacrifice ; but indeed, It “ is not a Sacrifice, but the Remembrance “ of a Sacrifice.” And consequently, No Altar can be necessary, or proper. For where there is no Sacrifice, but only the Remembrance of a Sacrifice ; which supposes the Sacrifice to be past at another place : there can be no Altar ; but only the Remembrance of that very Altar, upon which that past Sacrifice was offer’d.

This plain Argument, taken from the Notion of Remembrance, is very strong against the Doctrine of an Altar maintain’d by those of the Romish Church. “ The Sacrifice of Christ’s Body ; the Sacrificer, and “ the Altar upon which it was offer’d, are “ all to be remember’d in this Rite : and “ therefore, supposed to be absent ; not present.” But whilst They think of their Priests as Sacrificers, and as offering the Sacrifice (properly so called) of the very same Body and Bloud of Christ, which He offered upon his Cross : Whilst, I say, they maintain this absurdity, contrary to the Notion of a Memorial, as well as to the Nature of things ; things; no wonder that They speak so much of a Real Altar for this Real Sacrifice. And indeed, let a Popish absurdity be never so monstrous; yet it must be acknowledged that it is generally, in its several parts, self-consistent, and all of a piece. But for Those who have disavowed the Absurdity, which alone could be the Ground of any Notion of an Altar, in this Rite, still to be fond of the Notion, after They have parted with the Ground of it; is very hardly to be accounted for.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 57

I shall only add That, (in perfect agreement with what I have now said,) throughout the Established Rules and Authentic Rubrics of our Church, whenever there is Occasion to speak upon this Subject, the Name constantly made use of, is the Communion-Table; or simply, The Table; never Altar: which latter Name is carefully banish'd from every Declaration of Our Governors, in the last Settlements of this Church. To return,

From this Passage [I Cor. x. 16----21.] thus explained, the following Proposition may be drawn.

XI. Christians

XI. Christians, meeting together for Religious Worship; and eating Bread and drinking Wine, in Remembrance of Christ's Body and Bloud, and in honour to Him; do hereby publickly acknowledge Him to be their Master, and Themselves to be His Disciples: and, by doing this in an Assembly, own Themselves, with all other Christians, to be One Body or Society, under Him the Head; and consequently, profess Themselves to be under His Governance and Influence; to have Communion or Fellowship with Him, as Head, and with all their Christian Brethren, as Fellow-Members of that same Body of which He is the Head.

This indeed, all flows from, or is included in, the primary End of the Institution, the Remembrance of our Blessed Lord. For this serious and Religious Remembrance supposes

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 59

poses a Belief in Him; and consequently implies in it an acknowledgment of our being His Disciples; that is, in other Words, Members of that Body of which He is the Head: and, as such, obliged to All the Duties, and entituled, (unless We be wanting to our Selves in any one necessary Point,) to All the Blessings, of such a Relation.

2. The Other Passage I must mention, is in I Cor. XI. v. 20, ——— 34.

Ver. 20. When ye come together therefore, into One place, This is not to eat the Lord's Supper.

21. For in eating every one taketh before other, his own Supper: and One is hungry, and Another is drunken.

22. What? have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or despise ye the Church of God, and shame Them that have not? What shall I say to you? Shall I praise you in this? I praise you not.

The two first of these Verses set forth the Crime of Some of the Corinthian Christians in this manner. V. 20. “ When therefore, “ You come together, professing to eat and “ drink

60 The Nature and End of the “ drink in remembrance of your Master;

“ and at the same time behave yourselves “ indecently, as I have been informed you “ do: This, I tell you plainly, is not to “ eat the Lord's Supper, as it ought to be “ eaten, according to the Design of the “ Institution: V. 21. For, as I hear, many “ of you behave yourselves rather as Per- “ sons eating your own Suppers, to satisfy “ and even indulge your own appetites: “ Those of You who are able to provide “ plentifully for themselves, eating at that “ Feast, to which you join the Lord's Sup- “ per, without waiting for their poor “ Brethren; and not like Persons meeting “ to partake of a Common Feast. And thus,
“ in the most indecent manner, the poor “ man, in this Assembly, is hungry without “ being satisfied; whilst Another who can “ supply Himself plentifully, feasts himself “ even beyond due bounds.”

For this Crime He reproves them severely, v. 22, thus, “ Have ye not Houses of “ your own, for your ordinary Eating and “ Drinking? Or have you no sense that “ these Assemblies of Christians come toge“ ther for the Religious purpose of Eat- “ ing and Drinking in remembrance of their “ Master;

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 61

“ Master ; and that the Place where they “ meet for this good End is not the pro“ per place for your Ordinary Meals ; much “ less for your Excesses in Drinking ? Do “ ye thus despise the Church of God ; the “ Assemblies of Christians, and the * Place “ You at this time profess to meet in, for “ Religious, and not for common purpo“ ses ? and thus put to Shame Those of “ your poor Brethren, who are not able to “ make provision for Themselves, by such “ a Behavior as seems to insult their Pover“ ty and Hunger in such publick Meet“ ings ? Can I praise you for this ? Far “ from it. On the contrary, I condemn “ You, as acting inconsistently with the “ Original Institution of this Holy Rite ; “ a true Account of which I will now lay

* This Passage does not imply that particular Places were at this time set apart, or consecrated, to a Religious Use, so as to be entirely free from all the Common Uses of life : nor indeed, was it possible, in those early days, to follow any other Rule, than that of Meeting together by Agreement, in such place, and at such time of day, as might be most convenient for All, and most secure from Danger. It argues only, that Whatever place They agreed to meet in, though often changed ; That this place, I say, at the time of their assembling in it for an Act of Religion, was not a proper place for their ordinary Meal, or their feasting in order to satisfy and indulge their Bodily Appetites.

“ before

“ before you.” This is contained in the three following verses, viz. 23, 24, 25. which I have already produced and explained, p. 10, &c. The Apostle then argues from this Institution, V. 26. For as often as ye eat THIS Bread, and drink THIS Cup, ye do shew the Lord’s death till He come. That is, “ From the Institution itself “ it is plain that the Design of your meeting to eat this bread, and to drink this “ Wine” (for upon this is the Stress laid) “ is very unlike to That of your meeting “ to eat and drink Bread and Wine in a “ Common way ; and is no other than the “ serious purpose of shewing forth, or keeping up the remembrance of, the death of “ Christ, in this particular Manner, till He “ shall return in glory.” After this, He goes on,

Ver. 27. Wherefore, whosoever shall eat this Bread and drink this Cup of the Lord UNWORTHILY, shall be guilty of the Body and Bloud of the Lord.

28. But let a Man examine Himself, and so let Him eat of that bread, and drink of that Cup.

29. For

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 63

29. For He that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh Damnation to Himself, not discerning the Lord's Body.

30. For this Cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep.

31. For if We would judge Ourselves, We should not be judged.

32. But when We are judged, We are chastened of the Lord, that We should not be condemned with the World.

33. Wherefore, my Brethren, when ye Come together to eat, tarry one for another.

34. And if any man hunger, let him eat at home.

The plain Meaning of these Words, as directed to the Corinthian Christians, whose Sin and Indecency was before spoken of, may be thus expressed.

Ver. 27. “ From the Nature and End of “ the Institution of the Lord's Supper, (here “ set forth) it follows, that Every one, who “ comes to this Table of the Lord; and, “ instead of behaving Himself worthily, “ that is, suitably to the good End of this “ Holy Rite; and, instead of a Serious “ performance of the Actions of Eating and “ Drinking in remembrance of Christ his “ Master,

64 The Nature and End of the “ Master, eats and drinks unworthily, or “ in a Manner unsuitable to the Design of “ this Institution; behaving Himself as at “ a Common Meal, or, as if this were only “ the Continuation of a Foregoing Enter- “ tainment ; and even without observing the “ Rules of Temperance : Every such pro“ fess’d Christian, is guilty of an High Of“ fense and Indignity against the very Body “ and Bloud of Christ, of which this Bread “ and this Wine are Memorials ; and which “ He pretends and professes to remember by “ this Eating and Drinking.

V. 28. “ On the contrary, Instead of this “ unchristian Behavior, Let Every one of “ you examine Himself; enter into, and try “ Himself, by Considering the original Insti- “ tution of this Rite : and by that Examina- “ tion let him be led to perform these actions “ of eating and drinking, S O, that is, in “ such a manner, as is plainly implied in “ the Nature of that Institution itself.”

[The words do not appear to Me to sig“ nify, “ Let a Man examine himself, and “ then let him eat,” as They seem to do, at first reading, in English : but, “ Let a “ Man examine Himself, and let Him eat “ S O,” or in such a manner, as is here laid

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 65

laid down, viz. a manner suitable to the Institution. That the word [$\sigma\tau\omega\varsigma$] S O, joined to And, often signifies, in this manner, appears from the use of it in many other places; and that it does so here particularly, appears from the connexion of this with the next verse: which begins with For, and gives a reason for the Direction laid down in this verse. Let him eat S O, or in such a manner as is before laid down, suitably to the Institution, that is, worthily: For He that eats and drinks in another manner, or unworthily, eats and drinks Condemnation, &c. which reason will have the less force, if the Meaning of S O, in the foregoing verse, be not, in such a manner as is suitable to the Institution. This is not to insinuate that the Examination here recommended was not designed to go before the partaking of the Lord's Supper: for it is evident, it was. Nor does this Interpretation imply it, any more than the Common One. For supposing the Words be render'd, "Let a Man examine Himself," "and so (or then) let Him eat," &c. the word Examine is the same in both Versions; and must signify the same Trial of a Man's own disposition, framed upon the Nature of the Institution: which is to direct Him in the serious manner of performing this Duty. But I think, the following verse is not so well connected to this, according to the latter of these senses; as it is according to the former.]

66 The Nature and End of the

The word render'd Examine, signifies also approving after Trial and Examination: and, agreeably to this, the Direction may be, “ Let every one of You approve Himself, in “ this Case, to his own Conscience; as one “ regarding the Institution and Design of the “ Lord's Supper; and let him eat and drink “ S O, that is, in Such a Manner, as becomes “ That Design.” And this fuller Sense of the word seems the more proper here, because of what follows about Condemnation: which is a Word directly opposed to this of Approving.

The Apostle goes on thus, V. 29. “ I say, “ Let a Man try, and approve Himself; “ and perform this part of his Religious “ Duty suitably to the Design of it, the “ Remembrance of Christ: because great “ will be his Offense, if He wilfully performs it in a contrary way; or, in a “ manner plainly unworthy of the Institution. For He that eateth and drinketh, “ as some of you have done, unworthily; “ that

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 67

“ that is, unfuitably to that Design; and “ in a manner utterly inconsistent with “ It: not discerning the Lord's Body; that “ is, not considering this Bread as the Me- “ morial of his Body; not making a suffi“ cient Difference between this Bread, ea“ ten at the Lord's Supper, in memory of “ Him, and a Common Meal even intempe“ rately taken: He that acts thus, eats and “ drinks Damnation, Condemnation, or “ Judgment, to Himself; whilst he pro“ fesses and pretends to meet his Fel“ low-Christians at the Lord's Table, and “ at the same time behaves himself, as at “ no other than a Common Table; nay, “ even with Intemperance and Indecency:
“ and by this lays Himself justly open “ to the Displeasure of Almighty G O D.
“ V. 30. As you may in part see, from the “ Effects of this Intemperance, and the To“ kens of G O D's Displeasure now amongst “ You. For You have impaired the health “ of your Bodies. Sicknefs and even Death “ are come amongst you, by the Righte“ ous Providence of God. V. 31. For this “ is the Rule in such Cases. If We would “ call ourselves to account, and judge and “ condemn what is Evil in Ourselves, so

68 The Nature and End of the “ effectually as to forsake it ; We should “ not then be condemned, or punished by “ God. And when We see such Afflic“ tions amongst Us, We ought, before it “ be too late, to consider Them as Chastise-“ ments from the Hand of God, in order “ to our Amendment ; and designed for “ this good End, that We should not fi“ nally be condemned with the Wicked “ part of the World.”

“ V. 33. Upon these accounts, my Bre“ thren, when You are to meet together “ professedly to eat at the Lord's Table, in “ remembrance of your Master, Wait with “ Patience for one another, till a good “ Number be assembled : and then, perform “ this Religious Rite with all Decency, as “ a joint Body of Brethren, equally related “ to Christ and entitled to his Favor ; and “ not distinguished from one another, in “ this Religious Action, by any Outward “ Circumstances of Riches, or Poverty ; “ Plenty, or Want. V. 34. But if any of “ You propose to eat upon another account ; “ to satisfy your bodily appetites, and the “ Cravings of Hunger ; This is not the “ Place for it, where you assemble in a “ Body, for a Religious Purpose : but the “ proper

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 69

“ proper Place to satisfy Any person's hunger in, is his own private House, where “ He may do it without Disorder, Indecency, or Shame to Any of his poor and “ hungry Brethren.”

From the Whole of this put together We may see clearly, That the ill Behavior of the Corinthians was occasioned by their joining the Lord's Supper to a Meal, or preceding Entertainment, of quite another Sort; in which they both ate and drank to please their Appetites, in such a manner as to distinguish Themselves from their poor and needy Brethren; and to render Themselves unfit to partake afterwards of the Lord's Supper in a worthy manner: And that the Apostle's main Design was first to shew them the proper Manner of performing that Duty of their Religion, for which they professedly assembled; and then to persuade them rather entirely to leave off these Feasts, at their Assemblies; and to eat and drink for the common Uses of Life, at their own Houses; than to go on in so indecent and inexcusable a Behavior, at a Time, and in Places, when and where They met together, as Christian Brethren, for the purposes of their Holy Religion. And this He does, in the most effectual manner, from the Time, the Words, and the Design, of the Institution of this Rite: which the Apostle plainly represents as a Rite wholly distinct from the Paschal Supper; instituted by our Lord, not during that Supper, but after it; and designed peculiarly for the Direction of his Followers in that one particular manner of religiously commemorating His Death till his coming again. From hence it is, that the Apostle draws all that He says, in order to convince Them of their ill Behavior; and of the Necessity of a better Practice: instructing Them, in this easy way, That the Lord's Supper had no natural Connexion, or Relation, to any Other Feast, or Entertainment for the Satisfaction of their Bodily Appetites; that this End was to be answered better by eating and drinking in their own private Houses; and that it was their Duty to consider the Lord's Supper, as a Religious Rite, of a very different nature from their Common Feasts; and a Rite, at which Their Behavior ought to be such as was suitable to the good and serious End it was designed for.

70 The Nature and End of the

These

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 71

These were the Lessons St. Paul chose to draw from the Institution itself, for the peculiar Use of the Corinthian Christians, in the first Age of the Gospel. I shall now, from this Whole Passage, thus explained, draw a few Propositions, for the Use of Christians in these later Ages of it.

XII. The Examination here mentioned by St. Paul, as regarding the Lord's Supper, is, strictly speaking, a Christian's Examination of his own Heart and Disposition, by the Institution of this Holy Rite, in order to assure Himself that He comes to the Lord's Supper, and will behave Himself at it, not as a Common Meal; or an Ordinary Eating and Drinking; but as a particular Rite appointed by Christ: viz. That He comes to it, in order to eat this Bread and drink this Wine, in a Serious and Religious remembrance of Him, and of his Death.

72 The Nature and End of the

The mention made here of Examination, was entirely owing to this, that Some of the Corinthian Christians, had deviated, in their practice, from the Institution of Christ; and behaved Themselves so intemperately and indecently, as to make no Distinction between the eating and drinking in memory of their Master; and their eating and drinking indecently at a Common Meal. When therefore, Any sincere and serious Believer in Christ has approved Himself to his own Conscience in this Particular, that He comes to the Lord's Supper, as His Disciple, with a Temper and Design suitable to the only End of it's Institution; He may be certain that He has Examined Himself in that Sense, in which alone the Apostle has recommended this Duty, with regard to the partaking of the Lord's Supper.

An Examination of a Man's whole Life and Conduct, by the known Law of God, whether Natural or Reveled; if it be wholly in order to render Himself more perfect in the practice of All that is praise-worthy, in every Circumstance and Relation of Life, must be of great Use to Every well-disposed Christian. But for this, Every one is the best Judge for Himself, of the proper and most

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 73

most convenient time. My Design is only to observe here, that Self-Examination, in this Extent, is not a Duty necessarily previous to the Lord's Supper; nor spoken of, by St Paul, in this degree, as necessary to our duly partaking of it. And this is fit to be observed; that so No Serious Christian may, on the one hand, make it a pretense for his not coming to this Religious Rite, that He has not had time for a long and particular Examination into his whole past Conduct; or, on the other hand, be Uneasy (as too many have been) at their honest performance of this Duty, in remembrance of their Lord and Master, without such a long and particular Examination.

In the publick Office of Our Church, it is observable that the Duty of Examination is proposed to Them, who are at that very time supposed to remain in the Church, as Communicants. The Exhortation and Threatning of St Paul to the Corinthians, are then read to them; They are called upon, at that very time, to judge Themselves, and to approve Themselves, by coming with the proper Dispositions to the Lord's Table. All which must be supposed to be founded

ed

74 The Nature and End of the

ed upon this, That even so short an Examination, in the Church itself, just before the partaking of the Bread and Wine, may be sufficient to satisfy a True Christian, whether He is at that time coming to the Lord's Supper with a Temper and Behavior, suitable to the Institution, according to what St. Paul has said about it; and that He may examine and judge Himself, at that very time, enough to be fully satisfied in this essential Point: all which is perfectly agreeable to what I have been now saying.

XIII. The Duty of Preparation for the Holy Communion being entirely founded upon these few Words of St Paul's, Let a Man Examine Himself; it is evident from the foregoing Proposition, that the Preparation implied in these words, as necessary and sufficient, is such a Consideration of the Institution itself, as may satisfy and assure Us that We come to the Lord's Supper, as His sincere Disciples, resolved to eat and drink, in a Religious Remembrance
of

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 75 of Him; Or, with Dispositions and a Behavior, worthy of, that is, suitable to, the Design of this Holy Rite.

A true Christian needs not any length of Time to assure His Heart of this. Neither can the Opportunities of this Solemnity come so suddenly upon Him, but that He may certainly know Himself to be prepared, in this absolutely necessary Sense: and let it be remember'd that I am now speaking only of what is absolutely necessary. This is not designed to insinuate, nor does it in the least imply, that Christians may not wisely chuse to spend a longer Time in Religious Consideration and Prayer, just before their Coming to the Communion; if They have Leisure, and think it of more Advantage to them to do it upon this Occasion, than upon Any other. But again I say, This ought not to be inculcated upon Them, as a Preparation necessary before their coming to this Holy Rite: lest the Want of so much more Time should either prevent their Attendance upon this Duty; or disturb the Minds of Those who have honestly, and with Christian Affections,

76 The Nature and End of the

attended upon it, without such a previous Conduct. It is, and must be, always of great Use to Christians. But We are not to confound Duties; and make That peculiar to the Holy Communion, which never was made peculiar to it by Christ, or his Apostles; which is proper for every Season of our Time, and every part of our Life; and which would have been equally a Duty, whether it had pleased our Lord to institute the Holy Communion, or not.

XIV. It is evident, from the Passage now before Us, that the Whole Affair of eating and drinking UNWORTHILY, in St Paul's Sense, is confined to the Frame of our Minds, and our Behavior, AT the very Time of our Performance of this Religious Duty.

Had not Some amongst the Corinthians been guilty of great and Criminal Indecencies, at the very time of the Celebration, We had not heard of the Crime and Danger of eating and drinking Unworthily. And now We do read of it in St Paul,
We

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 77

We see it plainly to be their Eating this Bread, and their Drinking this Cup, with a Behavior and Dispositions, utterly unsuitable to the End of the Institution; which was the Serious and Religious Remembrance of Christ: and in such a manner as plainly shewed that the Bread and Wine ordained for the Remembrance of our Lord's Body and Bloud, in this Rite, were not thought of by Them so, as to be discerned, (or differenced, as the word signifies) from Bread and Wine taken at a Common Meal.

XV. Whoever therefore, eats this Bread, and drinks this Wine, with a Serious and Christian Frame of Mind; and a Behavior suitable to the Design of the Institution; partaking of it, as a sincere Disciple of Christ, under the Sense of his own strict obligations, as such; remembering his Body broken, and his Bloud shed, at the same time; and doing the Whole in Remembrance of Christ, as his Lord and Master; certainly cannot possibly be said to eat and drink

78 The Nature and End of the drink UNWORTHILY; or, as far as this particular Religious Action is concerned, to behave Himself Un- suitably to It, or to his Own Character, as a Christian.

The Point here is not, Who is worthy, in the strict Sense of that word, to appear before God, in any Religious Action: but, Who performs that Action worthily, that is, suitably to the Nature and professed Design of it; and who, Unworthily. No man can be said to be Worthy, in strictness of Speech, to approach GOD in Prayer: but He may, notwithstanding this, Pray worthily, or, perform that Religious Duty, in a manner and with a Frame of Mind, in such degree, worthy of it, (that is, suitable to the End of it,) that it shall be acceptable to God who requires it; notwithstanding his Imperfections and Failings. So, in the present Case, A Christian may not be Worthy, strictly speaking, to pay Religious honour to his Lord and Master, in the Lord's Supper: but Every sincere Christian, called upon to perform this Duty, may perform it worthily; or with Thoughts and Behavior

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 79

vior fuitable to the End of it; that is, with a Serious Remembrance of his Master, for which It was instituted. And agreeable to this Notion is the Language of that short Prayer, used in our publick Service, before the Partaking of the Bread and Wine; in which We are led to acknowledge Ourselves, not Worthy in Ourselves to be favorably received by GOD; and yet to pray that We may perform the Duty, We are now going about SO, as that It may be of Advantage to Us: which is, in other words, that We may perform it Worthily; or, in a Manner fuitable to the Nature and End of it. On the contrary,

XVI. He only ought to be affrighted at the Words of St Paul, because He only can, in the Apostle's Sense, be said to eat and drink Unworthily, who, without considering the Duty He professes to perform; without a serious regard to the Remembrance of his Lord and Master, for which only It was commanded; eats this Bread and drinks this Wine,
either

80 The Nature and End of the

either with no Thought at all of the End of this Institution; (which is one Degree of doing it unsuitably to the Nature of the thing;) or, (which is Worse,) with Thoughts and Behavior, utterly inconsistent with the Design of this Holy Rite, or with a Christian's Duty at any time.

To explain this matter a little farther. I do not confine the guilt of eating and drinking Unworthily, to the strict Imitation of the Corinthian Sinners, in the One particular Instance of their Indecency; but think, it ought to be extended to all Cases, to which the Apostle's argument, drawn from the Institution itself, by parity of Reason, can reach. Whatever Temper, or Behavior, at the Time of eating and drinking, is utterly unsuitable to the Design of the Duty, must, in its degree, come under the Censure of this Passage. I am persuaded, It is, morally speaking, impossible for any good and serious Christian, to eat this Bread and drink this Cup, without a due Religious Remembrance of the Death of his Master. But it is not naturally impossible, but that a Chris-

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 81

a Christian, in other respects unblameable, may in this fail; so, as either to perform this particular Action with a Temper not suitable to the Design of it; or to mix something with it very Unsuitable to, and greatly unbecoming, that Design. And, in this case, Such a Christian might justly be said to eat and drink Unworthily, in some degree; not discerning the Lord's Body; but indulging Himself in some such Thoughts or Behavior as may shew that He does not, at the very Time of partaking, make a sufficient Difference between the Lord's Supper, and an ordinary Entertainment; between the Department proper and suitable to the Lord's Table, and that which might not be improper or indecent at his own common Table.

On the other hand, A professed Christian, tho' very blameable in some parts of the Conduct of his past Life; yet, coming to the Lord's Table with a serious frame of mind, and on purpose to remember Christ, as his Lord and Master, in the way appointed by Himself; and actually partaking of the Lord's Supper, with that Religious Remembrance which is suitable to it: Such an one, I say, cannot justly be said to do this particular Action in an improper way; or to eat this Bread, and drink this Wine, Unworthily; that is, unsuitably to the Design of the Institution; though He may, in other respects, have behaved Himself Unworthily, or unsuitably to so holy a Religion.

82 The Nature and End of the

These Instances I mention, in order to explain more clearly what is meant when it is said that the Eating and Drinking Worthily, or Unworthily, in St Paul's sense, is confined to the Disposition and Behavior of Christians at the very time of their partaking of the Lord's Supper; and consists in their doing both, suitably, or unsuitably, to the Nature and End of that particular Institution. And I thought it the more necessary to settle this point in the plainest manner possible, because the great Uneasiness of Honest Christians, upon this Head, appears to have been founded, not upon their actual partaking of the Lord's Supper, Unworthily, or in a manner Unsuitable to its design; without discerning and considering the End of it; with which alone St Paul concerns Himself: but upon some other sort of Notions not relating to this; and the dread of partaking Unworthily, in some sense, which, though unknown to St Paul, and found

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 83

found out since his Time, yet is pretended to be built entirely upon His Doctrine laid down in this place. This Doctrine I have now endeavoured to explain, for the use of such Christians, in these later Ages.

He therefore, who performs this particular Religious Duty, in a manner, and with a Temper and Behavior, suitable to the Nature and Design of it; with a serious Remembrance of Christ, as his Lord and Master, who has a Right to the Obedience of his life; cannot be said to eat and drink Unworthily in St Paul's sense; nor ought to be afraid of the Censure passed by Him upon such as do so. But it will not follow from his doing this one Duty worthily, that He is that Good Christian, in all respects, whom His Lord will reward at the last Day. Nor will it follow from a Person's past failures in Other points of Duty, that He partakes of the Lord's Supper Unworthily, in St. Paul's sense; if His Temper and Behavior, at the time of partaking, be suitable to It; and worthy of a true Christian. For if this were the case; no one who had been once a Willfull Sinner could ever partake of this Rite otherwise than Unworthily: No, not if He could be certain that

He should never again, under any possible Trials, willfully transgress the Law of God, thro' his whole life; of which yet it is impossible for any Christian to be assured.

The Corinthian Sinners, whose Guilt lay in their unchristian Behavior at this very Rite, were not forbid to come, or at all discouraged by St. Paul from coming, to it again. On the contrary, It was supposed still to be their Duty; and They were required to come to it, in a serious and Christian manner: but without the least Encouragement to them from hence, to hope for God's favor without their amendment. So likewise, What is here said cannot encourage Sinners of Any sort, to place the least hope in their partaking of the Lord's Supper, whilst they continue in the practice of their Sins; because this Continuance in Sin is itself the Forfeiture of God's favor; and must end in their condemnation, according to the express Terms of the Gospel. But it is indeed of the contrary tendency, viz. to bring Them to attend upon this Institution, with such a serious Frame of mind as may happily lead them to the forsaking of all their Sins, and a total Amendment of life. For a person, who

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 85

who is a sincere Believer, and partakes of the Communion in remembrance of Christ as his Master, must, in consequence of this, be sensible of the necessity of a Christian Behavior; and of an universal obedience to this Master: and cannot therefore, be accounted guilty of a Crime, in thus partaking of it. But, supposing Him not to be guilty of eating and drinking Unworthily, in the strict original sense of those words; and not to be condemn'd by Almighty God, upon this account: Yet, if He still goes on in his Sins; the habitual Wickedness of his life, and his own wilful Neglect to reform and amend it, is the most certain and unavoidable Condemnation, pronounced against Him by that very Saviour whom He commemorates in this Rite.

This may be explained by the Instances of Faith, and Prayer, and the like. There are, We may suppose, Persons, inwardly convinced of the Truth of the Christian Religion, and therefore, real Believers in Jesus Christ as sent into the world by GOD; who yet do not in the course of their lives regulate their Practice by his Precepts. In this their Faith, or, yielding their Assent to the convincing Evidences of Christ's mission;

86 The Nature and End of the

They act a good part, and a part acceptable to GOD. But by the habitual Disobedience of their lives, They forfeit all title to his favor, and will be condemned at the last day. The ground of this Condemnation will not be, that These persons were destitute of Faith; or even of that same Faith which influences good Christians to a truly Christian Practice; but that They were wanting in that absolutely necessary Condition of a Virtuous and Holy Life, which They would not suffer this Faith to lead them to. So, in the Instance of Prayer; a Person may possibly perform this Duty with his understanding and his affections suitably disposed for it; and yet relapse into the practice of Sin. This unhappy man will not be condemned by GOD for performing his Duty of Prayer with Dispositions agreeable to it: but He will be condemned, notwithstanding this, for the willful practice of Sin. There are, without doubt, Wicked persons, whose Prayer itself is an abomination to the Lord. But these can be only such as have Hearts wickedly disposed, and far from God, at the very time when They pray; or rather, when They are willing to appear to Men to pray. But I am speaking speaking of the private Prayer of One who is sincerely; at the time of his praying, disposed to call upon GOD, as his Governour and Judge. And surely, there is no good Man who would tell Such an one that his Addresses will be an Abomination to the Lord; or; who would not encourage such a Person, tho' a Sinner, to make his Addresses to God by Prayer, in order to the amendment and reformation of his life.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 87

It is true, the very Faith and Prayer of such a Person, will aggravate his Guilt, and consequently his condemnation; unless He amend his whole Behavior. But this, not because his Faith, or his Prayer, are themselves bad, and unacceptable to GOD: but because They are both, in effect, not only Acknowledgments of what He ought in duty to be; but have a tendency, in their nature and design to make Him better; which Tendency He willfully neglects and resists.

Thus, in the Case before Us, No Christian who eats and drinks, at the Lord's Supper, with a sincere and serious remembrance of Christ, as his Lord and Master, can be said to eat and drink unworthily, in St. Paul's sense; or unsuitably to the End of this Rite. Nor can He be said to eat and drink his own Condemnation: because He does truly discern the Lord's Body, by remembering it in the most serious manner. He has therefore, performed this one Duty in a proper manner. But if He be still a willful habitual Sinner in any one Instance; He will most certainly be condemned: not for receiving this Sacrament unworthily; (which He does not appear to have done;) but for the Disobedience of his Life, in those Points which are indispensably necessary to Salvation.

What I have said does not seem to me to imply in it any thing contrary to the Discipline of Christians, in Justin Martyr's Age: who informs Us, that They only were allowed then to partake of the Eucharist, who lived, as Christ had commanded. This general and loose expression is declared, by the most learned Writers who cite it, to be meant only of an imperfect Obedience to Christ's laws. For they are sensible of the pernicious consequences of interpreting it rigorously, according to the words. For my Self; I think, Justin Martyr could mean no more by it than that Professed Christians who were scandalously dalously and notoriously Immoral in the habitual and open Conduct of their Lives, were not permitted, before some good Signs of Repentance appeared, to partake of this Religious Rite. And in times and places where this can be certainly judg'd of; and the Rule put in practice without prejudice to Any persons who ought not to suffer by it; it may be a very good Rule still. But I take the foundation of it to be this, and this only, That the admitting persons to the Communion was esteemed to be an acknowledgment of them, as Christians fit to be received into the Company, and to partake in the Religious Offices, of such as are really so. And upon this account, Those who continued to bring a publick Disgrace upon their Holy Profession, were not acknowledged, or treated as Brethren. This appears still more plainly from hence, that it was not only from the Eucharist that such were debarred; but from all Other parts also of the Common Worship of Christians: Nay, before whole Nations were professed Christians, from the common Intercourses of Society and Conversation; according to St. Paul's rule. 1 Cor. v. 11. So that this does not appear to have arisen from Any thing peculiar to the

the

the Lord's Supper itself; nor from any opinion that such Persons could not possibly come to it with good dispositions, and eat and drink in such a manner as not to fall under St. Paul's Denunciations: but, from hence, That they were not fit to be owned publicly by their Brethren, because of their continuing to live, in other respects, and in a notorious manner, unworthily of the Christian Name. This was thought a proper way of bringing them to some sense of their Sins; or, if that could not be done, of vindicating the honour of the Christian Society from the Scandal of such Members.

I have thus endeavoured to explain the peculiar Nature of the Duty before Us, so as to preserve the necessary Distinction between this, and other Duties; in order to prevent the mistakes of honest minds; and to make it evident that no Christian can frame to Himself the least encouragement to continue in any one Sin, from his being thus taught to perform one single Duty of his Religion, in a right manner. On the contrary, This very Duty, thus performed, naturally leads Him to remember that every Christian is strictly required by that Master whom He thus commemorates, to regard the Whole Law of God, by which He is to be finally judged ; and seriously to consider that the Performance of one Duty, though performed in the Manner required, will not atone for his willful and habitual Neglect of any Other.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 91

Before I conclude this part of the Subject, I must observe that, the Custom in Our Church, (whether the primitive Custom or not, I do not now examine,) being this, That the Minister officiating not only delivers the Bread and Wine into the hands of Every Communicant, but at the same time distinctly calls upon every Person, to eat the one in remembrance of Christ's Body broken and deprived of Life ; and to drink the other in remembrance of Christ's Bloud shed: This, (joined to the Disuse of annexing this Rite to any other Feast) guards it almost against the Possibility of any serious Christian's eating or drinking, unworthily ; or unsuitably to the End of it. He is in such a manner put in mind of Christ's Body, when He takes the Bread; and of Christ's Bloud, when He takes the Cup; that, if He hears the words, and comes with seriousness, He cannot but eat and drink in a Religious remembrance of Christ,

92 The Nature and End of the

Christ, as his Lord and Master ; and so, cannot eat and drink Unworthily, in the Apostle's sense ; i. e. Unsuitably to this Institution ; notwithstanding his Imperfections and Failings in other parts of his Conduct, which have no relation to this Instance of his Duty. I say this of serious Christians, who sincerely believe in Christ, as their Master and Judge. As for Others ; I am not now speaking to Them.

There are no other Passages of the New Testament, except These already produced, in which any such mention is made of this Religious Duty, as can lead Us into the knowledge of the Nature and Extent of it : No other indeed, that are supposed to speak any farther of it, than as a Practice in the earliest Days, when Christians met together for Religious Worship. Particularly in Acts ii. v. 42, mention is made of their continuing stedfast not only in the Apostle's Doctrine ; [or rather in Attendance upon their Teaching, as the Sense of the word in this place seems plainly to be ;] but in fellowship ; (the same word which signifies Communion, and participation,) and in breaking of Bread ; and in Joint-Prayer.

If

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 93

If by Fellowship, or Communion, (which answers to the Greek word here,) be meant something distinct from the breaking of Bread; it must signify their Charity in the free Communion, or Communication, of the good things They possess'd, for the use of all their Brethren who wanted them. But if it be meant to be explain'd by the breaking of Bread, join'd so close to it; (as the Vulgar Latin interprets it;) it then itself relates to the Lord's Supper. And, that breaking of Bread was a known phrase for the partaking of it, in the Lord's Supper, may appear from what I have before cited out of St. Paul; “ The “ Bread which we break, Is it not the Com- “ munion, (the same word that is used here)
“ of the Body of Christ?” All the Expressions in this verse seem indeed, plainly to relate to these Christians considered as assembling themselves together for Religious purposes: tho' it must be own'd that this very phrase of breaking bread is evidently used, at the 46th verse of this same chapter, in the sense of their eating in common at one another's houses; and explained by their partaking of Food and Nourishment, in the ordinary sense of the words. And perhaps the same phrase of breaking bread will be found to be taken in both these senses, in the 20th chapter of the Acts : where, at v. 7. it is used of the Disciples meeting together, on the first day of the week, to break bread, in the religious sense of the words; and at v. 11. personally of St. Paul's breaking bread, and tasting it, (as the word in the original signifies,) before his final parting from them.

94 The Nature and End of the

The Words, I Cor. v. 8. Christ our Passover is (or has been) sacrificed for us ; Therefore, let us keep the Feast, not with the old leaven, nor the leaven of Malice and Wickedness, but with the unleavened Bread of Sincerity and Truth ; supposing them to relate, (as some have imagined) to the Lord's Supper, instituted in remembrance of our Paschal lamb ; only teach Us that We ought to partake of this, which is our Paschal feast, with such sincere, untainted, honest hearts, as become Christians. But whoever reads the preceding verses, as directed to the Corinthians, will see that they rather relate to their Constant Behavior, as a Society of Christians, designed by their holy Religion to be purged from all leaven, or every thing that could corrupt them : and that this Constant Behavior is represented under the figure of their keeping a perpetual

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 95

a perpetual Feast, free from all leaven of Wickedness, or wicked Men. For the Apostle first commands them to put away from amongst them a very wicked Man, whom He compares to leaven, because He might corrupt Others of the Society; and then immediately expresses his desire that They should be an entire, uncorrupted, new Lump or Mass. And this He urges upon them by still continuing the same figure: arguing that, as Christ might be called Our Paschal lamb, so a Society of Christians keeping (as it were) a perpetual feast, under the sense of their deliverance, and of the love of their Deliverer, should be always as free from the Leaven of Wickedness, and keep themselves as clear from the danger of it, by not committing it, or suffering it amongst them, as the Jews were required to be free from all Leaven, in the Paschal Supper which They annually celebrated, in remembrance of the Passover at the time of their deliverance out of Egypt. Here seems to be no room for introducing particularly the Lord's Supper; or of confining to that Rite, this Direction of the Apostle, which plainly refers to the perpetual Conduct of Christians, as Persons strictly obliged to preserve their Faith uncorrupted by the Leaven of False Doctrines; and their Manners untainted by the Contagion, or Leaven, of Sin and Wick- edness.

Faith

Some again have applied to this Sacrament the Text, Hebr. xiii. 10. “ We have an Altar; “ whereof They have no right to eat, who serve “ the Tabernacle.” But as there is not one Interpreter, antient or modern, of great note, who interprets this obscure passage of the Lord’s Table; so there is not one good Reason for such an Interpretation; but many against it: and particularly, the whole Tenor and Scope of the Writer; which will always best lead Us to his most probable Meaning in such places as we cannot in the clearest manner explain. Now, the main End which the Author of this Epistle had in view, was to shew that the Dispensation of the Gospel did more than answer to all that the Mosaic Dispensation professed to hold forth to the Jews. And this End he pursues by shewing that the Author of it was far Greater than the Angels, who assisted at the delivery of the Law to Moses; and far greater than Moses, to whom this Law was delivered: that He is, to his Disciples, of far greater importance, in all respects, than the Jewish High-Priest was to the Jews; that his Death more than answered all the beneficial purposes of any of the legal Sacrifices; and that his Dispensation was fully sufficient to bring Sinners to the Favour of GOD. Throughout his whole Discourse, Christ himself is the High-Priest, the Offerer, the Sacrificer of Himself: and therefore, Nothing but the Real Cross, upon which Christ offered himself, can be the Christian Altar, in his language. And consequently, the general meaning of this passage may be, that No one can receive any benefit from Christ crucified, or from the Doctrine of the Cross upon which Christ offer'd himself, who still adheres to the Jewish Dispensation, greatly inferior to His; and, (as far as it is depended upon for Justification,) opposite to, and inconsistent with, Christ's grand Design of introducing another Method of bringing Sinners to Mercy and Happiness.
the

Some of the Greek Interpreters understand this Text of Christ himself: whom They speak of, as the Christian Altar, upon which All our Sacrifices of Prayer and Praise are offer'd to GOD. But this Sense of the word Altar seems to bear no relation to the design of this particular Passage. And indeed, if we will enter more nicely into the Exact meaning of the Apostle's peculiar Argument in this verse; it must be own'd, (as it has been rightly observed by some learned Men,) that it is only an Argument to a particular Sort of Men; or rather an Illustration of what He is desirous to convince Them of. He is plainly speaking here, not of Unbelieving Jews, (for no one ever thought of their receiving Benefit from Christ;) but of such as profess'd to believe in Christ, and to hope for Benefit from Him; and yet continued zealous for those parts of the Law of Moses which this Author had before prov'd to be of much less value than the Gospel; and all the advantages accruing from Them, to be greatly out-done by the new Dispensation of Jesus Christ. And, with regard to such Persons, the purport of his Words seems to be this —

H

of

“ As Christ, in his death upon the Cross, an“ swers to the Sacrifices, on the day of Ex- “ piation: so, if you still adhere to the “ Law relating to those Sacrifices, [Lev. xvi.
 “ 27.] You cannot have the Benefit you ex“ pect from Christ, who answers to Them.
 “ For by that Law, none are allowed to par“ take of those particular Sacrifices, so as to “ eat

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 99

“ eat of them, and receive nourishment from “ them: but the Sacrifices themselves are “ ordered to be carried out of the Camp, “ and to be totally consumed by Fire. And “ consequently, you cannot partake of that “ Sacrifice offered by Christ upon the Cross, “ answering to those Jewish Sacrifices, “ whilst you adhere to the Rules which for“ bid you to eat, or partake, of them.”
This partaking of the advantages of Christ's death, is expressed by eating of the Christian Altar; as They amongst the Jews who ate of any Sacrifices, so as to receive nourishment from them, were said to partake (or eat) of the Altar. I. Cor. x. 18. And likewise, as believing and receiving the Doctrine of Christ as our spiritual nourishment, is it self express'd by eating his Flesh, (as we shall see presently) in the sixth Chapter of St. John's Gospel. Something like this must be the Meaning of this obscure Text. Agreeably to which manner of arguing, the Writer of this Epistle goes on: and from Christ's being crucified without the Gate of Jerusalem, takes an occasion to urge Them to follow Him quite out of the Camp, which was round the Tabernacle; and totally to abandon the Mosaic Dispensation, as far as these Ritual Laws are concern'd. This again, I say, is an instance of the same way of Discourse: not properly a strict Argument; but an Illustration, very allowable, from the Custom of that Age, and the Principles of Those whom this Writer had to do with; and not at all derogatory to the Writer himself, who never wished it to conclude more, than He originally designed it to do.

There is also a long Discourse of our Blessed Saviour's, in the Sixth Chapter of St. John's Gospel, about eating His Flesh and drinking His Bloud; which Many have laboured much to interpret concerning the Lord's Supper: especially since the absurd Doctrine of Transubstantiation, and other Dark and Unintelligible Notions, have been brought into this Subject. But as there is no appearance that this Passage was understood, in the very first Days of the Church, to concern this Rite; so, whoever will seriously consider the Whole of it, will presently find that it could not relate to a Duty, which was not then instituted, nor so much as hinted at to his Disciples; but was indeed only a very High Figurative Representation to the Jews then about Him, of their Duty and Obligation to receive into their Hearts, and digest, his whole Doctrine, as the Food and Life of their Souls.
and

The difference of Expression in the two Cases, helps to shew this. In the Institution of the Lord's Supper, our Saviour says, "The Bread which you are to eat, in this Rite,
" is My Body;" not, " My Body, or Flesh,
" is your Bread, or your Food;" The Wine
" which you are to drink at my Table, is " My Blood;" not, " My Blood is your " Wine, or your Drink." And with regard to Both, He declares That they are to be eaten and drunk, as Memorials, or in remembrance, of Him. But in the discourse in St John, He says not one word of eating his Flesh or drinking his Blood, in remembrance of Him, after He should be taken from them; but is exhorting them to the eating his Flesh and drinking his Blood, at the very time of his speaking to them. This therefore, cannot relate to the celebration of a Memorial of his sufferings a long time afterwards; which could not be put in practice during his presence with them: but to the eating his Flesh and drinking his Blood, in a Sense consistent with doing it, even at that time whilst He was living and present, as well as after his death; and that can be no other, than receiving Him, by receiving his Doctrine, as the Food and Nourishment of their Souls.

Thus they have been understood by the Best Interpreters: and, what puts the Matter beyond all doubt, thus our Blessed Lord, at the End of that Discourse plainly interprets them himself, viz. v. 63. Where, upon the gross misapprehensions of his Followers, He does not express Himself thus to them, “ I mean, by these sayings, which some of “ you think so hard, your partaking of a “ Religious Institution, in memory of my “ Body and Bloud, after my Death;” which He would unavoidably have done, had this been his Meaning. But, on the contrary, He explains himself thus — “ The Words which “ I speak unto you; the Doctrines I teach, “ for which I shall suffer in the Flesh, and “ which I shall seal with my Bloud: These “ are the things I mean, which I have talk“ ed of, under the Notion of Meat and “ Drink, to nourish you to Eternal Life.
 “ These Words are Spirit, and these are the “ Life I have been speaking of; and These, “ if you will receive them, shall be Vital “ Food to you.” A manner of Explication, which

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 103

which Our Blessed Lord could not, (I humbly presume) have made use of ; had He ever designed this Discourse to be understood of his future Institution of the Lord's Supper. For, upon this Supposition, He either would have pointed out this to his Hearers ; or, at least, would not have explained himself by Words which carry along with them Ideas, very remote from it, and indeed inconsistent with it.

This Passage therefore, of St John's Gospel, I purposely omit, as not relating to the present Subject.

After having thus shewn, from express Words of the New Testament, what is necessary towards a due Performance of this Religious Duty ; and consequently, what is not so ; We may the better proceed to some other Observations upon the same Subject. The Essence of this Duty, We see, consists in the Remembrance of Christ. The believing in Him, and professing Our selves his Disciples and Followers, is not only necessary, in the Nature of the Thing, towards this Remembrance ; but this Remembrance, by partaking of Bread and Wine as Memorials of his Body and Blood, is itself a professed Communion or Fellowship with Him, as our Head: And the doing this, in a Body or Society, is a professed Communion or Fellowship with All other Members of the same Body, or Society, under Christ. Faith in Christ, therefore, as sent into the World by GOD, is the Ground of this Remembrance. Professing ourselves to belong to Him, in a Religious Sense, (as Members to the Head in a natural Sense,) is implied in it. And professing ourselves to have a Relation to all other Christians, (as Members in the Natural Body have to one another,) and to have that mutual real Concern and Affection which results from such a Relation amongst Disciples to the same Master, is likewise implied in it; according to St Paul's reasoning. From hence the following Proposition will arise.

H 4

fessed

XVII. It is an Employment very proper, and very agreeable to this Institution, to revive in our Minds, upon this occasion, the Force of all those Arguments upon which We believe in Christ; to own ourselves
His

His Disciples; to confess, and heartily condemn, all our Deviations from His Laws, and Precepts; to acknowledge before God our Obligations to live as His Disciples, who expect to be happy upon his Terms only; to express our sincere Thankfulness for his Doctrine, Example, Life, and Death; to profess our Dependence upon Him, as our only Head; and lastly, to revive and enlarge our affectionate Union and Sympathy with all other Members of the same Body throughout the World.

A serious Christian cannot better employ his Time, upon this occasion, than in reviving in his own mind the proper thoughts upon these Subjects, in such manner, as to have the best Effect upon Himself, in the whole Conduct of his Life. For I must observe that, though the performance of this one Duty in a manner not unworthy of it, or unsuitable to it, be the Great Point to be necessarily regarded, at the very time

time of our attendance upon this Holy Institution; Yet, the nature of the Thing itself, consider'd in all it's Circumstances, directs the Mind of a Christian to many Thoughts; which, though not absolutely Necessary to the Performance of the Duty, are of the greatest Importance to Himself: and may thus prove, by it's own Tendency and good effect upon a Moral Agent, not only an Act of Obedience to his Lord's Command; but a Mean leading to his own greater Increase in all that is Worthy of a Man, and a Christian.

Our Faith in Christ cannot be improved, but either by God's giving Us New Evidences of the Truth of his Pretensions; (which We cannot expect;) or, by our own serious Review and repeated Consideration of all the Old Ones: and this Review cannot be more properly taken, than when We profess Ourselves, by a solemn Act of his appointment, to be His Disciples, or Believers in Him. Our Thankfulness cannot be heightened, but by the reviving in our Minds the Memory of the Benefits We have received; which are the only Grounds of Thanksgiving: And We are very properly led to these, when We are celebrating the great

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 107

great Instance of God's love to mankind, in his Son Jesus Christ. Our Charity to all Others can never be more effectually improved, or inflamed, than when We take our Obligations to It from the Love of God to Ourselves, shewn forth in the Commemoration of the Death of Christ; and from our being all United in one Body, under Him our Head.

These I mention, as very proper Employments of our serious Thoughts, during the time of the Whole Attendance upon this Rite: but not as Subjects so peculiar to the Lord's Supper, as to be absolutely necessary to be enlarged upon, every time We partake of it. The Custom of our Church often gives us leisure to employ our private Thoughts; and these are Points worthy of them. But the Essence of this Duty, or what constitutes the Nature of it, is comprehended within the bounds of our partaking of the Bread and Wine; and consists in our doing it, as Christians, in remembrance of Christ and his Love: which cannot be done without Faith in Him, and Thankfulness to God.

Before

Before I proceed, I think this the most proper place to apply the Whole of what I have now laid down concerning the Nature and End of the Lord's Supper, more particularly to our Publick Office of The Communion; in order to adapt it to the Use of such as attend upon this Religious Rite in our Churches.

It may truly be said in general, That the Expressions of Faith, Repentance, Thankfulness, and Charity, scattered through this Office, are so many, and so full; that no Christian can doubt of their being completely sufficient for all the purposes of his attendance upon the Lord's Supper; should there be no opportunity of his adding any, more private, to them. I shall therefore now, enter more particularly into the several Parts, and Prayers, that compose It; in order both to interpret such Passages (relating to this Institution) as may stand in need of Interpretation; and to lead all Persons concerned to make use of It, in the most proper and Christian manner.

The

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 109

The Communion-Office (I mean that Part of it in which Communicants only are concerned) begins with Sentences, relating chiefly to the Duty of Beneficence to all Men, by our Alms and Charitable Contributions. It proceeds to the Charity and Assistance of our United Prayers, for the good and happiness of the Whole Body of Christians.

After this follows An Exhortation, particularly relating to the partaking of the Lord's Supper. In this the Minister who officiates earnestly recommends to Those who are then present, the Consideration of the Nature and End of what They are going to perform, in these words. “ Ye that “ mind to come to the Holy Communion “ of the Body and Bloud of our Saviour “ Christ;” [that is, You, that now remain in the Church, with a design of partaking of that Bread and Wine, which are appointed to be Memorials of the Body and Bloud of Christ;) “ must consider how St Paul ex“ horteth all men diligently to try and ex“ amine Themselves before They presume “ to eat of that Bread and drink of that “ Cup.” [that is, You must consider that St Paul exhorts Christians to examine, and approve

110 The Nature and End of the approve themselves to their own Consciences, so sincerely and effectually, as to assure Themselves that They come to this Holy Rite with Dispositions agreeable to the Nature and End of Its Institution.] “ For as “ the Benefit is great, if with a true penitent “ Heart and lively Faith We receive that “ Holy Sacrament; for then We spiritually “ eat the flesh of Christ and drink his Blood; “ then We dwell in Christ, and Christ in “ Us; We are One with Christ, and Christ “ with Us: so, is the danger great if We “ receive the same unworthily.” [That is,

 The Reason why We should examine Ourselves to this purpose, is, that We may assure Ourselves, We partake of this Rite in such a manner, as that it may be to Our Advantage, and not to our hurt. For, on the one hand, if We come to it with such Dispositions of mind as become Christians, and are agreeable to this Institution; particularly, with a due Sense of our past Sins, and a Resolution of behaving ourselves as Christ's Disciples; and with a true Faith (or Belief) in Him, as sent into the World by God, without which We cannot remember Him at his Table as our Lord and Master; We shall then, with these Disposi-

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. III

Dispositions of mind come to good purpose. By our Faith, and sincere accepting Him as our Master, we shall come up to the full meaning of that Expression in the Gospel, in which his Followers were called upon to eat his Flesh and drink his Bloud; in a Spiritual or Religious Sense embracing his Doctrine, as the Food and Life of our Souls. We shall then be so acceptable to Christ, that We may be said (by a strong Figure of Speech) to dwell in Him, and He in Us; to be One with Christ, and Christ with Us; that is, that Christ and We, to all the Intents and purposes of True Religion, shall be in perfect Friendship and Union together: We partaking of the good Spirit of his Gospel; and He receiving Us, and doing all good Offices to Us, as his true Disciples and Followers. On the other hand,] “ The danger “ is great, if We receive the same Unwor“ thily. For then,” (as the Exhortation “ goes on) We are guilty of the Body and “ Bloud of Christ our Saviour; We eat and “ drink our own Damnation, not consider“ ing the Lord's Body; We kindle God's “ wrath against Us; We provoke Him to “ plague Us with divers Diseases, and sun“ dry kinds of Death.” [The whole Expression

tion

112 The Nature and End of the

sion of this is taken from St Paul's Denunciation against the Corinthian Christians : and must be interpreted by It, (as I have already fully explained it, p. 49.) in this manner. " For, if We partake of the Lord's Supper unworthily ; or with Dispositions contrary to the Nature of it, and in a manner Unworthy of it, or unsuitable and contradictory to the End of it ; We then shall come under the Censure of St Paul : We shall eat and drink our own Condemnation , or Judgment against our selves , viz : whilst We eat, as at a Common Table, not considering that this Bread is the Memorial of the Lord's Body, and therefore to be distinguished from Bread taken at a Common Meal ; and shall, by a Behavior so unworthy of this Institution, displease Almighty God, and provoke his Anger, as the Corinthian Christians did."] Upon these accounts, The Exhortation goes on to engage the Persons present, Now to judge Themselves , so, as to repent of all their Sins ; to come to the Lord's table with a steadfast Faith in Christ, now to be remembered ; and to revive in their hearts the real Sentiments of perfect Charity towards all men ; and the heartiest thankfulness to God : Assuring them that, with this Temper, per, and these Dispositions of Mind, They will be Meet Partakers, (that is, will partake Worthily,) of these Holy Mysteries.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 113

[The Bread and Wine, to be eaten and drunk, in a Religious remembrance of Christ, are here called Mysteries: not in the Common Sense of the word Mystery, as it has been understood to signify either a Thing incomprehensible to our Understandings, or a Matter still hidden from Us. For We cannot be said to be Meet Partakers of a Mystery, in either of these senses of the word: Nor would the plural Number have been used, as if in either of these senses there were more Mysteries than One in this Affair. But the Bread and Wine are called Mysteries here, either because They Mystically, (that is, Covertly, or Figuratively,) represent to Us the Body and Bloud of Christ; Two Things very different from this Bread and Wine, which are the Memorials of them: Or, as this Representation is made in a Religious Rite peculiar to the Christian Worship; agreeably to that Sense of the word Mysteries, in which the Religious Rites in honour of any particular Deity amongst the Heathens, were so called; viz. private or peculiar Ceremonies, in which Some particular Persons only bore a part, who had been duly initiated into that Worship They belonged to.]

114 The Nature and End of the

After this Exhortation, the People are solemnly called upon to make a general Confession of their Sins. And this is followed by a very Expressive Prayer of the Minister officiating; formed upon the supposition of hearty Repentance, and true Faith in the Communicants; and petitioning for their Pardon, their Increase in all Goodness, and their Everlasting Happiness. A few plain Texts of the New Testament are then read, relating to the Love of G O D, and his merciful Dispensation towards Us, through his Son Jesus Christ: very properly preparing the Way to the Hymn of Praise and Thanksgiving which follows them. In all these Every Person present ought to think Himself concerned; and to attend to them with the Seriousness of a truly Christian Mind.

A short Prayer is then put up; in which All in the Congregation first acknowledge themselves unworthy of G O D's favour, and profess their Dependence upon his great Mercy for their Acceptance: and then add this Petition; “ Grant Us therefore, Gracious “ Lord, so to eat the Flesh of thy dear Son “ Jesus Christ, and to drink his Bloud, that “ our

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 115

“ our sinful Bodies may be made clean by his “ Body, and our Souls washed through his “ most precious Bloud; and that We may “ evermore dwell in Him, and He in Us.”

This is all expressed in the figurative manner: but the Meaning of it, in plain words, is this,—“ Grant that We, though Unworthy, “ in our selves, of thy favorable accept“ ance, may eat this Bread and drink this “ Wine, which are now to be taken in re“ membrance of the Flesh [or rather * Bo- “ dy] and Bloud of Christ so worthily; in “ a manner so suitable to the End and Na“ ture of the Institution; that We may be “ acceptable to Thee in it; and that our Re“ ligious Attendance upon this Rite, as Chri- “ stians sincerely believing the Gospel, may “ prove one Mean of our answering the “ great End of our Blessed Lord's living and “ dying for our Benefit; the being purified “ both in Soul and Body; and may help to “ lead Us to a State of Holiness, by which “ alone We can hope to be in Union and “ Friendship with Christ.”

* This is our Lord's own word, appropriated by Him to this Rite: and carries with it an Idea something different from that of the word Flesh. In the following part of this very Sentence, the word Body is restored: and ought indeed to be always preserved.

116 The Nature and End of the

Our Bodies are made clean by Christ's Body, and our Souls washed through his most precious Blood, by our being influenced by his Doctrine, (seal'd with his Death) to obey all God's Laws. And our eating and drinking in remembrance of His Body and Blood, tend to procure Us this Cleanness and Washing, (i. e. all that is meant by these figurative words,) by being done in remembrance of that Master, whose Religion was designed, in the whole Tenor of it, to engage Us to cleanse Our selves from all Filthiness of the Flesh and Spirit, by perfecting Holiness in the fear of God. II. Cor. vii. 1. This Rite, duly performed, is the Profession of our own Relation to Christ, and obligation to obey all his Laws; and is one Mean of leading Us to that Universal Obedience. They who embrace an obscure Notion of receiving any other sort of Cleansing and Washing, from this Holy Rite, seem to me to delude themselves; and to expect from it what our Blessed Lord never annexed to it.

The Prayer, called the Prayer of Consecration, follows next. And this is so framed, that the whole Congregation is supposed to join in the One only Petition in it, which is manifestly formed upon the Original Design
of

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 117

of this Holy Institution; and very properly placed here, just before the acts of receiving the Bread and Wine. In this, All the Communicants are taught to say, “ Hear Us, O “ Merciful Father, We most humbly beseech “ Thee, and grant that We, receiving these “ thy Creatures of Bread and Wine, accord- “ ing to thy Son, our Saviour Jesus Christ's “ Holy Institution, in remembrance of his “ Death and Passion, may be partakers of “ his most blessed Body and Bloud.” In which is plainly implied this Doctrine, That to eat this Bread and drink this Wine, as becomes Christians, in a Religious Remembrance of Christ's Death, is truly and sufficiently to answer the End of the Institution: and also that it may, therefore be made a Just Ground of Praying to God, as We do here; viz. That, thus partaking of them, in obedience to our Master, (not as of Bread and Wine for the Common purposes of Life, but as now designed for the Remembrance of our Lord's Body and Bloud,) We may, by the sincere performance of This part of our Christian Duty, be led to the practice of that Universal Righteousness to which Christianity strictly obliges Us; and by these means be prepared and qualified to Partake of all the Benefits of Christ's Body broken, and Bloud shed, now to be Remembered by Us.

118 The Nature and End of the

If there be any time between this Prayer, and your own receiving the Bread and Wine; nothing can be more agreeable to the Nature and End of this Rite, than to employ it in some such Thoughts as these. “ I have “ now examined my own heart, and can sincerely say that I come to the Lord's Supper with a serious Design of remembering “ Jesus Christ's Death, as his Disciple, truly believing Him to have been sent into the “ World by God; renouncing Every Thing condemned in his Gospel; expecting Pardon and Favor from God, upon the Terms “ of his Gospel only; thankful for All the Mercies of God, particularly for his Love “ in redeeming Us by his Son from all Iniquity: and knowing Myself in perfect “ Charity with All Men, and full of Universal Goodwill towards them. And therefore, I ought not to doubt of being accepted by God, in this sincere Design of “ thus remembering the Death of his Son, in the way appointed by himself.”

At the time of your own partaking of the Bread and Wine, the great Point is the Attendance

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 119

tendance of the Mind upon that Remembrance of Christ, which distinguishes the Eating this Bread, and Drinking this Wine, from Common Eating and Drinking. Now, in our Communion-Office, the Minister who officiates, when He comes to this part of the Service, in which you are to receive the Bread and Wine, first offers up a Prayer that the Body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for You, may preserve your Body and Soul unto Everlasting Life: that is, that the Real Body of Christ, long ago offer'd up upon the Cross; or, that the Sufferings of Christ, undertaken, submitted to, and designed, for the promoting your Eternal happiness, may effectually answer that good purpose; and move and influence You so, in the virtuous Conduct of your whole Lives in this World, agreeably to what He indispensably requires, that You may obtain his promise of Everlasting life in the World to come. And after this, at the instant of delivering the Bread, He puts you in mind of your Duty to eat this Bread in Remembrance of Christ's Death. And so, after the same prayer concerning the Bloud of Christ, He delivers the Cup to you, and at the same time exhorts You to drink of it in Remembrance of his Bloud. This secures You from All such Deviation of Thought, or Improper Behavior, as can affect the Essence of this Religious Action; and, directing You to the Remembrance of what was designed to be now religiously remember'd, makes it impracticable for You, if You are truly serious and in earnest, to eat or drink UNWORTHILY. To these Words therefore, attend with an undisturbed and sincere application of Mind; and You will unavoidably make it your own Act, and say within Yourself; “ I eat this Bread for that purpose “ only for which it is designed; In a religious remembrance of Christ’s Body broken; and of that Death of His, which by “ this action Christians are required to shew forth, till his coming again:” And, at the taking the Cup, “ I drink this Wine, “ in a serious and thankful remembrance of “ Christ’s Bloud; which was shed for Me, “ and for Many, for the Remission of Sins : “ that Bloud which He freely shed, as a Seal

 “ to the New Covenant; in which He promises, in the Name of GOD, Forgiveness “ and Favor upon our Actual Amendment, “ and sincere obedience to his Laws.”

This

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 121

This is that personal Appropriation of the Bread and Wine to the Serious and Religious Remembrance of the Body and Bloud of Christ, which alone can make this Rite of any Benefit to a Believer, by making it acceptable to God. It is, if I may use the word, a sort of Consecration of them, which is the Duty of Every Communicant himself; and without which all other Consecrations that have gone before, will do Him No service at all. It is He alone, who must, by his own inward thought, and application of his Mind to the Remembrance of Christ, make this Bread and this Wine, different to Himself from Bread and Wine taken at a Common Meal. Here therefore, lies your Great Concern, at this time: nor can there be any failure in this, if your Belief in Christ be sincere, and your attention fix'd to what You are doing. And be assured that, having thus partaken of this Bread and Wine, with a serious remembrance of Christ's Death, and as his Disciple, You have partaken of the Lord's Supper, agreeably to the Design of the Institution; and cannot therefore, be in the Number of Those who may justly be said to eat or drink UNWORTHILY, not discerning the Lord's Body and Bloud; or have
the

122 The Nature and End of the

the least Cause to fear Any of those Threatnings of St Paul, which belong only to Such as do so.

I say not this either to shorten, or to slacken, in the least degree, that Rational and Christian Devotion, which You may think more beneficial to You at this time, than at any Other. But I think it my Duty to guard against the beginnings of Any such Notions, as must fill your own Mind with Unnecessary Horror; and represent GOD to You, as requiring an Act of Religion, which You either cannot perform at all; or not without such Difficulty, as leaves you no Assurance of its being acceptable to Him; and consequently, must overturn the good End proposed by Christ in the Institution itself.

After you have thus received the Bread and Wine; if You have time, whilst other Persons are communicating, Some such Words as these following will be proper Expressions of Such Thoughts as this Holy Rite naturally leads Us to.

“ I have now, O God, in obedience to “ the Will of thy Son Jesus Christ, par“ taken of Bread and Wine, in that manner “ in which Christians are required religiously “ to

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 123

“ to commemorate his Death and Passion.
“ By this Solemn Act of my own, in this “ Assembly, and in the Company of my Fel- “ low-Christians, I have voluntarily profess'd “ Myself His Disciple: And by This I have “ acknowledged my strict Obligation to per“ form thy Whole Will made known to Us “ by Him. I am truly sensible of thy Love to “ Mankind, in sending thy Son into the “ World, to enliven and strengthen, by his “ excellent Doctrine, and by his Holy Ex“ ample, our Sincere Endeavors to know “ and practice thy Commandments. I offer “ up my sincerest thanks for All that He “ did and suffer'd for Us; and praise Thee “ for all the Benefits designed and promised “ to Us, from his Life, his Death, and his “ Resurrection from the Dead, by which He “ was truly demonstrated to be Thy Son.
“ I am sensible, I have not lived as becomes “ the Disciple of such a Master. And I “ have learned, from the Holiness of thy Na“ ture, and thy Son's express Declarations “ in his Gospel, not to expect either Pardon “ through Him, or any Benefit from Him, “ but upon the Terms propos'd in his Gos“ pel; the utter forsaking all Sin and Im“ morality, and the actual Amendment and “ Reformation

I 24 The Nature and End of the “ Reformation of what is truly blame-wor“ thy in my Temper, or my Behavior. I “ can expect no favor as his Disciple, but “ upon his Conditions: and These I will e“ very day more and more endeavor to come “ up to. I have here profess’d my Commu“ nion with Christ, as Head of thy Church ; “ and with Every Christian throughout the “ World, as a Joint-Member of the same Bo- “ dy of which he is the Head: and I now pray “ to Thee for the true happiness of them All.

 “ Accept this sincere profession of my Faith “ in Thee, the Only True God ; and in Je- “ sus Christ whom Thou hast sent. Receive “ my Praises and Thanksgivings ; my Pray“ ers for Myself, and Intercessions for the “ whole World. Let this Attendance, “ which proceeds from my desire of fulfil“ ling thy whole Will, be acceptable to “ Thee: and let the Consideration of thy “ Mercy, propos’d to the World by Jesus “ Christ, move me to so constant and uni“ form an obedience, as may entitle Me to “ all the Benefits promised to his sincere “ Followers, by Him whose Death I have “ now commemorated. In his Name, and “ as his Disciple, I implore thy Pardon ; “ and entreat thy Favor. Lead me, O Lord, “ by

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 125

“ by the guidance of thy good Providence, “ far from the paths of Sin, into such a “ State as may best secure and improve my “ virtue. Direct and assist me, in all my “ Endeavors, by all such Methods as are “ proper to move and assist thy Free and “ Reasonable Creatures: and so, at length “ conduct me safe through a World of Trials “ and Temptations, to the Possession of “ that extraordinary Happiness, which Thou “ hast prepared for Those who truly love “ Thee, and sincerely obey Thee, through “ thy Son Jesus Christ, our blessed Lord “ and Saviour *.”

When all Persons present have received the Bread and Wine; They are again to join in the Publick Office: In which, after the Lord's Prayer, the Congregation prays to Almighty God thus — “ We entirely desire “ thy Fatherly Goodness mercifully to accept “ this our Sacrifice of Praise and Thanksgiv- “ ing; most humbly beseeching Thee to grant “ that, by the Merits and Death of thy Son “ Jesus Christ, and through Faith in his “ Bloud,

* If there be any more Time before All have communicated, it may be usefully employed in considering the Original Institution, Design, and Advantages, of this Religious Rite, as they are plainly set forth in several parts of this Book.

126 The Nature and End of the “ Bloud, We and all thy whole Church may “ obtain remission of our Sins, and all other “ Benefits of his Passion. — We present un- “ to Thee Ourselves — to be a reasonable, “ holy, and lively Sacrifice unto Thee ; hum- “ bly beseeching Thee that All We who are “ Partakers of this Holy Communion may be “ fulfilled with thy Grace and heavenly Bene- “ dition.”

The Sacrifices which alone are here mentioned, are The Sacrifice of Praise and Thanksgiving ; and the Sacrifice of Ourselves, as offered and devoted to the Service of God, in a Life of Holiness becoming Christians, now Solemnly professing Themselves such : Both of these called Sacrifices in a figurative Sense ; and both offered by the Whole Congregation. The Two Petitions here made, are very proper after this Solemnity. The One is, Not only that We, who have now partaken of it, but that the Whole Body of Those who profess Themselves Christians, may, by the Love of God shewn forth to the World in Christ Jesus, and through Him, be accepted in their sincere and constant Endeavors to do his Will, notwithstanding their Imperfections ; in such a manner as to obtain forgiveness of all their past

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 127

past and forsaken Sins, and all other Benefits which the Death and Sufferings of Christ lead his Followers to, or procure for Them. The other Petition is, That All We, who have, in obedience to our Lord's Command, now partaken of his Supper, in a Religious remembrance of Him, may be acceptable to God, so as to be filled with his Favor; and to be guided, assisted, and blessed by Him, in our Christian Course through this World to a Better.

These things are not spoken of, as sealed to Us, or procured for Us, by this single Action of partaking worthily of The Lord's Supper: but it is here properly made the Prayer of every Christian, that He may, in other parts of his Conduct, as well as this, be a Christian indeed; and so be entitled to the Blessing and Mercy of God, in their full Extent, through Jesus Christ. If We hope for remission of our Sins, through Christ; it must be upon his Terms only: and therefore, We ought to express (as we do in the former of these petitions) our earnest desire that Nothing may, on our part, hinder our receiving so great a good: a Good, not to be attained by doing one part of our Lord's Will, but the Whole. So likewise, the latter of
of

of these petitions does not suppose that the very partaking of this Holy Communion has already filled Us with Grace and God's heavenly Benediction: but is framed to express the desire of a Christian mind, that We, who have done This part of our Duty, may be still farther favored, directed, assisted, and blessed, in the performance of all our Duty, and in the obtaining the Happiness promised, not to the performance of this part of his Will alone, but, to the Regular and Honest performance of the Whole. And these Points ought to be kept distinct: that the Sense of what is necessary to Salvation, may be preserved, in it's full force, upon the minds of Christians.

There is Another Form of Thanksgiving, and Prayer, allowed to be used, upon this occasion; but very seldom, I think, read. In this, We are taught to say,---“ Almighty and “ Everliving God, We most heartily thank Thee
 “ for that Thou dost vouchsafe to feed Us, “ who have duly received these Holy Mys- “ teries, with the Spiritual Food of the most “ precious Body and Blood of thy Son our Sa- “ viour Jesus Christ; and dost assure Us “ thereby of thy Favor and Goodness towards “ Us; and that We are very Members in- “ corporate

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 129

“ corporate in the Mystical Body of thy “ Son, which is the Blessed Company of all “ faithfull people; and are also Heirs, “ through hope, of thy Everlasting Kingdom, “ by the merits of the most precious death “ and passion of thy dear Son.” — After “ which, We beg of God so to assist Us, “ with his Grace, that we may continue in “ that holy Fellowship, and do all such good “ Works as He has prepared for Us to walk “ in.” &c. The Holy Mysteries here spoken of, are the Bread and Wine, which are Me- morials of something not present, viz: of the Body and Bloud of Christ. They who have duly received these, have done it, as Christ's Disciples, sincerely believing in Him.
And they are said to be admitted to feed upon the Body and Bloud of Christ; not by eating the Natural Body, and drinking the Natu- ral Bloud of Christ; (which it is horrible even to mention;) but, in a figurative Sense, by eating this Bread, and drinking this Wine, in solemn Remembrance of his Body broken and Bloud shed for Mankind. Thus, by a strong Figure of Speech, They may be said to feed upon the Body and Bloud of Christ, as They perform these Actions, believing and receiving Christ, and his Doctrine:

130 The Nature and End of the

and God may be said to propose to Them his Blessed Son to be acknowledged as their Master, and his Doctrine to be digested into their Spiritual nourishment, by calling Them to a Profession of their Faith, in their Attendance upon this Institution. Every thing may be called Food, in a Spiritual sense, which tends to the improvement of the Soul in what is truly good; as Bodily Food does to the health of the Body. And therefore, As Bread and Wine, taken at an ordinary Meal, are the Food of our Bodies; so this Bread and Wine, taken in a serious and Religious Remembrance of Christ, as our Master, may, (in a figurative, Spiritual, or Religious sense,) be stiled the Food of our Souls, or the Nourishment of Us considered as Christians: as the Receiving them duly implies in it our believing and receiving the Whole Doctrine of Christ, which is the Food of the Christian Life; and leads our Thoughts to All such Obligations and Engagements on our part, and all such promises on God's part, as are most usefull and sufficient for our Improvement in All that is worthy of a Christian.

And

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 131

And Almighty God, on his part, requiring and accepting our due performance of this part of our Duty, does by this assure Us, who come to profess our selves the Disciples of Christ, that We are in his Favor. Or, in other words, The Lord's Supper, being instituted as the Memorial of his Goodness towards Us in Christ Jesus, may justly be looked upon, as a Token and Pledge to assure Us of what it calls to our Remembrance, viz. that God is ready to pardon and bless Us, upon the Terms proposed by his Son : and consequently, that We are received by Him as the Disciples of Christ, Members of his Body the Church, and Heirs of his Heavenly Kingdom ; in a word, as Persons entitled to all the Happinesses promised to Christians, if We be not wanting to Ourselves in Other parts of our Duty. And that We may not fall short of so great Mercies, We are taught, in the Prayer annex'd to this Thanksgiving, to ask God's assistance towards our performance of what is still on our part necessary, in the conduct of our Lives, after our having duly partaken of the Holy Communion. Neither here, is this Grace of G O D supposed to be a certain and immediate effect of our receiving this Sacrament WORTHILY; but is plainly left (as it ought to be) as the Subject of a Christian's Prayer, wholly distinct from the Duty of communicating.

132 The Nature and End of the

This, I think, is the only Explication of these Figurative Expressions, agreeable to the primary Design of this Rite. If Any, not content with this, seek for Another; They must not seek for it, as far as I can judge, in the Original Institution.

I have thus endeavored to explain Every Passage in the Communion-Office, which seemed at all to want Explication; in order to make the Whole more useful to Those who attend, in our Churches, upon the Lord's Supper, with a sincere Design of partaking of It according to the Institution of Christ himself; and of forming all their Thoughts and Behavior, during the whole time of their Attendance, agreeably to the True Original Design of it.

XVIII. Whether any Privileges, or Benefits, are annex'd to the Partaking Worthily of the Lord's Supper; and what they are that are annex'd nex'd to it; can appear only from the Words of the New Testament itself; or from the real Nature and End of this Institution, and what is necessarily included in it.

I. As to the Words of the New Testament; We must seriously consider all the Texts in it, relating to this Subject; in order to judge whether it has pleased God to annex, in express words, any Promises to this Duty (peculiarly) of partaking of the Lord's Supper: or to declare, in express words, any Privileges to belong to Christians, for the sake, or by means, of their Attendance upon it.

And here, before I proceed to make any Remark upon the Passages which I have already produced and explained, I think it just to mention One, in regard to the judgment of Some Good Interpreters, who think it relates to the Subject We are now upon; tho' in my own opinion, They have not the least foundation for thinking so. I mean That in St. Paul's first Epistle to the Cor. ch. xii, ver. 13. For by one spirit are We [or, We have been] all baptized into one Body; whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free ; and have been all made to drink into one spirit. These last words have been interpreted by Some *, to relate to drinking the Bloud of Christ in the Lord's Supper ; and by that Bloud, commemorated in that religious Rite, being made “ to have all one “ life or Spirit ; as the same Bloud, diffused “ thro’ the whole natural Body, communicates the same life and Spirit to all the “ Members.” And by Others, the same words have been made to signify the participation of the moral fruits, or Graces, of God’s holy Spirit, by means of receiving the Cup in the Lord's Supper. Now, in order to judge of these Interpretations, and to find out the true meaning of this Text, We ought to consider both the Words and Phrases made use of ; and the main design of the Writer in the whole passage to which it belongs.

134 The Nature and End of the

1. The Words themselves are such, as St Paul can hardly be supposed to make use of, concerning the Lord's Supper. The partaking of this Rite was never by Him, nor by any other Writer, in the New Testament, (as far as I can recollect,) represented by that one particular part of it, which consists in drinking

* See Mr. Locke, and Others.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 135

drinking, in remembrance of the Bloud of Christ: And this drinking at the Lord's Table was never once by Him, nor any other Sacred Writer, expressed by being made to drink into the Spirit of GOD; or any thing like it. On the contrary, He himself, in the two foregoing chapters, speaks of this part of that Holy Rite, in plain words, and very different language; without once mentioning this drinking of, or into, the Spirit, or any thing equivalent to it. He there uses the phrases of the Communion (or partaking) of the Bloud of Christ; and of partaking of the Cup of the Lord: and it can hardly be thought that He would immediately change his way of speaking; and, after He had quitted the subject of the Lord's Supper, return to it without any notice; and describe one part of it by the phrase of being made to drink of, or into, the same Spirit, not at all like to his former language about it.

The mention of Baptism in the former part of the same verse, is no argument at all that the Lord's Supper must be intended in the latter part of it. For We find the Rite of Baptism, in every other passage of the New Testament in which it is mentioned, spoken of, and sometimes enlarged upon, without any mention of, or allusion to, the Lord's Supper. But it ought here to be observed that the giving of the Spirit, that is, the extraordinary Gifts of it, was so closely joined, in the very first days of the Gospel, to Baptism itself, (generally following upon the imposition of the Apostle's hands, presently after it,) that This alone will account for the speaking of the drinking of, or into, the Spirit, in the same sentence with Baptism; and connecting one to the other. And in this sense the receiving of the Spirit is, in some places of the New Testament, spoken of, as following after Baptism; but never as following upon the partaking of the Lord's Supper: which is at least a probable argument that this latter was not at all referr'd to, in this obscure text.

Nor indeed do I see how the Greek Word, here used, immediately after that of having been baptized, can signify any thing depending upon repeated Acts of ordinary Duty. For, as the phrase, We have been baptized, refers to one single Rite by which Christians are declared to be made one Body; so, the phrase, We have been made to drink into One and the same Spirit, must naturally refer to one single past Fact, after that Baptism. And thus the Apostle's manner of speaking leads leads us to think : which is a positive declaration of this drinking (not of the Cup or of the Bloud of the Lord, but) of, or into, the Spirit ; as a certain Fact to which the Corinthians were then Witnesses; and not as a Fact depending upon what was uncertain, or upon a Rite to be often repeated. This distinguishes it fully from any drinking of the Spirit, which is consequent upon drinking something else ; and from any effect of drinking, in the Communion, which must undoubtedly depend upon the temper and good behavior of Christians, at every participation of the Lord's Supper. And indeed, no great and wonderful Favors can well be supposed to have been spoken of to the Corinthians, by St Paul, as visible and certain effects of the participation of the Lord's Supper amongst Them, after the very different language concerning this Rite ; and the sharp reproofs of the conduct of many of them in their attendance upon it, which He had before made use of. I might add that, in the propriety of language, had the Apostle intended to speak of repeated Acts of partaking of the Cup of the Lord, He would have used the word [ποτιζόμεθα] in the present Tense, to signify that We are, by our repeated attendance at the Lord's Table, frequently made to drink of, or into, the Spirit ;

138 The Nature and End of the rit; and not [ἐποτίσθημεν] We have been made to drink of, or into, it; which answering exactly to [ἐπαβτίσθημεν] We have been baptized, must probably, (as this latter does,) refer to one Fact, stated and certain.

2. This, I think, will be put beyond doubt by the plain Design of St Paul, in this whole Chapter. In which, after He has made an End of his directions and observations relating to the Lord's Supper, He introduces a perfectly new Subject. ch. xii. v. 1. Now, as concerning spiritual gifts, Brethren, I would not have you ignorant. He then puts them in mind of the different sorts of Gifts, or Graces; all given by the same Spirit, for the good and advantage of the whole Body of Christians. In going over the particular Gifts in his view, He does not mention any of the moral virtues; as the Gifts He here means. Every one of These is indeed represented by Him, in other Epistles, as the Fruit of the Christian Spirit; the genuine work and product of Christianity, in opposition to the Works of the Flesh; Gal. v. 22. Eph. v. 8. and they are all called καρποὶ τοῦ πνεύματος. But the other are χαρίσματα, the uncommon favors, or Graces, in another Sense, as peculiarly bestowed upon some particular persons. These alone, (such as an Extraor- dinary

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 139

dinary Faith, in order to work miracles; the gift of healing diseases; the Power of discerning the Spirits of others;) are here mention'd, as instances of the spiritual Graces amongst the Corinthians. And these, coming from the Holy Spirit of God, as Waters flow from a Fountain, are well represented under that figure. Thus, after the Apostle has mentioned the particulars, v. 4—11. He comes to his argument, by which He designs to persuade all persons concern'd, to use these extraordinary Gifts, according to the design of the Giver, for the good of the Whole Society. “ As it is, saith He, ver. 12. in the “ natural Body, so it is with the Christian so- “ ciety. We are to consider ourselves as ma- “ ny Members composing one Body: and ob- “ liged to act for the good of the Whole. For “ v. 13. We have all been baptized, and by “ that Rite, declared to make One Body, “ or Society; and it is One and the same Spi- “ rit, of which All of Us, who have been “ favored with these extraordinary gifts, “ have been made to drink, for the use of “ the Church; and by which Every part “ of the Church is to be benefited: just as, “ in the natural Body, All members partake “ of the same life, from One and the same “ prin-

140 The Nature and End of the “ principle.” From hence to the twenty seventh verse He illustrates what He intends, by the Union and correspondence of the several Members of the Body natural, all sympathizing with, and assisting, one another : and then, v. 27. resumes the same conclusion, that “ So it is in the Body of Christ, of “ which every Christian is a Member. One “ is favored with one sort of gifts ; Another with Another : but All, in subservien- “ cy to the Good and Advantage of the “ Whole.” And in enumerating these Gifts, and the persons who possess them, He still mentions, not any of the Moral virtues which are called the Fruits of the Spirit ; but only the Extraordinary Offices, and Gifts, bestowed upon Some, and not common to all, even in those days. After this, in the last verse, He introduces his discourse about the Importance of Charity, the greatest of Moral Virtues ; by distinguishing it from the Gifts (χαρίσματα) He had been speaking of ; and professing that He was going to shew Them a more excellent way, by pointing out, and describing This, in it’s full extent. And, after having spent the whole 13th chapter in inflaming their desires after Charity, which it was in the power of all sincere Christians

to

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 141

to possess; and in setting it above all those Extraordinary gifts themselves; He commands them ch. xiv. 1. to pursue after Charity in the first place; and then to be as fond and as desirous as They please of the extraordinary Spiritual Gifts before-mention'd. Of these very spiritual Gifts, He presently directs Them to value and wish for, such as were the most usefull to the whole Church assembled; and not the most pompous and astonishing. So that We see, Charity itself, that Great Moral virtue in the Christian System, is not One of these Gifts implied in the Text, I have been now explaining; but is distinguished from them, and preferr'd before them.

From all this it is plain that, in the passage before Us, in which St Paul declares the Christians to have been made to drink into the same Spirit, He had not the Moral Virtues in his view, as the Effect of that or any other drinking; but the Extraordinary Graces or Favors, call'd in this chapter χαρίσματα, and in the next τὰ πνευματικά spiritual Gifts, as the very things which They had been made to drink, or which had been communicated to them immediately from the Spirit: and that He is not here speaking at all of the

142 The Nature and End of the

the Attendance of Christians upon the Lord's Table ; or of any Rite of Religion, as necessary in order to obtain these Gifts; but indeed arguing to quite another purpose. Upon the whole therefore, the Meaning of this Passage may be thus expressed. “ For “ as We all, whether Jews or Gentiles, “ have been baptized into one Body, that is,
“ by Baptism have been declared Members “ of the one Christian Society, Christ's “ mystical Body; so likewise All We, who “ have been endowed with the extraordinary “ Gifts which flow immediately from the “ Spirit of GOD, as from a fountain, of “ which We have been made to drink ; “ that All We, I say, had these extraordi“ nary Gifts bestowed upon Us, by one, “ and the same Spirit; for the Good and “ Edification of the whole Church, and not “ for the ostentation and glory of particular “ Members.” The partaking of these Gifts of the Spirit plainly seems to be the drink- ing intended by the Apostle in these figurative words; and not the drinking of any 2 Cup, or Liquor, (litterally speaking) in order to the obtaining any moral virtues, or graces.
This Text therefore, can never be urged as an Instance, or Proof, of any Promise, or Privilege,

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 143

Privilege, expressly annex'd by our Saviour, or his Apostles, to the participation of the Lord's Supper.

And now, if We review all the Passages of the New Testament, which I have before produced, (and they are All which can be thought to relate to this Rite,) We shall find that there is only One of them, which has been supposed by any Interpreters to imply in it any immediate Benefit, or Privilege, annex'd to the Partaking of this Rite : viz. That of St Paul, in which the partaking of the Cup, and of the Bread, at the Lord's Table, is said to be “ The Communion of the Bloud, and of the Body, of “ Christ.” This I acknowledge, has been interpreted by Many to signify “ An actual “ partaking of All the Benefits of his Sufferings and Death for our sakes.” But I have already shewn at some length, [p. 39, &c.] that the Apostle's Argument in that place, and his plain Intention in it, neither require, nor admit, this Sense of the Words. And I was the more solicitous to put this in a clear light, because I esteemed it of very pernicious Consequence to lead Christians to think that This, or any One, single Instance stance of Obedience to the Will of God, however Worthily performed, and suitably to It's Nature and End, could possibly be to Them, the partaking of All the Benefits of Christ's Life and Death. Such a Doctrine as this, would, in my opinion, be inconsistent with the plainest Declarations of the Gospel; and not only inconsistent with, but directly contradictory and destructive to, the Main Design of it: and therefore, cannot be the Sense of any Passage in that Gospel, which was reveled to teach Men other Measures of Acceptance with God. Much less ought so Important a Doctrine to be built upon any Passage which, at best, is own'd to be of the Figurative Sort, and of dubious Interpretation.

144 The Nature and End of the

The Truth of what I am saying will appear still more plainly from One Instance: and That shall be, the Benefit of Remission of our past Sins through Jesus Christ. If it be asked,——Do We not partake of this Benefit, by our partaking of the Lord's Supper worthily? I must answer, No; if the Gospel be true. For in that, No pardon of past Sins is promised, or given, unless to Those just converted, renouncing their Sins, and baptized into the Christian Faith; or to Those

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 145

Those who, having sinned after Baptism, actually amend their lives. A Disposition towards this Amendment; a Resolution to Amend, are very good Steps: and These are virtually implied in our Professing ourselves Christians, and Remembring Christ, as our Lord and Master, at his Table. But neither this Disposition, nor this Resolution, let them be never so sincere, are themselves Actual Amendment. And this Actual Amendment being so necessary a Qualification, that there is No Forgiveness of Sins after Baptism promised without it; it remains certain that No Act of Religion, without this, can be a Title to such Forgiveness. So far is the Performance of this Duty from being itself the Claim, or Seal, to All the Benefits of Christ's Death; that it is not so, to this single Benefit: which cannot be obtained without a Practice conformable to the Laws of the Gospel.

Accordingly, In our publick Office it is not supposed that the Worthy partaking of the Lord's Supper does itself operate this forgiveness; but it is made part of a Prayer to God, that They who have partaken of it, may obtain Remission of their Sins, and all other Benefits, &c. They are taught to pray

L

thus,

146 The Nature and End of the

thus, after the Act of Communion is over ; which supposes that It is not already obtained : and the Words can be understood in no Sense, consistent with the whole Gospel, but this, That they may behave Themselves in All respects, (as, it is hoped, They have in This one,) so agreeably to the Will of God, that They may be of the Number of Those who shall be pardoned and accepted : and that This particular Duty, rightly performed, may be One Mean of leading them to a steady Perseverance in all that is good.

Agreeably to all this, We ought to explain that Passage in the Church-Catechism, in which, it being asked, What is the Inward part, or thing signified, in the Lord's Supper ? the Answer is, The Body and Bloud of Christ, which are verily and indeed taken and received by the Faithfull, in the Lord's Supper : which words, for want of an Equitable Explication, have been charged with an absurdity equal to That of Transubstantiation itself. That they cannot be meant of Christ's Natural Body and Bloud, Every one, who knows the Principles of the Compilers of the Catechism, and the Doctrine of our Church, not only allows but contends. By Faith, or a sincere believing in Christ,
and

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 147

and receiving Him as our Master, We are said indeed, figuratively to eat the Flesh, and drink the Bloud, of the Son of Man; as We take in, and digest, for our Spiritual Nourishment, all his Doctrine. But this is not by Faith, considered peculiarly at the Lord's Table; but by Believing in general.

Nor can the Meaning be, That the Benefits of Christ's Body broken, and Bloud shed, are verily and indeed taken and received by the Faithfull in the Lord's Supper: not merely because This, as I have already shewn, is not true; but because, I think, it contradicts Another, and a plainer, Part of this very Catechism. For just before, the Question being asked, "Why was the Lord's Supper ordained?" This very short and full Answer is given,—"For the continual Remembrance of the Sacrifice of the Death of Christ; and of the Benefits which We receive thereby." We see, It is for the remembrance of all the Benefits, which are promised to be bestowed upon us by means of Christ; and not for the actual receiving those Benefits, that our Church declares this Rite to be ordained. This Remembrance of them is indeed, One Mean tending to the

L 2

obtaining

148 The Nature and End of the

obtaining them: as it tends to our confidering and apprehending what They are, and upon what Terms propofed to Us; and as it is in itfelf an Acceptable Obedience to a Command of our Saviour. But it is but One Mean; and that, in thefe Senses: which are very different from the Senfe I am oppofing.

But however; this Paſſage in the Catechifm will, I think, lead Us to the only Confiſtent Senſe of the words, we are now confidering: which, I own, are very Figurative, where a Figure ought rather to have been explained, than made uſe of. Comparing therefore, both theſe Paſſages together; the meaning of the Words appears to be, That the Things ſignified, or appointed to be remember'd in this Rite, are the Body and Bloud of Chriſt; That theſe may be ſaid to be received by the Faithfull, (that is, by Believers,) as They alone ſincerely and ſeriously eat this Bread and drink this Wine, in Memory of Chriſt's Body and Bloud. The Nature of the thing ſuppoſes them Faithfull, (that is, Believers in Jeſus Chriſt,) before they are capable of this Remembrance of Him, as their Maſter. And conſequently, the Faithfull are ſaid verily and indeed to take and receive the Body and Bloud of Chriſt: because because Believers alone, coming as such, eat his Body and drink his Bloud, indeed, or in that very Sense in which He appointed them to do it; viz. by eating Bread, and drinking Wine, in a thankfull and serious remembrance of his Natural Body broken, and Bloud shed. Or, in words a little different, They who eat this Bread, and drink this Wine, in Religious Remembrance of Christ's Body and Bloud, do verily and indeed perform these Commands of His, Take, Eat, This is my Body; and Drink ye all of this, For this is my Bloud. They take Both, in that Sense in which He called them his Body and Bloud; viz: as Memorials of Them. And this is said of the Faithfull, or sincere Believers, in distinction from Others: who, being careless, or not True Believers, may take and receive the Bread and Wine; but take it, as at a Common Table, not religiously remembering the Lord's Body and Bloud; which therefore, such Persons do not take and receive, in the Sense of the Institution, for want of this serious Faith and Remembrance. If this be not the Sense of this Passage, I own myself unable to say what is.

150 The Nature and End of the

It is not therefore, I think, truly affirm'd that "The participation * of the Benefits purchased by Christ's death, is, by a very proper figure of Speech, in this Sacrament, styled, The receiving of CHRIST'S Body and Bloud; as it is, in the other, [viz. Baptism] styled a being buried with Christ and rising with Him again." For,

1. This latter Expression, made use of by St Paul, with relation to Baptism, is taken from the Custom of Immersion in the first days; and from that particular manner of baptizing Profelytes; by which They were first cover'd with Water, and in a State as it were of Death and Inactivity; and then arose out of it into a sort of New State of Life and Action. And if Baptism had been then performed, as it is now amongst Us; We should never have so much as heard of this Form of Expression, of dying and rising again, in this Rite. But farther, This figurative Expression is not ever made use of to signify any Benefit, or Privilege, actually obtained at the time of receiving Baptism worthily; or by means of it: but peculiarly applied to the Duty and obligation the baptized Person is reminded of, by this particular manner of Baptism. This is evidently the Tendency of this Figurative phrase; and the Use the Apostle actually makes of it, Rom. vi. 3, 4, 11, 12. In which chapter, tho' the Apostle mentions the great happiness of living again with Christ, as what we have a right from GOD's promises to expect, if We truly die with Him, in the moral Sense of that phrase; yet, what He recommends to Christians, as figured by the particular manner of Baptism then in use, is the strict obligation upon them of being like persons dead unto sin, and alive only unto Righteousness: without which Baptism will aggravate the punishment of Christians, instead of entitling Them to any Blessings.

* See Dr. Clarke's Exp. Ch. Cat. p. 311.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 151

2. The other Form of Expression, receiving the Body and Bloud of Christ, is taken from the words of the Institution, in which the Bread and Wine are called the Body and Bloud of Christ; and from the Communion, or participation, of the Bloud and of the Body of Christ, in the Lord's Supper, spoken of by St Paul I. Cor. X. 16. But I have already shewn that St Paul, in that passage, was not concerning Himself with the Benefits of partaking of the Lord's Supper; but with the relation of the Cup and the Bread, there mention'd, to the Bloud and Body of Christ, which They were appointed to call to the remembrance of Christians: and consequently, that This phrase was never used by Him to signify All, or even Any, of the Benefits purchased by Christ's death. And as for the Words of the Institution, Take, Eat, This is my Body, and Drink—This is my Bloud; They cannot possibly signify, Take and Receive actually at this very Time the Benefits of my Death: But, Take and eat This Bread, in remembrance of my Body, and this Wine in remembrance of my Bloud. For the Words, Do this in remembrance of Me, very plainly explain the whole. Christ, and the Benefits purchased by Him, are to be remember'd in this partaking of the Lord's Supper; and therefore neither He, nor those Benefits, are supposed to be actually received at the time, or by the Acts, of eating this Bread, and drinking this Wine.

The Phrase of eating Christ's Flesh, and drinking his Bloud, as it is used by Him, John. vi. 56, signifies the Duty of believing, and digesting his Doctrine; and not any Benefits accruing from that eating and drinking.

The

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 153

The eating and drinking Wisdom [Ecclus. xxiv. 21.] is nothing but the Feeding and Improving our Souls by That, as We do Our Bodies by Meat and Drink. And neither of these phrases does at all shew, that “receiving the Body and Bloud of Christ” in the Lord's Supper is a proper figure of Speech to signify the actual Participation of the Benefits purchased by his Death; or that any such Thing is signified by this Expression.

II. If We now proceed to enquire, What those Privileges or Benefits are, which are truly and certainly annexed to this Duty, or implied in it, the Answer I think, is; All that either in general are promised, or naturally belong, to a sincere Obedience to any Positive Commands of God, known by Us to be Such; or, in particular, are, in the nature of the Thing itself, implied in this Rite, or result from it. When I argued before that No Promise was made to this particular Duty, as distinct from All others; I added, In express words: because it was far from my design to exclude out of a Christian's thought, and Expectation, Any of those Promises which attend upon All Duties of the like sort; or Any of those Natural Consequences quences from This particular Duty, which may be considered as the Promises, in effect, of Him who made it a Duty. Thus, for instance, All that Favor, and Acceptance, and Good Pleasure, of Almighty God, which are plainly promised and annexed to Our Assembling ourselves in obedience, and in honour, to Him and his Authority, may as certainly be expected from our Assembling for the Purposes of this Institution, as for other Religious Purposes. We may be sure, We are pleasing Almighty God, whilst We are obeying the Command of his Son; and performing what We esteem our Duty: and this We ought to look upon as a great Happiness.

154 The Nature and End of the

But in this particular Instance of our Duty, We can with Reason go farther. I say with Reason: because the Benefits received, from all such Performances, by reasonable Creatures, cannot possibly be received, but in a reasonable way. These Duties, how well soever performed, cannot be supposed to operate as Charms; nor to influence Us, as if We were only Clock-work, or Machines, to be acted upon by the Arbitrary force of a superior Being. But, in the natural and reasonable tendency of them We ought to found our main

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 155

main Expectations ; unless We are otherwise directed by God himself. And if We do ; We shall find that, by our partaking of the Lord's Supper, according to the Nature and Design of it, We profess ourselves Christ's Disciples ; and acknowledge our obligation to live according to his Laws : that by this we are led to a serious Consideration of the Tenor and Design of his holy Religion ; and to the sincerest Thankfulness for all that He did and suffered for Us ; as well as to the most proper Dispositions and Resolutions of behaving Ourselves as becomes Us, in our Relation to Him as our Head, and to our Brethren as Fellow-Members with Us of the same Body. This is therefore, an effectual Acknowledgment of our strict Obligation to all Instances of Piety, and Virtue. And thus, by its own Tendency, It leads our Thoughts, and consequently our Practice, to All that is Good, and to All that is necessary for Us to ask of GOD, or to act Ourselves, towards our Advancement in it. So that Our Attendance upon this Rite is not only the paying a Religious Service, in the way appointed by Christ ; which cannot but be always favorably accepted by GOD : but it is a doing That, which we ourselves can see
to

156 The Nature and End of the

to tend naturally to revive and keep alive in our Minds all such Thoughts, Dispositions, and Tendencies, as are proper to work upon the Conduct of our whole Lives.

And what reasonable Creature would not be content with Benefits of this sort, which are always of substantial and lasting service; without fancying to Himself Privileges, Communications, or Impressions, from above, of Another sort, never expressly promised to this Duty; never with certainty to be rightly judged of, in any Case; often fallacious; and always leaving the Mind, in which the Images of them have been worked up, in a State satisfied with what carries no rational satisfaction in it; and too often in a Disposition of thinking meanly of Those Real and Practical Excellencies, which are the True Heights, and Exalted Accomplishments, of the Christian Life? In this way, the Lord's Supper is One of the Means of Grace, in every good sense of that Phrase: as the due Partaking of it tends to procure Us the present favor of GOD; as it is the Mean which naturally leads to such Dispositions, and Christian Graces, as entitle Us finally to his Favor in Heaven; and which, amongst Other Means, helps to render Us fit for All such

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 157

such Assistances as are proper for Him to give to Free and Reasonable Creatures.

If any Persons think This a Low Character of such a Rite, instituted by our Lord himself, upon so great and remarkable an occasion; This must arise either from the low Opinion They have conceived of the highest Good of Mortal Man; which is, The Uniform Practice of Morality, chosen by Ourselves as our happiness here, and our unspeakable Reward hereafter; or, from the Notion They have entertained of some Express Promise annexed by G O D to this Duty, which implies more in it than I have said. When this Promise is produced, Every Christian ought to receive it with Joy; and form his Expectations upon it. But till He can find this Promise, He ought not to deceive his own Soul, or suffer it to be deceived by Others, into fond and groundless Imaginations of Things never included in this Rite by its great and good Founder: when at the same time, after all our searches, Nothing more truly Great or Good can be found out, or said, of such an Institution, designed for the Advantage of Free Agents, than “ That it “ will help Us, if We be not wanting to “ Our Selves, in our Voluntary and sincere “ Endeavors

158 The Nature and End of the “ Endeavors of reforming all our Vices, and “ increasing in All Virtue, which is our “ Likeness to GOD himself.” Upon these Reasons, taken from the Nature and Design of the Institution itself, I have said what I think true of it: but I am not at liberty to say more of It, and of the Benefits accru-ing from It, and Privileges annexed to It, than what is truly and plainly expressed or implied in the Words of Scripture; which alone must determine the Nature and Effect of this Rite.

To say that This Communion is the Actual partaking of All the Benefits of Christ's Body broken and Bloud shed; or, in other words, of his Living and Dying for Our Good; is not only (as I have already observed) to put That upon One single Act of Religious Obedience, which is by our Blessed Lord made to depend upon the Whole System of all Virtues united: but, in the present Case, has this peculiar absurdity in it, that in this Rite, which was instituted for the Remembrance of Christ, it destroys that very Notion of Remembrance, which is the Essence of it. The great design of this Institution is to call to Remembrance the Death of Christ; and, what is implied in This, to commemorate

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 159

rate the Benefits accruing to Christians from it. To make it therefore, the actual partaking of these Benefits, is altering the Nature of it; as much as actual partaking of Any thing, is different from Remembring it, or calling It to mind. It is to suppose these Benefits present, which are to be commemorated; and therefore, are not, according to the Institution, consider'd as present; but only as Good things promised by Christ to all his Followers who shall be found at last to have come up to his Terms, as far as the Imperfection of humane nature would permitt. This peculiar Remembrance of Him, and of these Benefits, is indeed, One, (and but One) Mean of procuring them; not at the very time of the due performance of this Rite, but after it: not by any necessary or instantaneous Effect upon Christians, but as it may lead and help Them, to such Thoughts, and Resolutions, as may confirm Them in that Universal Obedience which alone can entitle them to the Promises of Christ.

To say that This Sacrament is designed and ordained peculiarly for the obtaining of God's Holy Spirit, is, I think, to forget and contradict those Express words of our Saviour, in which He himself has annexed that that Benefit (whatever the nature and degree of it be, according to the different Ages of the Church, and the various necessities of Christians;) to the Duty of Prayer: which is a Duty absolutely distinct from the Participation of the Lord's Supper; though it may very properly go before, and follow after, it. I say, properly: not necessarily, in such sense that the Communion would not be the Communion without it; but suitably to the good design and Tendency of this Rite, and most usefully to Ourselves.

160 The Nature and End of the

The Promise of Christ's being in the midst of Us, is not peculiar to Our Attendance upon this Rite; but, as far as it relates to Christians of later ages, it belongs to our Assembling in His Name, or as His Disciples, upon this, or upon any Other, Religious Account.

To call it the Food of Our Souls, is not to give it a Name peculiarly proper to This, as distinct from All other Points in which we are equally concern'd. The Word of GOD, and the Doctrine of Christ, are expressly represented under the Notion of Our Food, viz. the Food of our Souls: as They tend to improve Us in what He requires of Us, and to nourish Us unto Eternal life. And so may

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 161

may Prayer, and so may this Rite, be called, by a strong figure of Speech; and so may Every thing else, which leads us to a Life of Virtue: every Step of which may be styled, by the same figure, the Nourishment and Strength of our Souls, towards a farther improvement. But the Danger of a Mistaken Expectation, from calling This so, is the Greater; because, the Rite itself consisting in eating Bread and drinking Wine, the Expression is apt to convey the Notion of something mechanically or miraculously conveyed at the same Time into the Soul, which is Food to That, as the Bread eaten is to the Body. But This, and other Mistakes arising from various Forms of Expression are, I think, originally owing to our neglecting the simple primary Idea, annexed to this Institution, of the Remembrance of Christ's Death: a Notion, which, constantly attended to, would guard Us against the Errors arising from all sorts of Expressions. And to this we shall always carefully attend, unless We can come to think the sole Account left Us, by Christ and his Apostles, of this Institution, too low and plain for us to be contented with; and greatly to stand in need of our Additions to heighten and improve it.

This will teach us the true Sense to be put upon that Answer in our Church-Catechism, which declares the Benefits of which We are Partakers, in this Rite, to be, The strengthening and refreshing of our Souls by the Body and Bloud of Christ, as our Bodies are by the Bread and Wine: viz. That, as Bread and Wine, considered only as Natural Food, strengthen and refresh our Bodies; so, This Bread and Wine, considered and taken as Memorials of the Body and Bloud of Christ our Master, lead Us, by their peculiar Tendency, to all such Thoughts and Practices, as are indeed the Improvement and Health of our Souls. And thus, if Justin Martyr, one of the Early Writers, calls the Eucharist by the Name of Food, or Nourishment; He ought to be understood to do this in a figurative Sense; as He would have called Any thing in Religion Food or Nourishment, which tends, in any degree, to such a Behavior and Practice, as improves Our Souls in their true and proper health and strength; and by this means helps to nourish Us unto Eternal Life. If Ignatius, St John's Disciple, and Earlier than the Former, calls the Bread broken in the Eucharist;

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 163

Eucharist, the Medicine of Immortality; Our Antidote, that we should not die but live for ever in Christ Jesus; This shews Us that there was too soon a Variety of figurative Expressions upon this Subject, introduced amongst Christians: which yet may be well interpreted by the plain Nature and Design of the Thing itself. Thus, this Bread which might, in One Sense, by a Figure, be called Food, in Another Sense might, by the same sort of figure, be called Physic; [a very different Idea from that of Food;] as the Rite, of which it is a part, is, by its Design and End, an open Profession of the Christian Religion; as it tends to keep Us in the Profession and Practice of it; and leads Us to such Thoughts and Resolutions, as are the greatest Defenses against the evil Effects of the Poison of Sin. In this Sense it may be likened to Bodily Physic: and called a Medicine for Immortality; and an Antidote against Sin and Death. Nor can it be supposed that Any of the earliest Writers spake of This Bread, or of the Eucharist, as Food or as Medicine, in any other Sense, not grounded upon the nature of the Institution, or the words of the New Testament; without supposing at the same time that in this They soon deviated from the original simplicity of Their Religion; and applied to This Rite Expressions never intended peculiarly to belong to it; nor at all proper, in any such high sense as may have been put upon them by some of late Ages.

164 The Nature and End of the

The same sort of Mistake seems to lie in calling it The Renewal of the New Covenant, on our part; and the Seal of It, on GOD's part: The former of which is a very improper Description of this Duty, as distinguished from All others; and the Latter seems to Me to have no foundation, in Any Sense.

We may indeed, be said to acknowledge and own our Covenant with GOD, through Christ, by the virtual professing Ourselves to be Christians, implied in Our Remembering Him as our Lord, in this Rite. But the same may be said of any other, even verbal, Profession of our Faith in Christ; which is equally an Acknowledgment of the same Covenant. But the Repeated Acknowledgment of our being entered into such a Covenant is by no means, nor in any proper sense, the Renewal of that Covenant. They are Two very different Ideas: and ought always to be kept so.

The

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 165

The Christian Religion is considered as a Covenant between GOD and Us. Under this figure, The Covenant, on our Part, is, Not that We consent to forfeit his Favor for ever, unless We strictly and rigorously, without any one neglect or deviation, persevere to the End of Life, in the performance of his Will: but, That We will sincerely and uniformly endeavor to perform his Will; and, if in any instance We neglect or transgress it, We will not suffer this to grow into an Habit of Sin, but recover Ourselves by greater Watchfulness, and actual Amendment of Life.

Keeping therefore, to this Notion of a Covenant; Every Individual Sin, into which a Christian may fall, though highly displeasing to Almighty God, and tending to a Total forfeiture of his Covenanted Favor, yet cannot be said to be a Breach of the whole Covenant, in such sense as to imply in it a Forfeiture of all the Benefits of It: because there is Another part of it, in which Actual Amendment is stipulated; and the Event of this must be seen, before judgment can be passed about this Total Forfeiture. But if Sin, or any Number of Us, be supposed to break and dissolve this Covenant totally; tally; so that it shall stand in need of being renewed in order to put the Christian again into a State of Favor with God: Let it be considered and answered, Can the partaking of the Lord's Supper thus renew it? Can the serious Remembrance of Christ, and the Profession of our Faith in Him, implied in this Rite; or Any Peculiarity belonging to it; be completely, and of itself, Such a Renewal as We are speaking of? Is there One such Word of promise, or privilege, mentioned, in the New Testament, as peculiarly relating to this Duty? Nothing of this kind appears there. Nor can this Duty itself be esteemed as More than One Instance of our Belief in Christ, and One Act of our Obedience; always in itself acceptable to God, as it is accompanied with a sincere Desire, and implies in it an honest Resolution, of doing his Will.

M 3

166 The Nature and End of the

In a word, The effectual Re-establishment of the Christian Covenant on our part, if it has been shaken by Our Sins, can be only compassed by that Actual Amendment which is part of the Covenant. And therefore, as the partaking of the Lord's Supper is not the Actual Amendment of our Lives, but is only that One Instance of our Christianity,
by

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 167

by which We do in effect acknowledge our Obligation to it; and by which, as by a Mean, We are naturally, and by the Appointment of Christ, led to it: Let not That Benefit be annexed to the Mean, which belongs only to the End served by That Mean; nor Those Privileges be given to One Act of Religious Profession, which are constantly and plainly taught by GOD himself to belong to the Actual Amendment of our Lives, and the sincere performance of his whole Will. And this being so, that the Actual Amendment of our lives is the only Security to this Covenant, on our part: it follows that neither the Partaking of the Lord's Supper, nor Any thing else, which is not Actual Amendment, can be spoken of, with any propriety, under that Character.

This being so plain on our part, It would be sufficient from hence to infer that this Rite of the Lord's Supper is not the Seal of the Christian Covenant, on God's part; because it is not the Renewal of it, on Our part. But it is fit to add still farther, That the Real Bloud of Christ, as shed for Us; or, in other words, his Death, is the only Seal of the Covenant: and even His Bloud, is called so, in this Figurative sense

168 The Nature and End of the

alone; viz. That, as Covenants amongst Men are signed by some peculiar Mark or Seal, in order to shew and prove their Truth and Validity: so Christ's Death, or Christ's Bloud, considered as the Proof He voluntarily gave that the Terms brought by Him to Mankind from GOD, were truly what He had represented them to be, is by a Figure of Speech called the Seal of the New Covenant; and He may be said to have sealed it with His Bloud, as his Death was the strongest proof He could give of the Reality of his own and of his Father's affection towards Mankind. This is the Seal of the Covenant; that is, It is to this Covenant what a Seal is to Humane Covenants: and there can be no Other. Christ himself put this Seal to it once; and but once: and it cannot be supposed to be set again to It, without great Impropriety and Absurdity. It was sufficient at first; and it remains so for ever. The Partaking of the Lord's Supper is the Remembrance of that Seal which Christ, according to the will of his Father, and in his Name, set to the New Covenant: and therefore, cannot be the receiving the Seal itself. It is the Commemoration of his Bloud shed long ago; and therefore, cannot be the partaking of
His

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 169

His Bloud itself. It destroys (as I have often said) the Notion of this particular Commemoration, or Remembrance, of his Bloud, to suppose it present. And consequently, The Seal here remember'd, cannot be present. There can be no actual putting to the Seal, in a Ceremony, instituted on purpose for the Commemoration of Christ's having already once for all put the Seal of his Bloud to the Covenant of Grace.

When Christ said of the Cup, at the Institution of this Rite, " This is my Bloud of " the New Covenant ;" He did not mean that Real Bloud which was to be shed, in witness to this Covenant: but Wine to be drunk in remembrance of That Bloud. And, if the Words were as St Luke and St Paul relate them, " This is the New Covenant in, (or through) my Bloud ;" He did not mean that the Cup was to be that Covenant, but a Memorial of that Covenant then to be sealed with his Bloud. But in neither of these Expressions can it be implied that this Rite is itself a repeated Seal of that Covenant ; or any thing more, than That the Wine at the Lord's Table is the Memorial of that Bloud which may be figuratively called the Seal of that Covenant ; and, in consequence of this,
the

170 The Nature and End of the

the Memorial of that Covenant itself, to the reality of which Christ's Bloud was the Seal, or Testimony. This therefore, is not properly a Fæderal Rite, or a Rite making or renewing a Covenant; but a Rite which implies in it, and leads to, the Remembrance of a Covenant to be considered as long ago proposed, fixed, and sealed, by Christ himself, on the part of Almighty God; and accepted and entred into, by Every man, personally on his own part, at the instant of his first sincerely believing in Christ, and professing himself his Disciple. Before this, No Rite can personally engage Him in this Covenant; because no one can be personally engaged in a Religion which He has not personally agreed to: tho' He may be justly liable to punishment for willfully and unreasonably refusing to enter into it, when duly and plainly offered to Him, on the part of Almighty GOD. And after this is once done, No Rite can be justly said to relate to this Covenant, any farther than as an open Profession that this Person is already engaged in it.

Neither does this Christian Rite appear to Me to answer to any Rites or Ceremonies, monies, amongst the Jews or Heathens, which were properly Fæderal Rites.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 171

To the Bloud of the Sacrifices, which Moses called The Bloud of the Covenant; Ex. xxiv. 8: To this Bloud, I say, the real Bloud of Christ answers; and not the Wine in the Lord's Supper. The Bloud of Christ is, in the same figurative Manner of speaking, the Seal of the Gospel-Covenant, in which the Bloud of those Sacrifices was the Seal of the Law-Covenant. But the Wine in the Lord's Supper is not the Bloud of the New Covenant; but appointed to be drunk in remembrance of the Bloud of the New Covenant: which makes it as different from that Bloud, and that Covenant, as the Memorial is from the Thing remembered.

If the Lord's Supper succedes in the place of the Passover; this will likewise help to shew that it cannot be Itself a Fæderal, or Covenanting, Rite. For the Paschal Supper itself was instituted, in remembrance of that Redemption or Deliverance of Israel out of Egypt, by which God claimed Them for his People. And so, the Lord's Supper was instituted for the remembrance of that Redemption or Deliverance of Christians, which God proposed
to

172 The Nature and End of the

to Them, by Christ, in his New Covenant. As therefore, the Passover was a perpetual Memorial of the One Deliverance, and the Covenant formed upon it : so is the Lord's Supper the Memorial of the Other, and of the Covenant formed upon That ; and neither of Them therefore, can be esteemed as the Actual Making those Covenants which are only remembered in them.

The Sacrifices of the Israelites, and Those of the Heathens, to which St. Paul alludes, I. Cor. x. are considered by Him in that place only as Acts of Religious Honour paid by the Jews to the True God ; and by the Heathens to supposed Imaginary Dæmons, in opposition to the True God ; as has been already shewn at large, p. 35, &c. But the Lord's Supper does not, in his argument, answer to these Sacrifices ; but to the Feasts made upon what had been before Sacrificed. Nor does the Lord's Table, in St Paul's argument, answer to the Altars spoken of by Him ; but to those Tables at which what had been before offered upon the Altars, was eaten in common by Those of the same Religion. And his whole argument rests (not upon these Feasts being Fæderal Rites, of which He says

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 173

says not a word; but) upon their being designed and understood to be in honour to that real, or supposed Being, to whom the Sacrifices had been offered: and that it was absurd for Christians to partake of these Meats in the Heathen Temples, and partake also of the Lord's Supper, at His Table; as being Actions in their natural tendency inconsistent with one another. Nor is it reasonable to stretch such Allusions as this, beyond the plain design of the Argument to which They belong.

To speak of a particular Union and Fellowship, with God, or with Angels and Archangels; as Privileges peculiarly implied or obtained in this Rite; is, I fear, to lead the Minds of Christians still farther from it's original Simplicity: and to forget that the One of these things may be said of Obedience to God's Will in general; and the Other, of the Duty of Praise or Thanksgiving in particular; more properly than of This Rite, which peculiarly implies in it our Union and Fellowship with Christ considered as Head of his Body, the Church; and with all the Members of that Body here below. It ought also to be remarked that every Petition, or Thanksgiving, used in the Publick Office, throughout our whole Attendance upon this Duty, is not a part of the Duty itself; which (strictly taken) is comprehended within the limits of Eating and Drinking, with a due Remembrance of Christ's Death. Thus the joining in the most exalted Praises with Angels and Archangels, though a very proper and devout Expression of our Sense of God's Majesty, has no more relation to This part, than to any Other part, of our Worship. The Communion would be as completely the Communion of the Body and Bloud of Christ, without it, as with it: and it is as properly a Part of our Worship every day, in the Te Deum, as it is before the Communion, or partaking of the Lord's Supper. I say, before it: for so it is placed in our Office; and not at all supposed to be of the Essence of this Duty; which ought always to be considered as distinct from all Expressions, Prayers, or Thanksgivings, which are made use of, before and after it.

out

The Communion, or Fellowship, with Other Beings, peculiarly implied in our Joint-partaking of the Lord's Supper, as I have already observed, is the Communion with Christ our Head, and with all Christians throughout the World; even with the Meaneſt
and

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 175

and Lowest, the most Afflicted and most Persecuted, here below; and not with the Exalted Spirits above. For Christ taketh not hold of Angels; but of the seed of Abraham He taketh hold. Hebr. ii. 16: by which means it is, that All Christians here below are made One Body; or Members, one with another, of One Body; under Christ. And this is a Communion which the most perfect Christian here below ought to be as proud of, as of Singing the Song of Seraphs; and what, I will presume to say, will do more than That, towards fitting and perfecting his Soul for the Happiness of a Future State. And, (what is still more to the present purpose,) It is that Communion, and Sympathy, which his Mind ought to be particularly directed to, in his Attendance upon this Holy Institution; agreeably to what St Paul says expressly, with regard to our Fellowship with the Whole Body of Christians, in this Rite. I. Cor. x. 17.

Before I leave this part of the Subject, I must observe that the Best of those Writers upon this Subject, who have taught that “ by this Sacrament Men are entitled, if “ They be worthy Receivers, to the Benefits “ purchased by Christ's death: and that by “ worthily

176 The Nature and End of the

“worthily receiving the Lord’s Supper “We renew our own part in the Chris“tian Covenant; and secure to Our selves “His continual Favour and acceptance “through Christ:” That, after all this I say, They themselves seem to suspect this Doctrine to be uncertain and hazardous; and therefore guard it with some such Restriction and Caution as this,— “Unless by any Viciousness in the Course “of Our Lives we contradict the Profes“sions of Our solemn Devotions.” But all these Forms of Expression and Caution put together, will not, I fear, at all explain the Nature and Effect of this Rite.

One reason is because they seem to contradict and destroy one another. For if by this Rite We can in any sense be said to renew our own part in the Christian Covenant; it must be only in this improper one; viz. by repeating our promises of Obedience, and acknowledging what our own obligations are: which are not Things peculiar to the Holy Communion; but may be done every day, and every hour. Under this Notion, therefore, Our partaking worthily of the Lord’s Supper implies in it the promising to do our part towards obtaining the Bene- fits of Christ's death : which is inconsistent with the Notion of Our actual participation of those Benefits, at this very time ; when we only engage our Selves to endeavour to come up, in our future lives, to those Terms without which we cannot partake of those Benefits.

Again, if by this sort of Confirmation of our own part of the Christian Covenant, at the Lord's Table, We preserve to Our selves the assurance of God's performing his part of the same Covenant ; That is, of his granting Us the Benefits purchased by Christ's death ; this also is inconsistent with the Notion of the Actual participation of them by receiving the Lord's Supper worthily. For by the very nature of a Covenant between Two, this performance on God's part must depend upon our performance of every thing stipulated on our part : which cannot be determined either from our first making, or now renewing, our part of the Covenant ; but from Our Behaviour, thro' the Course of our Lives.

And lastly, To say that by this Act of partaking of the Lord's Supper worthily “ We secure to Our Selves God's favour “ and Acceptance through Christ, unless by N “ any

178 The Nature and End of the

“ any Viciousness in the course of our lives
 “ We contradict the professions of our solemn Devotions ;” seems no better than to give to this Act, in one part of this sentence, a Privilege which is immediately taken away by declaring, in another part of the same sentence, the steady practice of all Virtue to be so necessary, that without it, the performance of this Duty worthily will be of no avail towards this acceptance. And indeed, at best it is saying nothing which teaches Us the peculiar nature of this Duty, We are enquiring after : nor any thing but what may be said, with equal propriety, of the single Duty of Prayer ; or any other of the like sort.

These very Cautions, We see, suppose (what without doubt is true) that a Christian may receive this Sacrament worthily ; and yet afterwards contradict the profession of this part of His Devotion, by a Viciousness in the Course of his Life. As therefore, on one hand, if the Man after this be Vicious and Immoral ; this Sacrament, tho’ worthily received, will not secure to Him God’s acceptance : so, on the other hand, if his Practice be in all respects worthy of a Christian ; it is his Universal Obedience to the Will

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 179

Will of God, which will be his security; and not this particular Instance of it, consider'd by itself. For in both Cases the receiving this Sacrament is the same, and of the same effect; viz. It is one Duty, worthily performed; and therefore acceptable to GOD. But, being but One, it cannot avail, without the performance of all Others; and, when accompanied with that performance, It is not to this single Instance of Christian Duty, (any more than to any other,) that the Christian owes the security of his Acceptance with GOD: but to the Practice of his Whole Duty, and of that Universal Holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord.

I have thus endeavor'd to guard myself and Others against all such Doctrines and Ways of Expression concerning this Duty, as appeared to carry along with them any Notions which might prove of bad consequence to Christians; or at best do not tend to explain the peculiar nature of it, as distinguished from all other Duties of Religion. And from what I have laid down I think it very evident that the proper and consistent way of Expression, upon this Subject, is this: “ That partaking worthily of the “ Lord’s Supper is one particular Duty of “ a Christian; that this partaking of it wor- “ thily is no more than the Performance of “ One Duty, in a manner, and with dis“ positions, suitable to the design and na“ ture of it ; and therefore ought not to “ be accounted of any more importance to“ wards the securing our Acceptance with “ G O D, than the performance of a single “ Duty of this sort can be : And that eve“ ry Christian is obliged not only to per“ form this Duty worthily, but every other “ Duty of his Religion upon Principles sui“ table to its nature ; and, as to his Final “ Acceptance with G O D through Christ, “ ought to have his Eye constantly and “ particularly upon that whole System of “ Moral Duties, upon which, throughout “ the New Testament, his Acceptance is “ constantly put ; and upon those Catalogues “ of Vices which are as constantly there de“ clared to exclude all who practise them “ from the Kingdom of Heaven, let their “ Religious performances, in other respects, “ be what they will.”

180 The Nature and End of the

To conclude, Let Christians be content with what their Master and his Apostles have taught them to expect from This Duty ;
 and

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. 181

and not think it Any Exaltation of his Institution, to magnify It into what He never designed it to be. Let them not Esteem That, as a Low Dispensation, which is as High as it was His Will to make it ; nor think, above what is written, of That, which can receive it's value only from what is written. Let them remember that All beyond, is no better than a Dream : pleasing perhaps at present ; but, in the end, hurtful to Those who infuse it into Others, and to Those who will find Themselves disappointed when They are waked out of it. Let them attend upon This Holy Institution, as the Commemoration of their Lord, the Reviver and Teacher of the purest Religion in the World : and This will lead their Thoughts to their Happiness, by the Way of their Duty ; and disengage them from dwelling chiefly upon Supernatural Favors, and exalted Privileges, where They are naturally and strongly called upon to think of their own indispensable Obligations to depart from all Iniquity ; and to practice all Virtue ; that is, to have their Conversation such as becometh the Gospel of Christ, whom They thus acknowledge for their Master.

A P P E N D I X.

T may not be unusefull to Those whose Benefit I chiefly design, before I conclude, just to mention, and explain, several of those Names, by which this Religious Rite has been heretofore, or is now, called : that so, Unlearned Readers may be as little at a loss as possible, to understand what They may at any time read, either in this, or any other, Treatise upon this Subject.

I. From the foregoing Account of the Institution, We see immediately the Reason why this Religious Rite was called The Lord's Supper : which was the First Name of it ; and a Name agreeable to the Simplicity of the Institution itself. It was instituted at, or after, the Last Supper, which our Saviour and his Disciples ate together, in Celebration of the Jewish Passover : and, as it was appointed to consist in Eating Bread and Drinking Wine, It was naturally rally called, The Lord's Supper, from that Supper at which our Lord thought fit to declare his Mind about it. But there being nothing in the Words of our Lord, or in the nature of the Thing itself, with regard to Christians, which makes this Rite at all less proper at any one time of the day than another; Nothing can be inferred, either from the Design of the Institution, or the Time of it, to confine the Celebration of it to the Evening. And accordingly, we find that some of the First Christians, (though not the very First) chose an Early Hour of the Morning to meet and partake of it; because That was the time when they could be most secure from the disturbance of their Enemies and Persecutors. And reasons of convenience may determine Others to Any other time of the Day.

One thing however seems necessary to be said; viz. That, when honest Christians are directed, under colour of Respect to this Rite, to a most scrupulous Care of not eating or drinking, before They receive this Bread and Wine: That then, I say, they ought to call to mind the time of its Institution; and the original name of the Lord's-Supper. This will immediately shew them the Weakness of entertaining any such superstitious dread of what is rather agreeable to the first Time and first Name of it, than the contrary. One would be tempted indeed, from hence to wish that the Time of partaking of the Lord's Supper had been never altered from what that Name seems to imply. But when the absurd Doctrine of Transubstantiation came into power, Every Appendage and Every Circumstance of this Rite was modelled by that Absurdity; and received Rules and Laws from it. And where that Doctrine is utterly disowned, Something will often be working the same way, in its stead, even against the natural Tendency of our Blessed Lord's own Behaviour. Thus, in the present Instance, It was in the place of the Paschal Supper, (which used to be celebrated after every other Meal of the day,) that our Saviour bad his Disciples to eat this bread, and drink this wine: but Others say, Take care to Eat this Bread and Drink this Wine, before Every other Meal. It was by the Apostles themselves call'd the Lord's Supper; and, in their days, celebrated at, or after, the time of Supper: but by Others of later ages, it has been superstitiously recommended, to be accompanied with Fasting; and this, in so particular ticular a manner, as to lead weak honest minds to think it a sort of profanation to follow the Practice even of the Apostles and the very first Examples. This is a mistaken and Imaginary Respect paid to this Rite; though often, I doubt not, sincerely and piously intended. The real Respect is, in obedience to our Lord's Command, (which does not scrupulously fix the time of day, so as to make it part of the Duty,) to partake of it, at any time which Custom has fixed, with the most serious Remembrance of Him.

Another Name by which this Rite has been long called, is The Eucharist: which in English signifies Thanksgiving. And This it is designed to be, in an high and peculiar Sense, as it is the Remembrance of that Love of God, in Christ's dying for Us, which ought to excite in Us the strongest Sentiments of Praise and Gratitude. Our Blessed Lord opened his Institution of this Rite with giving of Thanks to God. And St Paul, 1 Cor. x. 16. calls the Cup, used in this Religious Ceremony, the Cup of Blessing which we bleſs; that is, over which We speak good Words of Blessing and Praise; in allusion to that Cup, used in the Celebration of the Jewish Passover, which was upon the same account called The Cup of Blessing: and especially, as this Cup contains Wine to be drunk in remembrance of Christ's Bloud shed for our Benefit, and therefore justly directs Us to the sincerest Thankfulness to GOD. And agreeably to all this, in our Public Office, the Communion is accompanied with solemn Praises and Thanksgivings; and, at the Conclusion of it, Almighty God is entreated to accept this our Sacrifice of Praise and Thanksgiving.

2
same

It has been in later Ages, called (Emphatically, and by way of Eminence,) The Communion, or The Holy Communion, without the addition of any other words. And this must be understood in the Sense which St Paul expresses more largely, 1 Cor. x. 16, 17. where he calls it the Communion of the Body—and of the Bloud, of Christ. Communion, as I have before observed, signifies partaking of, or Fellowship in, something Common to Many. And so, The Communion, when the Word is applied to this Holy Rite, must signify the Joint-Partaking of that Bread which is the Memorial of Christ's Body, and of that Wine which is the Memorial of his Bloud shed for Us; which are called his Body and his Bloud only upon this account.

It

It may also be called The Communion, or Fellowship, as it is a Joint-Partaking of Bread and Wine : in which action we communicate, and bear a part, with all other Christians, of all Places, and all Denominations ; professing Our Selves One Body, though Many in Number, by thus eating of this Bread ; which may be called one and the same Bread, as it is appropriated to One and the same Religious Purpose, and eaten by all of the same Society for that one Purpose only.

But the Name of this Rite, which has most prevailed, and put the Others almost out of common Use, is That of latest Date, and lowest Authority, in the strict Sense in which it is now used : viz. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and, most commonly, The Sacrament, without the addition of any other word : agreeably to which the partaking of it is called, Receiving the Sacrament. And it many times so happens in Religious matters, that Obscure Expressions get the better of the Plain and simple ones ; and the most Modern banish out of Use the most Antient. But since this word has got possession ; the Explication of it is the more necessary, because the

New

New Testament, which knows nothing of it, cannot lead any Christians into the Notion of it, as applied to the Lord's Supper.

The Latin word [Sacramentum] primarily signified an Oath ; or an Obligation expressed by an Oath ; which was always esteemed as a Sacred thing. And in this Sense, though it be improper to speak of receiving a Sacrament ; yet the action of partaking of the Lord's Supper may be called the Performance of a Duty which is in effect a Solemn acknowledgment, and recognizing, of our Obligations : as it is a Professing Ourselves Christians ; and as such obliged, as truly as by an Oath, to all the Practice becoming Christians.

The word soon came to be used by the Latin Writers of the Christian Church (Tertullian and St Cyprian particularly) for almost every thing under the Old Testament, that bore any similitude to Things under the New ; and for almost every thing relating to Religion, under the New : and this to such an Excess, that the pious and learned Editor of St Cyprian at Oxford, observed, in One of his Notes, that “ there was no word “ amongst Ecclesiastical Writers of a more “ loose

“ loose signification, than the word Sacramentum ;” which may easily be believed, when this very Note was made upon occasion of a Passage * in which St Cyprian speaks of the many and great Sacraments of the Lord's Prayer.

Thus, amongst other things, this word came to signify Any Religious Ceremony ; because Every Religious Ceremony implies in it the profession of that Religion to which it peculiarly belongs ; and, by consequence, the owning our selves under all the Ties and Obligations of That particular Religion. And in this sense, Receiving the Sacrament is the performance of a Religious Ceremony peculiar to the Christian Religion ; and the Virtual owning Ourselves, by this action ,to be under all the Obligations belonging to that Religion.

But at length the Use of this Word came to be more confined : And in Many parts of the Christian Church to be appropriated to Two only Ceremonies, under the Definition of an “ Outward and visible “ Sign of an Inward and Spiritual Grace gi“ ven unto Us, ordained by Christ himself,

* Cypr. de Orat. Domin. Ed. Ox. p. 142.

“ as a Means whereby We receive the same,
 “ and a Pledge to assure us thereof.”

And in this Sense the Lord's Supper may be called a Sacrament. For the Bread and Wine are outward and visible Signs, or Marks, ordained by Christ to call to our Minds, and to point out to Us, the greatest Inward and Spiritual Grace, (i. e. Favor or Mercy) bestowed upon Man by Almighty God. They call to mind the Death of Christ, and are Memorials of his Body and Bloud, given and shed for our Spiritual Advantage; and consequently, Memorials of all the Benefits we are entitled to, by that Instance of Grace or Mercy: and so the Lord's Supper is an Outward and visible Sign of the greatest Inward and Spiritual Grace given unto Us.

It is likewise an Outward Sign, ordained, or appointed, by Christ himself, to be the Mark, or Memorial, of all this. Not only so: but ordained by Him as One Mean, amongst many others, of our Improvement in the practice of the Religion We profess by our attendance upon this Sacrament; and of our receiving hereafter, in consequence of that practice, all the Benefits of his Body broken and Bloud shed, now call'd to mind by these

Outward

Outward Signs. It may be considered also as a Pledge, on Christ's part, to assure Us of all this; as the Bread and Wine are appointed by Him to be eaten and drunk, as Signs, (or in remembrance,) of that Death of Christ which was the highest Assurance He could give Us of his Love to Mankind, and of our own Title to the partaking of that Love upon his own Conditions. We cannot indeed, duly partake of the outward and visible Bread and Wine, in remembrance of Christ; without calling to mind also the Assurance given Us by Him, of our partaking, upon the Terms of his Gospel, of all the good Things promised in it.

In partaking therefore, of the Lord's Supper, We may be said to receive a Sacrament, in the present Sense of that word; as We receive Bread and Wine, which are outward and visible Signs or Memorials of those Inward and Spiritual Mercies which are given to Us by our Lord, upon the Terms of his Religion; and these Signs ordained, to this purpose of Remembrance, by Christ himself; and upon this account to be considered as Means (amongst others) tending to that Christian Behaviour, which will at last entitle Us to the Possession of those Mercies: and also as Pledges to assure Us that, as certainly as these Outward Signs were ordained for the Remembrance of these Benefits promised to Us; so certainly God will be ready to bestow upon Us hereafter all the Benefits thus promised, upon our perseverance in the practice of Every Instance of Virtue and Holiness required of Christians.

to

F O R M S O F P R A Y E R.

I. For Particular P E R S O N S.

1. A short Prayer for the Morning.
 2. A short Prayer at Night.
 3. A longer Prayer for any other time of the Day.
 4. A large Form, for more particular Occasions.
-

II. For a F A M I L Y.

1. A Prayer for Morning and Evening.
 2. Select Prayers, &c. out of the Common-Prayer, for Morning and Evening.
-

Let every Man study his Prayers ; and read his Duty in his Petitions.

Ep. Taylor's Holy Living, p. 234.

L O N D O N :

Printed for J. J. and P. KNAPTON, M D C C X X X V.

P R E F A C E.

THE great design of the Duty of Prayer is, To express, under an actual Sense of the Presence of GOD, those good Sentiments, and pious Dispositions, which it is proper for Us to entertain and cultivate within Us, consider'd as dependent, reasonable, and social Creatures: and particularly, as Creatures made capable of knowing One Supreme Maker and Governour of all things, and plainly accountable to Him for our whole Conduct. The Sentiments I mean are such as arise from our Dependence upon GOD; from our Obligations and Duty to Him; and from our Relation to one another, as Partakers of Humane Nature, and Members of Humane Society.

And then only it is, that We fully answer the design of this Duty when We perform it in such a manner, as that it may have a good effect upon Ourselves, by keeping up the justest sense in our minds, of all such important Considerations as are the true grounds of our Faith and Hope in GOD; and the strongest motives to our own constant Practice of all that is good and praiseworthy. This indeed, I always consider as the great End of Prayer, as well as of Faith: and cannot forbear thinking that in order to be effectual with GOD, it must be useful to Ourselves.

With a constant regard to this Notion, I have drawn up, for the use of such as have no better helps at hand, the following FORMS. They contain in them, Confession of Sins; Petition for all good things; Praise and Thanksgiving to our great and good Governor; and Intercession for the whole World of understanding Beings: all which, are now, by custom, comprehended under the common word, Prayer.

In what relates to Confession, I have purposely chosen such general Expressions as it may be proper for All to make use of; and avoided such particular ones, as They, who know

know their own past life to deserve them, and think seriously of Repentance, may easily supply to Themselves, if they judge it necessary. They alone are conscious of the particularities of their own Condition : and, as no other person can truly know them, no other person can pretend exactly to adapt any Words to them. But, for such as have happily, thro' the kind dispositions of Providence, preserved themselves innocent from the common Vices of the World about them ; I esteem it but an ill return to Almighty G O D, for These to put themselves upon a level with those Unhappy Persons who have lived in an habitual Course of willfull Sin ; and a false humility, to speak of Themselves to Almighty G O D, as if they were guilty of Crimes in which They are not conscious They ever bare any part ; or as if They thought, He made no distinction between the Best and the Worst of his Intelligent Creatures, in this imperfect State.

Neither could I here suffer Myself to direct any Christians to ask the Pardon of their sins, upon the bare Confession of them ; or to expect it merely upon their Entreating Forgiveness for the sake of Jesus Christ : but have thought it agreeable to the Gospel to make it their own Disposition, and Act, to ask and expect Forgiveness, as His Disciples, upon His conditions only, viz. the forsaking their Sins, and the actual Amendment of their lives.

In the Petitioning part, I have been careful not to lead Christians to ask any thing of Almighty God, but with such Submission, upon such a Foundation, and such Reasons, as are suitable to the Nature of things, and the Religion which They profess: intermixing many of those Considerations, which may leave a lasting and deep impression upon their Minds, of their own Duty, both with respect to Prosperity and Adversity; to the Life which now is, and the Life which is to come.

In the Part of Praise and Thanksgiving, I have endeavoured to speak of the Perfections of GOD's Nature, and the Instances of his Goodness to us, in such a manner, as to lead us to imitate what We acknowledge so lovely; and to shew the sincerity of that Gratitude, which his Mercy naturally requires, in the Practice of every thing that is acceptable to our Great Benefactor: being persuaded that the Expression of our inward sense of his Perfections, and the Remembrance of the particular reasons upon which our Thankfullness ought to be founded, are of no avail, without taking into the account the natural Tendency of all, to the influencing our Behavior, and the confirming us in an Universal Obedience to Him.

our

In the Intercessions for Others, I have endeavoured to regulate every Expression by the Rules of Universal Love, and of true Christian Benevolence towards the whole Rational Creation. I cannot, indeed, but think that there is no Part of what is comprehended under the name of Devotion, or Prayer, more acceptable to G O D, or more truly beneficial to Ourselves, than This ; which perhaps We are not always so sensible of, as We ought to be. The Expression of Our Good-will and Extended Benevolence towards All our Fellow-Creatures is so becoming Us, both as We are Men, and as We are Christians ; that it cannot but recommend Us to the Favor of Him, who is the God of Love, and the Father of All Beings. And this Expression, often and seriously repeated, cannot but awaken the kind Affections, where They are drooping ; and keep them alive, and enlarge and increase Them, where they are awake ; whilst our Understandings and Hearts go together.

I have therefore, done my Endeavour to adapt this part to the purposes of Rational and Social Creatures, in such manner that, in the Use of it, They may be acceptable to GOD, by pouring out before Him the overflowings of Benevolent Hearts; and cultivating in their own Souls the Love of Mankind: cherishing by this means every Virtue that regards the Good of Humane Society; and improving all that Beneficence of Temper and Sweetness of Disposition, upon which the Happiness of Others around them may depend; and which it is the peculiar Glory of the Christian Religion to heighten and enlarge towards the whole World.

The three first Forms are proposed for the daily use of well-disposed Christians in their Closets. But to make my Design the more compleat, I have added a Form of a much greater length, and drawn out into many more particulars, than the others. This is not pressed upon any good Christian, as if so long a Form were necessary: but only prepared and placed here, for the use of Those who, upon some more solemn or particular occasions, may think it of great advantage to spend spend more than ordinary time in this good Employment. And to these Forms, (which are designed for Persons retired by themselves,) I have subjoined a Prayer for a Family, adapted both to the Morning and Evening; that it may be at hand for the Use of any Persons who have not thrown off that part of Worship, so usefull not only to Themselves, but to All about them: And with the same view have added a Number of select Collects out of the Common-Prayer of our Church, that they may be ready for such as may like them better for the Service of their Families, than other Composites.

May All, who shall think fit to make Use of these Forms, sincerely endeavour to bring with Them a serious Temper, and fix'd Attention of Mind, suitable to such a Duty! by all means striving (if I may use the words of Bishop Taylor) to obtain a diligent, a sober, an untroubled, and a composed Spirit: considering Prayer (as He describes it in another place) as the Peace of our Spirit, the Evenness of Recollection, the Rest of our Cares, and the Calm of our Tempest: on one hand, not uneasy for want of any such Commotion of Mind, as cannot be a Necessary

Part of the Duty, because it is not in the Power of Every Christian ; and, on the other hand utterly avoiding the great Evil of a Cold and Unconcern'd Spirit ; which indeed, is a State of Mind absolutely inconsistent with all Sense of the Presence of GOD, and all Belief of the Importance of what They pretend to be about.

In a word, My great desire in what I now offer, is to consult the real service of those Christians who are content to converse with GOD, and Themselves, in a manner becoming Reasonable Creatures, and Moral Agents ; whose praise it is to be guided, in This and every other Instance of their Practice, by the Principles and Motives They can understand: And my great Aim is to direct Them to perform this Duty under the Conduct of their Understandings ; with such an earnest Intention of the Mind, thro' every step of it, as may preserve their Thoughts from being drawn aside by the strength of any sort of Passion ; or from being interrupted by any Willfull and Inexcusable Carelessness. And I have now nothing left but to pray that the Whole may be found as truly serviceable to such Christians, as it is sincerely designed to be !

I. P R A Y E R S

I. P R A Y E R S

F O R

Particular P E R S O N S.

- i. *A short Prayer at first rising,
in the Morning.*

T becomes me, O Lord, before the Thoughts of this World find any place in my Mind, to lay hold on the first opportunity this Day affords me, of worshipping Thee my Creator and Governour. I adore the Perfections of thy Nature; and acknowledge thine undeserved Goodness to me. I bless Thee for every Instance of it, thro' my whole life: and at this time particularly, for the watchfull Care of thy Good Providence, by which I have been secured from the dangers of the last night. I entreat of Thee alone, as the Father and Judge

Judge of Mankind, the Pardon of every willfull transgression, and omission, of my Duty, thro' my whole life. I beg this upon those Terms only, which the Holiness of thy Nature, and the Declarations of Jesus Christ, have mark'd out to Us. I here acknowledge my self thy Creature, and thy Servant, and the Disciple of thy Son; and as such obliged by all the strictest ties of Duty, Gratitude, and Interest, sincerely to search out and perform thy Will; and never willfully to offend against thy Holy Laws. I now entreat thy Fatherly Goodness towards me; and beg of Thee, the Governour of the World, Protection and Favour: professing before Thee, my entire dependence upon thy Wisdom, Power, and Goodness. Defend me, I beseech Thee, this Day, from all Dangers, and sad Accidents. Guard me, by the Dispositions of thy good Providence, from all the ways of Sin: and lead me forward in the paths of all Virtue, towards the perfection of a reasonable and moral Agent here, and the Happiness prepared for Him hereafter. Accept, O Lord, this my first Service of this Day, according to the Goodness of thine own Nature declared by thy Son Jesus Christ

our

our Lord: in whose Name, and in whose Words, I farther call upon Thee.

Our Father, which art in Heaven; Hallowed be thy Name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this Day our daily Bread. And forgive us our Trespases, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the Kingdom, the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

2. A short Prayer at Night, just before going to Bed.

O GOD, my great Creator, Preserver, and Benefactor, I approach Thee with the sincerest reverence and humility, to pay the last acknowledgments of this Day to Thee, before my Eyes are closed with sleep. I praise and magnify thy Name for all thy Mercies: particularly at this time for thy Preservation of me through the past day; and for that tender care and guidance of thy merciful Providence, by which I have been defended from

from all the great Evils, both Natural and Moral, with which this imperfect State so much abounds. ' Whatever of Good or Happiness I enjoy, to Thee I give the praise of it, and to thy Favour. My willfull Imperfections, and Failings ; My Transgressions, and Neglects, in any instances of thy Law and my Duty, I truly repent of. I take the Shame of them to my self ; and seek the pardon of them from thy Fatherly Mercy and Goodness alone. Forgive me, I beseech Thee, upon the Terms of thy Son's Gospel, whatsoever Thou hast seen amiss in any part of my Conduct, thro' the past Day : and take me, and all in whom I am concerned, into thy Care and Protection thro' this Night. Defend us, if it be thy Holy Will, from the designs of Evil men ; and from every thing terrible and hurtfull. And lead us all, in the paths of thy Good Providence, to everlasting Life and Happiness, thro' thy Fatherly Goodness, and thy Love to Mankind, declared by thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord ; in whose Words, I conclude the Services of this whole Day.

*Our Father, which art in Heaven; Hallowed be thy Name. Thy Kingdom come.
Thy*

Thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this Day our daily Bread. And forgive us our Trespases, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the Kingdom, the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

3. A longer Prayer, to be used at any other Time of the Day.

O GOD, who art the Father and Lord of all Beings, and glorious in all Perfection, I thine unworthy Creature and Servant, in the deepest Sense of my own manifold imperfections, approach thy Divine Majesty: beseeching Thee, out of the abundance of thy Goodness, to be mercifull to me. I acknowledge that many have been my Failings and Neglects, thro' the course of my Life: and that, if Thou shouldst be extreme to mark, and to punish, what is, in every degree and every instance, amiss; I could not hope for any portion of thy Favour. But, O Lord, the Goodness and Rectitude of thy Nature; and thy Holy Holy Gospel preached by thy Son Jesus Christ, encourage me to hope in Thee for Mercy and Forgiveness: and therefore, as his Disciple, in expectation of thy Favour upon the Terms declared in that Gospel, I earnestly beseech Thee to forgive every thought, every word, and every action, by which I have in the least degree offended Thee, or transgressed the rules of Virtue, and True Religion, from the beginning of my rational Life, to this hour. And this I beg, sincerely resolving to endeavour after a greater degree of Perfection; and a greater conformity to thy Holy Will for the time to come: and hoping, on this Condition alone, to be received by Thee to Favour here, and eternal Happiness hereafter.

Accept, likewise, the acknowledgments of my Heart and Mouth, which are so indispensably due to the Perfections of thy Nature; and thy Goodness to thy Creatures. I adore, and celebrate, the unalterable Glories of thy Power, adorned and directed by unerring Wisdom and Goodness: and bless and praise Thee, for every instance of thy tender Regards to Me, and to all the Children of Men. I bless Thee that, when it pleased Thee to bring me into Being, I was made capable of know-knowing and imitating Thee, and of enjoying thy Favour. I bless Thee that I have been called to the Knowledge of a Religion, from which I have received many and great Advantages, Assistances, and Opportunities, towards the answering the true design of my Creation. I bless Thee that, by the Dispositions of thy good Providence, I have been led to a just Sense of the excellence of Virtue, and of the Importance of true Religion ; and that this Sense hath been improved by the best Examples and Sentiments of Others, and by many peculiar Instances of thy mercifull Care and Goodness.

I praise thy Holy Name for all that thy Son Jesus Christ did, and taught, and suffer'd, in this World, in order to redeem Mankind from the Power and Punishment of their Sins ; to lead Them more effectually to the Knowledge of Thee, and the Practice of their Duty ; and to confirm to Them the reasonable hope of being immortally happy hereafter. For these and all thy Mercies, which respect another and a better life than the present , my Soul doth magnify Thee, O Lord, and all the powers within me praise thy Holy Name.

Nor ought I to neglect to thank Thee for those many instances of thy Mercy, by which Thou hast made my Estate in this short and uncertain life, much happier than it could have been without them: for affording me not only all the necessary supports, but many of the most desirable conveniencies, of such a state. Continue, O Lord, I beseech Thee, these thy temporal Favours to me, if Thou seeest it consistent with my chief and eternal Good: if not, lead me to Eternal Life in whatever paths thou seeest fit. I resign my self, and all my concerns, into thine Hands; and entreat Thee to be my Guide, and my Governour, unto death. Let the Sense of these thine undeserved Mercies inspire me with such a gratitude as may show it self in the suitable returns of a good life, and Holy conversation; and with such a love of Thee, as may express it self in the keeping thy Commandments.

Whatever moral imperfections there are still in me; direct me to the knowledge of them, and to the proper means of putting an End to them: And assist me, by all the methods of thy Wisdom and Goodness, in the great work I have to do; the perfecting my mind in all that is truly excellent; and and the working out my Salvation in the Methods agreeable to thy Holy Will, and to the Obligations of a reasonable and moral Agent.

I beseech Thee likewise, to be mercifull to the whole World. Inlighten the dark corners of it with the true knowledge of Thee, and of thy Gospel, in its simplicity: and sow the seeds of all Virtue and Happiness in all parts of it. Lead all professed Christians to Truth, and Righteousness, and Peace; that so they may be an Honour to the Religion they profess. Put an end to Idolatry, and Superstition, and all spiritual Tyranny and Oppression. Give an open check to all that Pride and Ambition, which disturb the World. Quiet the turbulent spirits, and compose the unchristian animosities, of Mankind.

Look down, with much Mercy, upon this my native Country. Cure our evil Tempers; and conquer our unchristian and uncharitable Dispositions: And grant that, at length, Mutual Love and Charity may flourish and abound amongst us, amidst our greatest differences. Pour down all Blessings, Spiritual and Temporal upon our most gracious KING, and his Royal Family.

mily. Endow Those who are called to any Office, under Him, for the administration of Justice, or Government, amongst us, with all Gifts and Abilities necessary for the discharge of their great Trust: and prosper and protect Them in the due Execution of it. Lead all the Ministers of thy Gospel to teach thy Truth in simplicity; and, by their example and doctrine, to bring themselves, and Those who hear them, to Eternal Life.

Extend thy Mercy and Compassion to all afflicted Persons; of whatsoever sort, or degree, their Afflictions may be; to all who are in a State of Uneasiness of Mind, or Pain of Body; a State of Want, or Sorrow; of Persecution, or Oppression: giving to them all the supports and assistances suitable to their several distresses; and, in thy good time, an happy issue out of all their calamities. Bless all in whom I am more nearly concern'd, with every thing truly good for them. Shower down thy Mercies on my Friends and Benefactors; granting them all Happiness here, and hereafter. Forgive all my Enemies, if such there be; and shew thy Mercy to them.

Finally, O Lord, Pardon all my past sins; Guide and govern me, by thy Holy Spirit, in

in my sincere Endeavours to attain everlasting life. Promote my true Happiness, as Thou seest fit ; and mercifully receive me, and my imperfect services, according to thy Goodness declared by thy Well-beloved Son Jesus Christ: in whose Words I farther pray, for every thing necessary ; and in behalf of every one I am obliged to remember before Thee ; saying,

Our Father, which art in Heaven ; Hallowed be thy Name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this Day our daily Bread. And forgive us our Trespases, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into Temptation ; but deliver us from evil : For thine is the Kingdom, and the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

4. A large Form of Prayer, for more particular Occasions

O GOD, the supreme Maker and Governour of the World, perfect in All that is truly Great and Lovely ; I, thine unworthy servant, appear before Thee, under the deepest sense of thy glorious Perfections, and of my own great and many failings and imperfections. Under this sense, the only support and satisfaction to my mind is, that Thou art too just and too good not to accept of the sincere endeavours of thy Creatures to reform whatever has been amiss in their past Conduct ; and that Thou hast sent thy Son Jesus Christ into the World, to Save Us from our Sins, and to declare to us plainly the Terms of thy Forgiveness and Favour. In his Name therefore , I present myself before Thee : and, as his Disciple, I entreat of Thee, the pardon of whatsoever Thou hast seen amiss in me, from the beginning of my Rational Life unto this day. Forgive, O Lord, every willfull thought of my mind which has

has been disagreeable to thy Nature and Precepts; every word of my mouth, unworthy of a Man, or a Christian; every instance of my behaviour which has been displeasing to Thee, or my own conscience: Every offence, of whatsoever sort or degree, against Thee, my Neighbour, or Myself. Forgive me all the sins which I myself can now call to my own remembrance; *particularly

 Here it may be proper for a Person to mention any remarkable Instances, if He be conscious of any Such: but highly improper to confess Sins, of which he knows not himself to have been guilty.*

And forgive me likewise all those Transgressions of thy Holy Will, which may now be out of the reach of my Memory; but have been open to thine All-seeing Eye, and are known to Thee with all their circumstances and aggravations.

Pardon me, O Lord, according to the abundant Goodness of thy Nature, and the Declarations made by thy Son Jesus Christ: and grant me that forgiveness, which I neither ask, nor expect, but upon those Terms and Conditions which Thy Holiness and Mercy have laid down in his Gospel. Behold, O Lord, I entirely and willingly forgive All who have, in any instance, or in any degree, offended or injured me: without which I ought to entertain no hopes of my own forgiveness. And if I have myself injured any person, I am as truly disposed and ready to make all possible reparation, as I am to entreat thy favour to myself. And as I am sensible that no forgiveness can be expected, according to Thy Gospel, without amendment of life; I seriously renounce all communication with whatsoever is displeasing to Thee; and sincerely resolve to make it my great Endeavour to correct every thing that is amiss in my temper and behaviour; and to bring my self still nearer to thy Holiness and Happiness. Forgive me, therefore, as Thou hast promised by Thy Son. Accept me to thy Mercy: and give success, I earnestly beseech Thee, by thy gracious Favour and Providence, to these purposes and designs of my Soul.

And now, O LORD, according to the same Goodness to thy Creatures, graciously receive the earnest PETITIONS which I offer to Thee for every Good that it is fit for me to pray for. I acknowledge Thee to be the great Author of all our Beings; the Original of all our happiness; the Giver

Giver of all good Gifts; and the Disposer of all Events: and therefore, profess my dependence upon Thee alone for every Thing I ought to wish for, or desire. I am sensible, O Lord, that to Thee entirely I must owe, every degree of happiness I can ever enjoy, or hope for. I am sensible that Thou art the tenderest Father, and best Friend, to Thy creatures: disposed to lead them to their greatest Good; and ready to promote and assist their sincere endeavours after it. And therefore, before Thee, and in Thy Presence, I willingly lay open the desires, and wishes of my Soul, which I think agreeable to Reason, and thy Holy Will.

I esteem it the Glory of our Nature that we are made capable of such an exalted and rational Happiness as results from the knowledge of Thee, and the Imitation of thy moral Perfections. And as Thou hast more fully assured us of this, in the Christian Religion; let the serious consideration of that Grace and Mercy which hath appeared in that dispensation effectually lead me to the good End proposed in it. Let the Holy Precepts of that perfect Institution by which I profess to be guided, and the unspotted ted Example of that great Master whose Follower I desire to be accounted, engage me to live in all respects as becomes the Gospel, and the Disciple, of Jesus Christ. Particularly, O Lord, let the consideration of the peculiar Genius of that Gospel, and of those Virtues which the Great Author of it accounted the Glory of his own Life, influence me to endeavour to excell in them: and engage me to love the whole race of Mankind with an universal Charity, and beneficent Disposition; to rejoice at all opportunities of doing Good either to the Souls or Bodies of Men; and of adding to the Satisfaction and Happiness of all about me; to stoop even to the lowest offices of Kindness to others; to be ready to forgive the sharpest and most undeserved Injuries, and to return Pity and Benevolence for them; and to be ever willing to condescend, and yield, for the Good of others: that so, the truest Humility, and the most extensive Charity, may adorn every action and circumstance of my Life; and all Pride, and Passion, and Uncharitableness, may be check'd and subdued by the power of Religion; and the loveliness of the contrary Virtues.

Let

Let the sense of my own many failings, and the imperfections of our Nature, dispose me to be willing to put a candid and favourable interpretation upon all those actions of Others, which can justly and reasonably demand it, or admit of it ; as well as to be ever ready to forgive the offenses of Others, towards myself. And let the sense of thy Goodness in allowing me still Time and Opportunity, for perfecting my Soul in all that is praise-worthy, induce me to study more constantly and uniformly to please and imitate Thee.

My outward condition with respect to the good things of this World, it is my Happiness, as well as Duty, to refer wholly to thy wise Will and Pleasure. But as Thou hast ordained us to belong to this World, as well as to expect another ; and hast framed us so, that we cannot but be sensibly affected with our good and bad estate here below ; of Thee therefore, it becomes us to beg, with submission to thy Providence, the security and continuance of the good things we already enjoy ; and the increase of them, if that be truly good and needfull. And as, by thy appointment, I have already experienced in this World, many Evils and Afflictions; and have been witness to many more around me; suffer me to implore the gracious regards of thy Fatherly Affection towards me: and to pray to Thee, with respect to them, according to the pattern of thy Son Jesus Christ, Father, if it be possible; If it be consistent with, and agreeable to, thy wise and gracious purposes, secure me, and all in whose happiness I am most nearly concerned, from all sad accidents, and calamitous events; from all tormenting pains, and grievous diseases; and from every thing inconsistent with such an Happiness as may lawfully be desired in this transitory World. Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt. And therefore, O LORD, if thy unerring Wisdom shall otherwise determine, let the serious meditation on the Example of Christ himself, and that innumerable company of the best of Men, who have gone before me in this Conflict, inspire me with a zeal to imitate their patience; and let the contemplation of thy Fatherly goodness engage me to an hearty and rational submission to all thy Dispensations: remembering what an Happiness it is, to be under the government of a Being, who knows what is in all respects best ; and who cannot afflict his creatures but for wise and good Ends. And let the sense of thy gracious design in all my afflictions, lead me to the true, and right use of them : to disengage my affections more and more from this World ; and to seek for happiness in a better and never-changing State.
this

of

Let the Consideration of the certainty of Death, the last of all temporal Evils, influence me to endeavour to make it happy by such a virtuous life as may give Me a well-grounded hope in thy Mercy. Let the review of those Uncertainties, and Troubles I have met with in this World, render me the more ready and contented, at thy appointed time, to leave it. And let the prospect of Glory and Happiness hereafter exalt my mind above any fond regards to this state of Sin and Misery : and enable me to act as becomes one who truly believes Life and Immortality to be brought to light thro' the Gospel.

Finally, O LORD, my great and chief request is, That, by the dispositions of thy good Providence, I may obtain everlasting happiness hereafter ; and that the state of this World,

World, with respect to Me, may be so ordered; and the Trials, to be appointed for me in it, may be so proportioned to my condition and powers, as most effectually to promote and secure my eternal and greatest Good, after the few days of this Life are past away. Deny to me, therefore, out of thy great Goodness, whatsoever is truly bad or unfit for me; tho' I should be so weak as to desire and wish for it: and grant me every thing that is truly good for me; tho' I should be so blind, and so void of Wisdom, as not to see, or ask it. As far as my Petitions are reasonable, and agreeable to the eternal Laws of Wisdom, and the purposes of thy governing Providence, and thy Holy Gospel; so far only, I entreat thy favourable consent to them. As far as they are not so, I utterly renounce them; and submit my own Will entirely to Thine: and, in a deep sense of my own imperfections, beg of Thee to accept of the sincerity of my heart; and, out of the abundant Goodness of thy Nature, to overlook and supply all the defects of my Services.

To these Petitions it becomes me to add the indispensable Tribute of the sincerest PRAISES and THANKSGIVINGS of my my Soul; due to the Glories of thy Nature, and to thy Goodness to thy Creatures. I know, O God, that thy Perfections are far exalted above all that can be conceived or expressed by us; that thy Mercies are above all our thanks; and that thy Unalterable Attributes stand not in need of any homage we can pay. But it becomes us to acknowledge, and celebrate them.

The Glories of thy Nature, are the Glories of perfect Power and perfect Holiness, adorned with perfect Goodness, and guided by unerring Wisdom and Knowledge: such Glories as are, in themselves, worthy of our highest Admiration and Praises; as well as the foundation of all the happiness we ourselves can possibly enjoy, or hope for.

And as it becomes us to celebrate the lovely Perfections of thy Nature, as it is in it self: so are we indispensably oblig'd to pay Thee our most grateful Acknowledgments for the display of those Perfections in all thy Dispensations towards thy Creatures, and for every instance of thy tender regards to us. Accept therefore, O gracious Lord and merciful Father, the poor tribute of mine unfeigned thanks for the manifold Experiences

Experiences which I have had of thy Loving Kindness, and the many marks I have received of thine undeserved favour. To Thee I owe my Existence; and, together with it, all the faculties and powers that distinguish our nature from that of the lower animal World. And as it is impossible to conceive any End in thy creating me, and placing me in that rank of Creatures to which I belong, but the glory of communicating thy own happiness in all fitting proportion: So, when I consider what it is to be made capable of knowing Thee, the Fountain of all Good; of imitating Thee, the great Original of all Perfection; and of enjoying thy Favour, the foundation of all lasting and substantial Happiness; I must acknowledge thine undeserved Goodness, and for ever praise Thee for making me capable of so inestimable Blessings.

I must remember likewise, with the highest gratitude, before Thee, that, in order to secure and carry forward this gracious End of our Creation the more effectually, it hath pleased thy Goodness to send thy beloved Son into the World, to teach, and live, and die, in order to save Us from Our Sins, and to conduct Us effectually to our true and everlasting ing happiness. I bless thee for the Divine Instructions He hath given his Followers concerning the certain method of obtaining eternal life; for the blameless and perfect Example of Holiness and Patience, He hath set before Us; for his humbling Himself even to the Death upon the Cross, and shedding his Blood for the remission of our Sins; and for his plain Declarations of thy gracious Acceptance of all such as sincerely receive Him for their Master, and heartily endeavour to know, and comply with, his Terms. I bless Thee for the mighty evidences He gave that he was truly sent by Thee on so gracious an Errand, by the purity of his Doctrine; by the integrity of his Life; by the nature and number of his Miracles; by the glory of his Resurrection after an ignominious Death; by his Ascension into Heaven; and by his pouring down from thence the wonderful gifts of the Holy Spirit, in order to the propagation of his Religion, and the settlement of his Church: by all these arguments establishing our Consciences in Peace and Truth.

I bless Thee that the joyful sound of thy Gospel hath arrived to this part of the world; That it hath here, by the peculiar favour of thy good Providence, been reformed from many gross abuses under which it long laboured ; and now lies open to the view and study of all men : That, by thy mercifull Appointment, I have been called to the Knowledge of it, as it is in it self ; and so am the better assur'd of the true way to happiness ; the more forcibly engaged to follow after it ; and the more likely to obtain great degrees of it, if I be not wanting to my self : for all which Instances of thine Undeserved and Inestimable Goodness, no words can sufficiently express the grateful Sentiments which ought to fill and possess my Soul.

Q favour

Accept likewise, O GOD, my most hearty and unfeigned Thanks for the constant regards of thy good Providence towards me : To which I am indebted for many singular and peculiar happinesses. To Thee I owe, that I was born in a Country , where Christianity is securely profess'd ; that I have been instructed in the Principles of true Religion and Virtue ; and my mind led to the knowledge of the most usefull and important Truths : and particularly, that I have been secured, by thy Goodness, from many of those great and hazardous Trials which have so often proved fatal to Others.

To

To Thee I owe whatever opportunities I have enjoyed of improving myself in what is truly praiseworthy ; whatever peculiar advantages there are in that condition , in which it hath pleased Thee to place me with respect to this World , towards the attaining the greatest Good and Happiness of a reasonable Creature. To Thee , the Great Creator and Governour of the World, I owe all these blessings ; and to Thee I offer up my sincerest acknowledgments for Them.

I bless Thee for that daily care of Thy Government over this World, by which I have been preserved, ever since I was born, from innumerable dangers ; many more than I can number, and many more than I know of. A mercy ! which I ought thankfully to acknowledge , not merely with respect to this life, but to a better ; as by this means I have still greater opportunities of advancing yet farther in the paths of virtue, and adding an increase to my Happiness in the World to come.

I desire likewise to offer up my unfeigned thanks for all those temporal blessings and conveniencies, by which Thou hast made my passage thro' this World much more tolerable and easy than it could otherwise have been; for the use of my Reason, and Understanding preserved to me, without which all other Blessings are vain; for that measure of health and strength; that ease, and freedom from pain, which I have enjoyed; for the supports of Friendship and Society; for the comforts of Food, and Raiment, and Habitation; and for all the good things with which Thou hast in Mercy surrounded Me, and Those in whose good Estate I am nearly concern'd: whilst so many Others pass their lives under the heavy pressure of the contrary Evils.

What can I render unto Thee, O LORD, worthy of all the numberless instances of thy favour which I have experienced? I praise and magnify thy great and glorious Name: and acknowledge myself under the strictest and most indispensable obligations to live, and act, in all respects, as becomes one that hath tasted so largely of thy Loving kindness. I profess, O Lord, my hearty resolution of endeavouring to do so; and offer up my sincere desires, that by the consideration of what I have now remembered before Thee,

Thee, I may be led to make returns in some degree suitable to so many, and so great, instances of thy Goodness.

Let the serious contemplation of thy Glories, and Perfections, incite me to endeavour constantly to adorn my own nature with those moral Perfections which I acknowledge to be so worthy of praise; and engage me to imitate what appears so truly lovely and glorious. Let the consideration of thy mercifull design in making me capable of knowing Thee, and being eternally happy in thy Favour; powerfully move me to make such an use of those faculties Thou hast endowed me with, that they may lead me to a due sense of this happiness, and conduct me safe to the possession of those Pleasures which are at thy Right Hand. Let thy unspeakable mercy in sending thy Son into the World for the securing and promoting my Happiness, effectually influence me to embrace his Offers; to fulfill his Commands; to imitate his Example; and to live in all respects as becomes his Disciple. Let the Sense of those peculiar advantages which I have, by thy especial favour, enjoyed, lead me to such a carefull use and improvement of them, that they may be the happy occasions

Q 3

of

of more than ordinary degrees of Perfection and Glory hereafter.

Let the consideration of thy gracious design in affording me so many temporal good things, and so many comforts, in this imperfect State, influence me to use them all to thy Glory, as perishing uncertain Goods; to be enjoyed with temperance; and to be employed for the use and support of others, as well as my own. And let the serious remembrance of all thy great and undeserved Goodness to me, open and enlarge my heart towards others; lead me to imitate what I praise and celebrate so much in Thee; and teach me to be ready to do good to All; to pity the follies and miseries of Mankind; and, as far as I am able, to promote the happiness of all around me: that by such a Return to all the instances of thy Goodness and Mercy, I may shew my self truly sensible of them; and sincerely thankfull for them.*

* Whoever finds this Form too long to be used at once, may stop here, only adding—These Prayers and Praises I offer up to Thee, in the Name of thy Son Jesus Christ, in whose words I farther call upon Thee, saying, Our Father, &c.

And when He returns to make use of the remaining part, He may begin thus—With the Prayers and Praises, which I have already presented before Thee this day, I beseech Thee, &c.

With

With these Prayers and Praises, I beseech Thee, O GOD, to accept the sincere expressions of my Charity and Good-will towards thy whole rational Creation: which I now offer to Thee, the Father of all, as a Member of the whole Society of Mankind; and more particularly as a Member of the Church of Christ, founded in Love and Charity. As such, I sincerely rejoice before Thee in every degree of Happiness enjoyed by any of my Fellow-creatures here below; and heartily beseech Thee to dispense more, and larger, communications of it to this lower World: to increase it in all Those who enjoy it in any measure; and to impart some Portions of it to all who are in any sort of Misery, and Distress.

Look in great mercy upon the sad Estate of that part of Mankind, who know not thy Nature; nor worship Thee, as becomes thy Perfections. Put an end to their Idolatry, and Superstition, by shewing them the Light and Evidence of thy Gospel, in its Simplicity: and, by bringing Them to the Knowledge of thy Truth, lead them to a capacity of greater degrees of Happiness than they could otherwise arrive at. Have pity likewise on the Remains of thy ancient People, the Jews; and all Others, who are better instructed in the Belief and Worship of Thee, than the Pagan World: and guide them to a yet greater degree of true Knowledge, by directing their way to the knowledge of thy Son, and the practice of his Laws; and bringing them, by this means, to the justification and happiness of Christians.

Visit, with a more especial Grace and Favour, the whole Christian World; all who are called by the Name of thy Son, and profess his Holy Religion. Behold, O LORD, a large Scene of spiritual Evils, worthy of thy gracious and mercifull interposition: — In many places, the Faith, once delivered to the Saints in Purity and Simplicity, enervated by vain and groundless Traditions; or darkened by the inventions of Men: — The Worship of thee, O Father, expressly established, by thy Son Jesus Christ, in Spirit and in Truth, over-clouded by numberless Superstitions; and even destroyed by Idolatry itself: — The moral Laws which thy Son came to rescue from the corruptions of Men, and to enforce upon his Followers, render'd ineffectual by many humane devices; and false Notions of Religion, set up instead of them: — and the progress of Thy Holy Gospel

Gospel stop'd and hinder'd by the wicked Lives, and scandalous Behaviour, of those who profess it!

Interpose, I beseech Thee, and put an effectual stop to these great and Unchristian Evils. Confound the devices of all such as uphold, or encourage, any degree of Superstition, for base and secular ends. Give a powerfull check to all sorts, and all degrees, of Persecution and Oppression, so scandalous and destructive to thy Holy Religion, which mistaken or wicked Men pretend to promote by such impious Methods. Put a stop to all Spiritual Tyranny; and to all Usurpation over the Consciences of Men: and dissipate those clouds of Ignorance which dispose People to a base and ignominious slavery to the dictates of Men, rather than to a rational Enquiry into thy Holy Will which lies open to them. And above all, exert thine Almighty Arm in vindication of the Cause of Virtue: Leading all professed Christians to such a Sense of the Importance of it, as that they may study to adorn their Lives with a Behaviour suitable to their Holy Profession; and recommend it to the Experience and Approbation of the Unbelieving World by the Integrity tegrity and Unblameableness of their whole Conversation.

Particularly grant that All Christians, who have departed from the gross corruptions of Popery, may depart entirely from the Spirit of it: that, as They profess to make the Scripture the Rule of Faith; so They may without reserve leave it as such to all their Neighbours: that, as They have nobly contended for their own Religious Liberty and Christian Rights; so They may not lose the Glory of this, by contradicting it in their Behaviour towards Others: but that They may, by their exemplary deportment, and by their steady adherence to the Principles of Righteousness, Peace, and mutual Forbearance, manifest to all the World the Sincerity of their Reformation; and reap the Fruit of it by studying to excell in all that is praise-worthy.

Nor ought I to forget, O great Governor of the Universe, the Civil Estate of the Kingdoms of the Earth. Put an End, O LORD, at length, to the disorders and confusions, occasioned by the weak and ambitious Lords of this World: And shew Thy Self indeed, the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. Permitt no longer the happiness of Humane Society to be, in any part

part of thy Creation , ruined and laid waste by the inferior Government of Men, which was instituted solely for the Support and Comfort of it. Bring public Disgrace, and Confusion, upon all Tyrants, and Oppressors ; and honour with particular marks of thy Favour, all Princes, who sincerely study to answer the Ends of their Institution : that so, the Triumphs of insatiable Ambition may at length cease from the Earth ; and the Blessings of good Government be felt throughout the World.

Amongst all the Kingdoms of the Earth, Look, I beseech Thee, with a particular favour, upon This, to which, by the disposal of Thy Providence , I belong ; and for which, therefore, I am obliged in an especial manner to shew my concern, by the heartiest wishes of my Soul. Pardon our many and crying Sins ; and, in order to avert thy Judgments, lead every Sinner amongst us to such a sense of his Sins , as may engage him heartily to renounce and forsake them. Continue, and confirm to us, that peculiar Form of Government, so wonderfully hitherto preserved to us ; by which we are more effectually secured against the extremes of Confusion, and Arbitrary Power , than any

any other Nations ; and of which we enjoy the happy fruits every moment of our Lives.

Preserve and establish us in the free Enjoyment of the Light of thy Holy Gospel, and the secure Profession of our Religion. What Errors still remain amongst Protestants, do Thou effectually remove, by the methods of thy Wise Providence ; and especially such as may have a bad influence upon the conduct of Men's lives : and strengthen their common Interest against their common Enemy. To this End, give a check to the mutual Violences, and Hatreds, and uncharitable behaviour, of Men of evil dispositions on every side. Kindle once again the fire of Love and Charity amongst us : and permitt not our differences in Religious matters to extinguish this Fire, or to blow up another to our entire Destruction.

Pour down the choicest of thy Blessings upon our most gracious King GEORGE. Defend him, by the peculiar care of thy Providence, from all attempts, of Violent and Unreasonable Men, against his Person or Crown : and prosper all his good Designs and Endeavours to preserve his People in Peace, Liberty, and Happiness. Together with Him, bleſs all who have any part in the Adminiſtration of our Government. Aſſiſt Him, and Them, in the great and important buſineſs of their Stations. Guide them into the beſt and wiſeſt Meaſures: and give ſucceſs to all their Counſels and Labours, for the Advantage of this Nation; or for the relief and ſupport of any of our injured Neighbours.
with

Permitt not the diſpoſal of the Lives and Properties of thy People ever to come into the hands of Ignorant, or Partial, Men: but manifeſt thy great concern for Juſtice here below, in ſuch manner, as That the Guilty may ever meet with their due puniſhment, and the Injured and Oppreſſed find a ſure redreſs, in our Courts of Judicature. Direct all the Magiſtrates amongſt us to a deep Senſe of their Duty: to give all encouragement to Virtue, and all poſſible diſcouragement to Vice, both by their Example, and the due execution of their Offices.

Lead all Thoſe to whom the great Concerns of Religion, and of the Salvation of mankind, are more peculiarly committed, to ſuch a knowledge of all neceſſary Truths; ſuch an Exemplary and Chriſtian Converſation; ſuch a prudent and conſtant diſcharge of their Holy Office ; as may effectually promote the Happiness of Themselves, and of Those committed to their Care. Encourage and promote amongst us, the means and methods of such a virtuous and laudable Education, as tends to sound Learning and Religion ; to the Reformation of This, and the better Estate of future Generations.
2 their

I desire likewise to express before Thee the real sense I have of the miseries and calamities of the distressed Part of Mankind ; and the sincere desire I have of contributing to their Ease and Relief. O Thou Father of Mercies, and God of all consolation, what can We do for that multitude of deplorable Objects of compassion, who are out of the reach of our Knowledge, or of our Ability to relieve, but offer up our earnest Wishes to Thee, the great Disposer of prosperity and adversity ? Behold, O Lord, I sympathize with all the Unhappy ; and bear a Part in all the miseries experienced in this World : and do with the greatest earnestness beg of Thee for all the miserable, of what sort, or degree soever, whatever I could reasonably beg for my self, were I in their condition. Assist them all in their several Trials and Conflicts ; and guide them to such a degree of Contentment, Resignation, and Patience, as may render their present afflictions the happy occasion of their greater future Glory: and, as far as it is consistent with the purposes of thy Wisdom, put an End to their present misfortunes and troubles.
of

Restore light and comfort to the dark, melancholy, and distracted minds of Those who have lost the use of their Reason in any instance, or any degree. Pity the destitute condition of those who are in want of any of the necessary circumstances of Life; particularly of Those who are fallen from the comforts of a prosperous Condition to the Miseries of Adversity: and raise them up Friends, and Patrons, in their low Estate. Relieve by thy good Providence the wants of the Poor and Needy. Be a Father to the Fatherless; plead the cause of the helpless Widow; and regard the unhappy Estate of all who mourn the loss of Those, in whom any part of their Happiness was placed.

Strengthen and assist, in an especial manner, All who suffer any where for the Love of Truth, or the Testimony of a good Conscience; and do Thou so proportion to their Strength, the measure and duration of their Sufferings, that they may work for Them a more exceeding Weight of Glory. Hear the Groans of all who are oppressed, and barbarously treated, by the Tyrants of this World; and grant a redress to all their miseries. Attend to the Sighs and Tears of such as are in captivity and slavery; and open a way to their future Liberty and Security.

Visit with thy Light and Comfort all who are afflicted with bodily pain, or any sort of sickness: and bring to their mind all such considerations and assistances, as are necessary and proper to support Them in their unhappy condition; or to dispose and fit them for their passage into another state. Remove in much compassion all those unreasonable doubts and despondencies, with which many innocent and honest minds are, in this World, disturbed and overclouded; and direct them to such just notions of Thee, and of thy Holy Gospel, as may establish them in a course of chearfull, and sincere, obedience to the laws of it.

Succeed the endeavours of all who honestly and industriously labour after a convenient livelihood in this World, and are usefull members of the Common-wealth; and bring to nought the designs of all who either privately, or openly, live upon the spoil of their Neighbours ; and are the plague, and terror, of Humane Society.
either

Requite, in the course of thy Good Providence, the kindness of all who have at any time, or in any degree, endeavoured to contribute to the advantage of my mind, body, or outward estate. Upon all who have either done, or designed, me good, of any sort, shower down thy rewards, and favour. And, if there be Any, who have either designed, or done, me real mischief ; in return to their evil, I beg and entreat for thy pardon and thy blessings. Correct the evil disposition of all such Minds ; and plant in them, instead of it, a temper worthy of Men and Christians. Let the consideration of their own eternal interest lead them all to Charity, and Love : and engage them to put on those dispositions which only can fit them for the Blessed Society above.

Bless all in whom I am more nearly concerned, or in whose happiness I take a particular part, with such a measure of health, success, and prosperity, as may best carry forward the designs of thy Goodness towards them ; and most effectually promote their happiness here, and hereafter. But whatever be thy Dispensations towards them, with respect to this life; lead them all, I beseech Thee, into those Paths which will infallibly convey them to thine heavenly Kingdom in the World to come.

R

ever

Finally, O Lord, I wish, and pray for, all good things to the whole Race of Mankind. I rejoice in every degree of Virtue and Happiness to be seen here below. I mourn for every degree, and every instance, of Vice and Misery. Let thy Kingdom come, I beseech Thee: and shew thine Almighty Power, by establishing True Religion amongst Men; and putting a stop to all the calamities of this lower World.

Accept, O Lord, I most earnestly beseech Thee, the Sentiments and Desires of my Heart, which I have now poured out before Thee, under an actual Sense of thy Presence, and of thy Providence over-ruling and directing all things. Favorably receive the Acknowledgments I have made of my Sins, and Moral Imperfections: and grant me Pardon and Peace upon the Terms of thy Gospel. Hear and answer the Petitions, I have offered up, for the obtaining all things truly Good, and the averting all things Evil. Let the Praises and Thanksgivings which my Heart

Heart hath sent up, as the Homage due to thy Perfections and Goodness, be acceptable to Thee. And reject not the Intercessions I have made for the temporal and eternal happiness of all my Fellow-Creatures.

And now, O Lord, Take me, I once more entreat Thee, into thy powerfull and wise Protection : and guide me, by the Dispositions of thy Providence, and good Spirit, to the perfect knowledge and performance of thy Holy Will here ; and to the enjoyment of that eternal and unalterable happiness hereafter, which thou hast reserved for thy faithfull Servants, and promised by thy Well-beloved Son, Jesus Christ. In his Name, and as his Disciple, I trust for Acceptance of my self, and all my sincere, though imperfect, services : And in his Words I continue to entreat thy Mercy towards Myself, and all whom I am obliged to pray for.

*Our Father, which art in Heaven ; Hal-
lowed be thy Name. Thy Kingdom come.
Thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this Day our daily Bread.
And forgive us our Trespases, as we forgive R 2 them*

them that trespass against us. And lead us not into Temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the Kingdom, and the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

II. P R A Y E R S

For a F A M I L Y.

I. A Prayer for Morning and Evening.

L O R D, perfect in Wisdom, Goodness, and Power; glorious in all that can be truly called Perfection; We thy Creatures, and thy Servants, prostrate our selves before Thee, in the deepest Sense of our own unworthiness, and of thy lovely and incomprehensible Perfections: Acknowledging the Glories of thy Nature, as it is in itself; and thy great Goodness to Us, and to the whole World of thy Creatures.

We are truly sensible of the great happiness of knowing Thee; and of imitating Thee; and of enjoying the communications of thy favour hereafter: upon which accounts, it highly becomes Us to praise Thee for that Act of Goodness in our Creation, by which Thou hast endowed us with Faculties fitted for the attainment of this unspeakable happiness; and for the enjoyment of the highest Good hereafter.

We praise Thee for thy great Goodness in our preservation here, ever since We were brought into Being: not only as it respects this World, in which We now live; but as by it We are enabled to make the better provision for our everlasting interest in the World to come; and have greater opportunities of improving our Souls in Virtue, and of securing our happiness for ever. More particularly We now bless Thee for the care of thy Providence over us, by which We have been preserved in safety through the past [Day, or Night,] and mercifully defended from all dangers, and distresses.

It becomes us likewise to acknowledge thy bounty and goodness, manifested to us through every part of our lives, to this time; to thank Thee for that measure of Health, and Strength, and Quiet, which We have hitherto enjoyed; for the Comforts and Supports of all those necessities and conveniences, without which We should be much more unhappy in this State, than We now are ; and for all other circumstances and advantages of Life, which help to make our Passage through this World more happy, or more tolerable , than otherwise it could be.
more

But above all, We bless and magnify thy great and glorious Name for thy tender regards to our everlasting Happiness in a better State hereafter : for sending thy Son into the World to declare to us the certainty of a future State of Rewards and Punishments ; and for all that He did, and taught, and suffer'd, in order to reconcile Mankind to Thee ; and to guide Us all to eternal life and glory : for the great happiness of a good and virtuous Education ; and for those peculiar dispositions of thy Providence which have often guarded Us from many particular and hazardous Trials and Temptations. For these, and for all other thy mercies, which concern our great and eternal Interest, We sincerely thank Thee, O Lord, and will ever praise thy Holy Name.

It is with shame and grief that we reflect upon the Returns we have made to so much mercy. We confess, O Lord, that We have not lived as becomes reasonable Creatures , call'd to the knowledge of such a God, and of such a Saviour. Many have been our failings; many have been our omissions, and neglects, in the performance of our Duty, and in the perfecting our selves in all virtue. Many have been our offences, in Thought, Word, and Deed, against thy Divine Majesty: and many are still our Imperfections. But, O mercifull Father, We beseech Thee, in the name of thy Son Jesus Christ, to pardon us now returning to Thee, with the full purpose of regarding more strictly the obligations of Gratitude and Obedience We are under; and of living, for the time to come, more like thy Servants, and like Christians.

And now, O Lord, confessing and renouncing all our Sins; and hoping for the pardon of all that is past, through thy Son Jesus Christ, as far only as We sincerely endeavour to reform and amend whatsoever We know to be amiss in our selves; We beseech Thee, so to concur with us, by thy mercifull Providence, and good Spirit, that, in the future conduct of our Lives, We may better answer the Ends of our most holy Religion, and adorn the Gospel which we profess to believe.

Let

Let the Experience of thy repeated mercies, inflame us with a resolution of making suitable returns to them. Let the Belief of future Glories raise our Minds above the sordid views of this World. Let the consideration of thine infallible Wisdom, and undoubted Goodness, teach us heartily and quietly to submit our selves to all the Dispensations of thy Providence towards us, as to the Will of One, who hath always wise and excellent purposes to serve; and knows what is best for us, infinitely better than We possibly can. Let the Example of our Blessed Saviour, ever placed before our Eyes, direct our Steps in every Station of Life, and every instance of Duty: and let our Hopes and Affections be unmoveably fixed upon those Rewards which are laid up in Heaven for all who, by patient continuance in Well-doing, seek after Glory and Immortality. Finally, Let the Consideration of thy Holy Presence every where, govern all our Thoughts, Words, and Actions, as under the eye of thy Majesty; and lying open to Thee, our Supreme Governor and Judge: that so our irregular Passions may lose their power over us; and We may daily

daily proceed to greater degrees of all Holiness and Virtue.

We now particularly desire to put our selves under thy Protection, this [Day, or Night,] and to implore thy Fatherly care over us: that no Evil may approach us; but that our Souls and Bodies may be safe under that good and powerfull Providence, in which We entirely trust.

We extend likewise our regards to all the World of reasonable Creatures; and pray for the happiness and good estate of all Mankind: that They may all know, and worship, and obey, Thee, as they ought; and particularly, that All who name the Name of Christ, may depart from iniquity, and live as becomes his Holy Gospel. Put a stop to the miseries occasion'd by Ambition and Tyranny, whether Temporal or Spiritual: Put an end to every degree of Idolatry, and Superstition; Persecution and Oppression: and give success to the labours of All, who study the happiness of thy Creatures; and preach the Gospel of thy Son, in simplicity and love.

Regard, with much mercy, these Nations to which we belong. Pardon our crying sins:
and

and lead all sinners amongst us to true and unfeigned Repentance; that Iniquity may not be our Ruine, or prevent the Mercies We might otherwise hope for. Pour down the choicest of thy Blessings upon our most Gracious Sovereign, King GEORGE; and so direct Him, and all that are in Authority under Him, by thy gracious guidance, that They may faithfully discharge the great Trust reposed in Them, by being a Terror to Evil-doers only, and a Praise to all that do well. Let the remembrance of the great and solemn account to come, engage all orders of Men amongst us, conscientiously to perform their Duties in their several Places and Stations, with all faithfulness and charity.

Bless, we beseech Thee, with all Blessings of Soul and Body, our Relations, and Friends: leading them to all Virtue and Happiness here, and rewarding Them with Eternal Life hereafter. Requite the kindness of all who have done, or design'd, us any good: and pardon the malice of all who have done, or wish'd, us any evil; guiding them to Repentance, and shewing thy mercy upon them.

We

We have a deep sense, O Lord, of the miseries experienced in this World: of the wants of the Poor and Needy; of the Sicknesses, the Pains, and Distresses, of the afflicted part of Mankind. We truly sympathize with them: and intercede for them, that in thy Providence they may find Relief; and have reason to rejoice, at the End, for the Days wherein they have seen adversity.

And now, O Lord, We again commend ourselves, and all belonging to us, to thy gracious protection and care: referring ourselves wholly to Thee for what is truly necessary and good for us, in this World; and above all entreating Thee, effectually to dispose the way of thy Servants towards the Attainment of everlasting Salvation in the World to come; and beseeching Thee to hear and to accept Us, as the Disciples of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord: in whose name We pray unto Thee, and in whose comprehensive words We sum up all our requests.

Our Father, which art in Heaven; Hallowed be thy Name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven.

*ven. Give us this day our daily Bread.
And forgive us our Trespases, as we forgive them that Trespas against us. And lead us not into Temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the Kingdom, and the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.*

2. Select PRAYERS &c. out of the Common-Prayer, for the Use of a Family, Morning and Evening.

Confession.

 Almighty and most merciful Father;
We have erred and strayed from thy ways like lost Sheep. We have followed too much the devices, and desires of Our own Hearts. We have offended against Thy holy Laws. We have left undone those Things which we ought to have done; And we have done those Things which we ought not to have done; And there is no health in Us. But Thou, O Lord, Have mercy upon Us, miserable Offenders. Spare Thou them, O God, which confess their faults. Restore Thou them that are penitent; According to thy promises declared unto Mankind in Christ Jesu our Lord.
And grant, O most mercifull Father, for his sake; That We may hereafter live a Godly,

Godly, Righteous, and Sober life, to the Glory of thy holy Name. Amen.

ALmighty and everlasting God, who hatest nothing that Thou hast made, and dost forgive the Sins of all them that are penitent: Create and make in Us new and contrite Hearts; that We, worthily lamenting Our Sins, and acknowledging Our Wretchedness, may obtain of Thee, the God of all mercy, perfect remission and forgiveness, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The two following Prayers to be used in the Morning.

[O] God, who art the Author of Peace, and Lover of Concord; in knowledge of whom standeth our eternal Life; whose Service is perfect freedom: Defend Us thy Humble Servants, in all Assaults of our Enemies; that We, surely trusting in thy defence, may not fear the Power of any Adversaries, through the might of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O Lord,

O Lord, our heavenly Father, Almighty and everlasting God, who hast safely brought us to the beginning of this Day; Defend Us in the same with Thy mighty Power; and grant that this Day we fall into no Sin, neither run into any kind of danger: but that all our doings may be ordered by thy governance, to do always that is righteous in Thy Sight, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.]

These two, at Night.

[O God, from whom all holy desires, all good Counsels, and all just works, do proceed; Give unto Thy Servants that Peace, which the World cannot give: that both Our Hearts may be set to obey Thy Commandments; and that also We, being defended from the fear of Our Enemies, may pass our Time in rest and quietness, through the merits of Jesus Christ our Saviour. Amen.

Lighten our darkness, We beseech Thee, O Lord: and by thy great mercy defend Us from all perils and dangers of this
this

this Night, for the Love of Thy only Son, Our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.]

O God, the Protector of all that trust in Thee, without whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy; Increase and multiply upon Us thy mercy: that, Thou being Our Ruler and Guide, We may so pass through things temporal, that We finally lose not the Things eternal. Grant this, O heavenly Father, for Jesus Christ's sake our Lord. Amen.

O God whose never failing Providence ordereth all Things both in Heaven and Earth; We humbly beseech Thee to put away from Us all hurtfull things, and to give Us those things which be profitable for Us, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the KING.

O Lord, our heavenly Father, high and mighty, King of Kings, Lord of Lords, the only Ruler of Princes, who dost from thy Throne behold all the dwellers upon Earth; Most heartily We beseech Thee, with thy favour to behold Our most gracious Sovereign Lord King GEORGE: and so replenish him with the grace of thy Holy Spirit, that he may alway incline to thy Will, and walk in thy way. Endue him plenteously with heavenly gifts. Grant him in health and wealth long to live. Strengthen him, that he may vanquish and overcome all his Enemies; and finally after this life He may attain everlasting Joy and Felicity, through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.
S upon

For the Royal Family.

A Almighty God, the fountain of all goodness, We humbly beseech Thee to bless our gracious Queen Caroline; their Royal Highnesses, Frederick Prince of Wales, the Duke, the Princesses, and all the Royal Family. Endue them with thy Holy Spirit; enrich them with thy heavenly grace; prosper them with all happiness; and bring them to thine everlasting Kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For

For all Conditions of Men.

O God, the Creator and Preserver of all mankind, We humbly beseech Thee for all sorts and conditions of Men, that Thou wouldst be pleased to make Thy ways known unto Them; Thy saving health unto all Nations. More especially we pray for the good estate of the Catholick Church: that it may be so guided and governed by Thy good Spirit, that all, who profess and call themselves Christians, may be led into the way of truth; and hold the Faith in unity of Spirit, in the bond of Peace, and in righteousness of Life. Finally, we commend to Thy fatherly goodness, all Those who are any ways afflicted, or distressed, in Mind, Body, or Estate: that it may please Thee to comfort and relieve them, according to their several necessities; giving them patience under their Sufferings, and a happy Issue out of all their Afflictions. And this we beg for Jesus Christ His Sake. Amen.

O God, whose nature and property is ever to have mercy and to forgive;

S 2

Receive

Receive our humble petitions ; and though we be tied and bound with the chain of our sins , yet let the pitifulness of thy great mercy loose us , for the honour of Jesus Christ our Mediator and Advocate.
Amen.

A General Thanksgiving.

A Lmighty God, Father of all mercies, We thine unworthy Servants do give Thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving kindness to Us, and to all Men. We bless Thee for our Creation, Preservation, and all the Blessings of this Life: but above all for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the World by our Lord Jesus Christ ; for the means of Grace, and for the hope of Glory. And we beseech Thee give Us that due Sense of all thy mercies, that our Hearts may be unfeign-edly thankfull ; and that we may shew forth thy Praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up our selves to thy Service, and by walking before Thee in Ho-linefs and Righteousness all our days, thro' Jesus Christ our Lord ; to whom, with Thee,
 and

and the Holy Ghost, be all Honour and Glory world without end. Amen.

O Almighty Lord, and everlasting God, vouchsafe, we beseech Thee, to direct, sanctify, and govern, both our Hearts and Bodies, in the ways of thy Laws, and in the works of thy Commandments: that, through thy most mighty Protection, both here and ever, we may be preserved in Body and Soul, through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

Assist us mercifully, O Lord, in these our Supplications and Prayers; and dispose the way of thy Servants towards the Attainment of Everlasting Salvation; that, among all the changes and chances of this mortal life, They may ever be defended by thy most gracious and ready help, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O God, who hast prepared for them that love thee, such good things as pass mans understanding; Pour into our hearts such love toward thee, that we loving thee above all things, may obtain thy promises,
which

which exceed all that we can desire, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

LORD of all power and might, who art the author and giver of all good things; Graft in our hearts the love of thy Name, increase in us true Religion, nourish us with all goodness, and of thy great mercy keep us in the same, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

OUR Father, which art in Heaven; Hallowed be thy Name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy Will be done in Earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this Day our daily Bread. And forgive us our Trespases, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into Temptation; but deliver us from evil: For thine is the Kingdom, and the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

THE Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the Love of God, and the Fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.

F I N I S.

BOOKS Printed for JAMES, JOHN, and PAUL KNAPTON, at the Crown in Ludgate Street.

THE Reasonableness of Conformity to the Church of England. With the Defense of it, and the Persuasive to Lay-Conformity. To which is added, the brief Defense of Episcopal Ordination. By Benjamin Hoadly, M. A. Rector of St. Peter's Poor, now Lord Bishop of Win- chester. The 4th Edition, 8vo.

Eighteen Discourses concerning the Terms of Acceptance with God: In which, I. The Terms themselves are distinctly laid down as they are proposed to Christians in the New Testament. And, II. Several false Notions of the Conditions of Salvation are considered; particularly, Of being saved by Faith; Of trusting to external Performances; Of the Power of Charity to cover Sin; Of relying upon the Merits of Christ; Of Man's Weakness, and God's Grace; Of Repentance; Of the Example of the Thief on the Cross; Of trusting to a Death-bed Sorrow; Of the Parable of the Labourers in the Vineyard; Of depending upon Amendment in Time to come. By Benjamin Hoadly, M. A. Rector of St. Peter's Poor, now Lord Bishop of Winchester. The 4th Edition.

A Paraphrase on the Four Evangelists: Wherein, for the clearer Understanding the Sacred History, the whole Text and Paraphrase are printed in separate Columns, over-against each other. Together with critical Notes on the more difficult Passages: Very useful for Families. In two Vols. By Samuel Clarke, D. D. late Rector of St. James's Westminster.
The 4th Edition.

Eighteen Sermons on several Occasions: Particularly, Of the great Duty of Universal Love and Charity. Of the Government of Passion. Discourses upon Occasion of the Plague.
Of St. Peter's being the Rock on which Christ built his Church. Of the Faith of Abraham. Of Christ being the Bread of Life. Of the Original of Sin and Misery. Of Election and Reprobation; being a Paraphrase on Rom. ix. The Present Life a State of Probation, in order to a future Life.
That Christ's Admonitions to his Apostles belong universally to all Christians. By Samuel Clarke, D. D. The 3d Edition.

Sermons on several Subjects. In Ten Volumes. By Samuel Clarke, D. D. Published from the Author's MS. by John Clarke, D. D. Dean of Sarum: With a Preface, giving some Account of the Life, Writings, and Character of the Author.
By Benjamin, Lord Bishop of Winchester. The 2d Edition.

An Exposition of the Church Catechism. By Samuel Clarke, D. D. Published from the Author's MS. by John Clarke, D. D. Dean of Sarum. The 3d Edition.

Three

BOOKS Printed for, &c.

Three Practical Essays on Baptism, Confirmation, and Repentance: Containing full Instructions for a Holy Life; with earnest Exhortations, especially to young Persons. Drawn from the Consideration of the Severity of the Discipline of the Primitive Church. By Samuel Clarke, D. D. The 5th Edition.

An Enquiry into the Cause and Origin of Natural and Moral Evil: Being the Substance of Sixteen Sermons, preached in the Years 1719 and 1720, at the Lecture founded by the Honourable Robert Boyle, Esq; By John Clarke, D. D. Dean of Sarum. In two Vols, 8vo.

The Truth of the Christian Religion. In Six Books. By Hugo Grotius. Corrected and illustrated with Notes by Mr. Le Clerc. To which is added, a Seventh Book, concerning this Question: What Christian Church we ought to join our selves to? Translated by John Clarke, D. D. The 2d Edition, 12mo.

Fifteen Sermons, preached at the Rolls Chapel upon the following Subjects; Upon human Nature. Upon the Government of the Tongue. Upon Compassion. Upon the Character of Balaam. Upon Resentment. Upon Forgiveness of Injuries. Upon Self-Deceit. Upon the Love of our Neighbour. Upon the Love of God. Upon the Ignorance of Man. By Joseph Butler, L. L. D. Preacher at the Rolls, and Rector of Stanbope, in the Bishoprick of Durham. 8vo.

A Treatise concerning Eternal and Immutable Morality. By Ralph Cudworth, D. D. formerly Master of Christ's-College in Cambridge. With a Preface by the Right Reverend Father in God Edward Lord Bishop of Durham.

A Brief Exposition of the Apostles Creed, according to Bishop Pearson, in a new Method, by way of Paraphrase and Annotation. By B. Kennet, D. D. late President of Corpus Christi College, Oxon. The 2d Edition.

A true Representation of Popery, as it appears in Foreign Parts: Particularly recommended to British Protestants during their Residence in Popish Countries. Being ten Sermons preached before the British Factory at Oporto in Portugal. By Henry Stephens, M. A. Vicar of Malden in Surry. 8vo.

Two Letters: One from a Lady to a Friend, who had married a Roman Catholick Gentleman. The other from the same Author, to the said Gentleman; by which he was converted from the Popish Religion to the Protestant. First published in 1727, upon the recommendation of the late Dr. Samuel Clarke. The 3d Edition. pr. 4d. or 25 for 6s. to those who give them away.

Twelve Sermons preached at the Cathedral-Church of Sarum. To which are added two Sermons: The one concerning the Incapacity of a Popish Prince to govern a Protestant Kingdom: The other, concerning the inhuman Barbarities of the Church of Rome to all whom they call Hereticks and Schismatics. By Daniel Whitby, D. D.

